32 Cars Of Corn For Ulster

Drought Areas Get Federal Surplus

Farmers in Ulster and neighboring counties are among the 38 drought-stricken New York State counties that have received nearly five million bushels of federal surplus corn this winter, a spokesman for the State Agriculture Department said today.

A total of 634 carload shipments to area counties include Ulster — 32, Columbia — 95, Delaware — 234, Dutchess — 45, Greene — 37, Orange — 122, and Sullivan — 69.

An Associated Press report said the 4,523,800 bushels of corn, used as cattle feed, replace hay, grain and corn lost last year, the severest in the three-years long drought.

Before the grass comes up in April or May, the 9500 dairy farmers in the counties will need another million bushels of corn, spokesman, Daniel M. Dalrymple, assistant agriculture commissioner, told a reporter.

The corn comes from surplus stocks owned by the the U.S. Commodity Credit Corp. Since September, 2,240 carloads have come by rail from the midwest.

Each ton costs farmers $38 to $42, but Dalrymple said the dairymen save $12 a ton on the federally supplied grain.

Milk Supply Steady

Milk-production from the 490,000 cows in the affected areas has remained steady, he said.

Dalrymple credited the State Conservation Service Committee with arranging the deliveries and aiding the farmers during the drought. The Committee also turned down 200 farmers because they had sufficient stocks, he said.

He said shipments of corn were not needed last winter, but only because farmers wiped out their stored supplies. The bare, cold winter and lack of precipitation already is threatening this year's seedings, he added.

The carload shipments, by county, included:

Cayuga — 25, Chemung — 41, Chenango—170, Clinton—34, Columbia—95, Cortland—76, Delaware—234, Dutchess—45.

Franklin — 35, Fulton — 21, Greene—37, Herkimer—106, Jefferson—49, Lewis— 39, Madison —108, Montgomery—29, Oneida —43.

Orange— 122, Oswego—10, St. Lawrence — 79, Saratoga — 27, Schuyler—6, Steuben—95, Sullivan—69, Tioga—78, Tompkins—26, Ulster—32, Washington—96.

Farmers in Warren and Essex counties, also named as drought-stricken, received corn shipments through neighboring counties.

Legislature Is Gaining on Time It Lost at First

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature, which took five weeks to organize, appears to be making up the lost time. Hearings have been scheduled for March 3-5 on the $3.48-billion budget, only two weeks later than usual.

Republican Gov. Rockefeller submitted his record budget Jan. 29, two days before the deadline for that step, but because of a leadership fight in the Democratic-controlled Legislature no action was taken.

All hearings will be held in Albany and are expected to be more spirited than usual because of the governor's proposals to increase taxes, including the initiation of a 2 per cent statewide sales tax.

In announcing the the hearings Thursday, the chairmen of the Legislature's fiscal commit-

Note New Action to Halt VA Closings, Meeting Here

The proposed closing of three New York State Veterans Administration facilities, including the hospital at Castle Point, Beacon, produced action in three quarters today.

1. A mass meeting of area veterans and veterans organizations was scheduled in Kingston on Sunday.

Testifies at Hearing

2. A budget bureau official gave testimony before a hearing of the House Veterans Committee in Washington.

3. New York's 14 Republican congressmen in a resolution charged the closings would cause severe hardships on veterans and their families.

Hudson Valley County Council, Veterans of Foreign Wars announced Tuesday, it was sponsoring a mass meeting of all veterans and veteran organizations in the region Sunday 2:30 p. m. at the VFW Hall, 552 Delaware Avenue, Kingston.

The announcement was made by Council Commander Robert G. Thein of Veteran, Town of Saugerties.

Expect Congressman

Clayton Bruck, senior vice commander of Joyce-Schirick Post, 1386, VFW, said today that he had been advised that Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick of Ellenville, (D-28th District) or his aide would attend the session.

Commander Thein said a form of action to counteract the VA closing order will be discussed. A representative from the Veterans Administration Hospital in Albany is also scheduled to attend.

Thein, Bruck and Gilbert Gray, commandant of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League, urged all veterans whether members of an organized veteran's group or not to attend the session.

Meanwhile in Washington at a hearing on the matter before the House Vetrans Committee, a budget bureau official testified that the decision to close 11 VA hospitals was "good veterans policy, good government and sound national policy."

Was First Witness

The first witness was Philip S. Hughes, assistant director for Legislative Reference, Bureau of the Budget.

He said the closings now temporarily halted by action of Congress are intended to strengthen, not reduce services.

Congressman Resnick, a member of the House Veterans Committee asked several questions of Hughes at the hearing. In his questioning, Resnick stressed that the per cent of bed occupancy as of January 1965 at Castle Point was quite high, 91.9 per cent of capacity. Out of 258 beds, the average occupied for the month was 237.

The Associated Press in a Washington, D. C., report today said the hearings were requested by irate House members whose districts are affected by the proposed closings.

VA Under Fire

The VA announced the closings a month ago and has been under fire ever since. Congress forced a delay until May 1 to let the veterans committee study the situation.

Hughes said the changing needs of veterans dictate such steps as closing older hospitals and building new ones with more up-to-date facilities.

Despite the intended closings —estimated to result in savings of nearly $25 million—the 1966 budget for medical care for veterans is up $28 million over 1965, he said.

Phillips said the VA is in the midst of a 15-year program to modernize, replace and relocate Veterans Administration hospi-

Albanian Try Swamped, 97-2

U.N. Recesses After Showdown Is Averted

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The General Assembly ended one of the stormiest sessions in U.N. history Thursday night and recessed until Sept. 1 after the United States checkmated an Albanian move to force an East-West showdown.

Applause rang out as Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson announced that the United States would agree to a procedural ballot demanded by Albania and would not challenge the Soviet Union's right to vote.

Red China's U.N. spokesman, Halim Budo of Albania, boasted that he had strong support. But a 97-2 vote swamped his demand that the assembly organize for normal business. There were 13 abstentions, of which France was the only major power. Mauritania voted with Albania.

The assembly approved by acclamation an interim budget and the appointment of a multination committee to study the problem of U.N. peace-keeping.

Stevenson, Soviet Clash

The assembly adjourned at 7:51 p.m. following a sharp exchange in the closing moments between Stevenson and Soviet Delegate Nikolai T Fedorenko.

Criticizing Stevenson for announcing that he was withholding the U.S. challenge on voting rights, Fedorenko declared, "The United States cannot set itself up as an arbiter on whether this forum can vote or not."

Stevenson retorted that he had thought the Soviet Union wanted to avoid a showdown at this stage and demanded to know why Fedorenko did not voice his objections before the ballot.

Since Dec. 1 the assembly had been restricted to general policy debate by the refusal of the Soviet Union, France and other nations to pay peacekeeping assessments and the determination of the United States to demand that their votes in the assembly be taken away under Article 19 of the U.N. Charter.

Article 19 specifies that any nation two years in arrears on its payments loses its vote. The Soviet Union, which contends peacekeeping assessments are illegal, threatened to walk out if the article was invoked.

Peking Hand Apparent

A showdown was averted by agreement to take up only matters that could be approved unanimously, without a roll call vote. But with all such business exhausted, most delegates agreed to a long recess while further peacemaking negotiations were held.

But on Tuesday, Budo threw the assembly into turmoil with his demand that the assembly organize.

The Albanian move, which few doubted had Red China behind it, would have necessitated

Negro Is Shot, Several Beaten In Voter Clash

MARION, Ala. (AP) — One Negro was shot twice and at least eight other persons, including three newsmen, were beaten during a clash between Negro demonstrators and police on the first night march of the present voter registration campaign.

Starts Quietly

The march started quietly Thursday night at the Zion Methodist Church on one corner of the attractive square in the center of this west-central rural Alabama county seat of about 4,000.

About 500 demonstrators left the church and headed for the jail to protest the arrest of one of their leaders, James Orange. Police told them to disperse.

"We stood there a little while and turned around," said Albert Turner, president of the Perry County Civil League. "One of the ministers in the group started praying. By that time state troopers had arrived."

He said the troopers "started pushing the crowd back toward the church, but our people couldn't get in the door because it was jammed. When they tried to go around the church to a side door the troopers beat them."

Police and Highway Patrol officials declined to comment on what followed. But there was clubbing and shoving and some rock and bottle throwing. An FBI spokesman said some arrests were made.

In addition to the nine reported injured, Negro leaders said 15 or 20 members of their race were hurt but not enough to be hospitalized.

Shot in Stomach

The man who was shot was identified as Jimmie Lee Jackson, 26, of Marion. He was shot twice in the stomach and was in

Kingston Water Supply Gains At Cooper Lake

Cooper Lake, the city's main reservoir, down 12.9 feet below spillway level on Feb. 1, continues to gain water and is now eight feet down, Edmund T. Connan, water department superintendent, noted today.

Last year at this time it was at capacity, in 1963 it was only three feet below top crest, and in 1962 it was some four feet down. It had reached a low of 18½ feet last November due to a long drought.

Intake now, Cloonan said, is considerably better than the 3,600,000 to 3,800,000 gallons of water drawn daily into the city.

City Pure Water Committee Ready On New Campaign

The Kingston Pure Water Committee, which took part in a vigorous campaign in 1962 to present their reasons why water supplies should not be subjected to the addition of sodium fluoride (fluoridation).

Committee members elected included president, Howard Fox, of 33 Grandview Avenue, a former member of the Kingston Schools (Consolidated) Board of Education; vice chairman, Donald Hastings of 21 Stanley Street former Democratic alderman from the Third Ward; treasurer, Bernie Singer of 245 Pearl St., currently a member of the Board of Education; secretary, John Fitzgerald of 14 Wynkoop Place, former secretary of the Municipal Civil Service Commission and publicity chairman, John Heitzman of 333 Browning Terrace, former Democratic alderman from the 12th Ward.

Citing what they described as "what has been regarded as one-sided publicity in favor of the fluoridation of area water supplies, the Pure Water Committee agreed upon three objectives as their first order of business. These include:

Collapse Of Cavern Ends All

Mitchell's Body Sealed in Rocks

DOLGEVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — The six-day-long effort to drill and blast a hole to the body of young cave-explorer James Mitchell is over—ended with a rumbling collapse of the 100-foot-deep cavern in which the 23-year-old had been entombed since Saturday.

"His body is now sealed in its final resting place," William Karras, who directed the recovery operation, said Thursday night after dynamite sent tons of rock and clay into Schroeder's Cave in the Adirondack foothills.

Father Approves

In Waterville, Ohio, Mitchell's father, James G. Mitchell, said "the cave makes a natural tomb for our son."

"I feel everything that could be done has been done," he said. "The decision to leave the body in the cave is all right with us."

Rescue workers turned to dynamite yesterday after efforts to drill through 32 feet of limestone and clay were fruitless.

Three holes were bored into the cavern, but they could not be connected to make a hole large enough to have Mitchell's body pulled to the surface.

Three charges of dynamite were used in an effort to blast a hole. After the third, the roof of the cavern began to collapse.

Report Rumbling

They reported hearing a rumbling sound.

Workmen conferred with the cave experts and State Police and decided to seal the cavern. A fourth charge, directed downward, sent tons of earth into the cave.

State Police Capt. John Miller, commander of Troop D, termed the cave "a potential deathtrap," and ordered the three-foot-wide opening barricaded.

Herkimer County Coroner Gilbert Upright ruled the death due to exposure.

Heads Rescue

Karras, who works in the circulation department of the Washington Star, headed a five-man rescue team from the Washington club.

He termed the operation the toughest assignment in which he had been involved in 20 years of cave exploring. He estimated the cost of the recovery effort at $500,000 but pointed out that much of the labor and equipment was donated.

Mitchell's father, who said Sunday that he would rather have the cave sealed than have anyone injured attempting to recover the body of his son, said

Leaders Step Up Opposition

GOP Strongly Against Negotiating in Viet

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican congressional leaders have stepped up their opposition to a negotiated settlement of the war with Viet Nam.

GOP Senate Leader Everett M. Dirksen charged in a floor speech Thursday that advocates of a settlement propose to "run up the white flag before the world and start running away from communism."

Earlier in the day, House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford declared in a statement some Democrats want the United States to pull out of Viet Nam and "retreat to Pearl Harbor."

Late Session Forced

With Democrats divided on the issue, debate over Southeast Asian policy forced the Senate into another late session.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield stepped into the debate to argue against equating negotiations with surrender and appeasement.

Mansfield said of Dirksen: It is "a profound reassurance to know that the great senator from Illinois can be counted on to put the best interest of the nation first in any critical situation."

But, Mansfield told the Senate, it was "entirely proper" for Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and George S. McGovern, D-S.D., to suggest consideration of negotiation "which might lead to a prompt end to the bloodshed."

Close associates said Mansfield was concerned that speeches by Dirksen and other critics of Church and McGovern might be designed to foreclose any thought of negotiations, at least in the foreseeable future.

Dirksen, in a reply to the Sen-

More Public Use Of Ashokan Is Asked by Raichle

The possibility of making the Ashokan Reservoir available for greater public use has been suggested by Supervisor Clarence C. Raichle, (R), chairman of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors Publicity Committee.

Calling attention to the increased demand for park and recreation space, caused by the large concentration of people in metropolitan areas, and the seriousness of this problem, Supervisor Raichle has written to New York Commissioner Armand D'Angelo of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, asking him to study the possibilities of making the Ashokan Reservoir available for greater public use.

Sees Much Benefit

The 12th ward supervisor notes that "it is my firm belief that such a development would be mutually beneficial."

Supervisor Raichle in his letter to Commissioner D'Angelo calls attention to the seriousness of finding recreational areas for the large concentration of people of the metropolitan areas, a problem which has long been recognized and which is under study on a nationwide basis.

Situation In Saigon Is Tense

Violent Buddhist Reaction Likely

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Military forces headed by a Roman Catholic officer revolted today against Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh's leadership and, without firing a shot, seized strategic centers of Saigon.

Hope to Avoid Bloodshed

But an attempt seemed under way to nullify the coup, the eighth major upheaval in South Viet Nam's politico-military affairs in the last 16 months. The situation was tense. U.S. diplomats launched consultations, evidently aimed at avoiding bloodshed.

Warplanes circled above the rebel-held Saigon radio station and tanks were drawn up outside it. Loudspeakers warned civilians to clear the area.

The rebel chieftain, Col. Pham Ngoc Thao, 42, said the commander of South Viet Nam's U.S. - backed armed forces was under house arrest, along with Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, head of the air force. Ky put down a similar uprising against Khanh last Sept. 13.

Conflicting Reports

Conflicting reports, however, said Ky was safe and still in control of many of his fighters at the Bien Hoa base outside Saigon and that Khanh was at one of two provincial cities, Bang Tau or Nha Trang.

Thao, 42, and most of the other coup leaders are Catholics, a minority in this largely Buddhist nation.

A violent Buddhist reaction was predicted to their bid for power, which came 72 hours after the installation of a new government in which that sect was well represented.

Accused of Dictatorship

Thao is a former aide of Khanh who, in the late 1940s, served as both a line officer and information chief for Ho Chi Minh in the Communist fight that eventually drove the French from Indochina. He explained "I was never a Communist, but I believed deeply in the liberation of the country."

Thao accused Khanh of running a dictatorship. He said the strong man who has dominated South Vietnamese affairs for 13 months was interested only in money and power.

"No government can work under Khanh pressure," he said.

Thao in a broadcast accused Khanh of swindling the military and the people. He said his action was directed against one man — Khanh — and no one else.

Trouble Expected

It was the eighth government upheaval in South Viet Nam since President Ngo Dinh Diem was overthrown and slain Nov. 1, 1963. Khanh, commander of the armed forces, has been the country's strongman since Jan. 30, 1964.

There was great possibility of an attack by military units loyal to Khanh.

Khanh had been expecting trouble. Nearly the entire armed forces strategic reserve, normally held in Saigon to reinforce any field units in trouble, had been deployed to the provinces where forces loyal to Khanh presumably were still in charge.

These include two battalions

McNamara Hints He'll Advise Change in Service Draft Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara strongly hints he will recommend a change in draft policies when he reports to President Johnson on the problem in April.

McNamara, in a report to the House Armed Services Committee on the nation's military strength, indicated that some modification will be necessary in the Selective Service System because of a growing surplus in draft-age men.

And that, he observed, compounds the difficulty of deciding fairly which young men will be called up and when.

McNamara began reading his lengthy statement on the defense posture at a closed meeting of the committee Thursday. He returns today and is not expected to be able to finish his testimony before Tuesday.

"But it all depends on how many questions the committee members ask him," a committee source said.

In the censored and much shorter — it's still 207 pages — version made public Thursday, McNamara touched on practically every defense problem from jungle warfare and fallout shelters to manpower.

The defense secretary noted that President Johnson had ordered the manpower study last April.

"All reasonable alternatives to the present system, including the possibility of meeting our requirements on an entirely voluntary basis at some time in the next decade, are being explored," McNamara said.

McNamara didn't mention it but one problem has already arisen. Just the knowledge that a possible end of the draft is being considered, the Pentagon reports, has led to a drop in Army enlistments and a corresponding increase in the draft quota.

"While all our experience since the end of World War II underscores the important role of the draft in the proper manning of our armed forces, the large increase in the number of young men reaching draft age (18 years), beginning in 1965, will create a difficult problem of managing the draft in an equi-

City Fire Fighters Honor Coughlin, Carroll Refers to Career Pay Plan

Retired Fireman Francis T. Coughlin was honored at a dinner in the VFW post building, Delaware Avenue, Thursday night, and in the course of tribute to him, a local official promised constructive action in behalf of fire and police department career incentive plans.

Alderman-at-Large Joseph F. Carroll Jr., who represented Mayor John J. Schwenk at the dinner, said that as Common Council president, in the event of a tie vote on the career plan proposal when next introduced, he would vote for it, if means other than real estate tax is found for financing it.

Injured on Duty

Fireman Coughlin, who retired June 5, 1964 at the age of 42 because of disability suffered in the line of duty, was honored by the Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters Association, Local 461, AFL-CIO. He had served for several years as secretary of the association and of the Kingston Paid Fire Fighters Benevolent Association. He had served in the department some 17 years.

His activity extended beyond the local organizations, and he had served in the important posts of delegate and trustee in the New York State Fire Fighters Association.

Appointed to the department on March 1, 1947, he had suffered a first back injury more than a decade ago while fighting a raging downtown fire. It was impaired at two later fires during one of which he had rescued a woman.

Explains Position

Alderman-at-Large Carroll, in explaining his position on the career plan proposal, which failed to gain Common Council approval Feb. 2, said that since he was ill and unable to attend that meeting, he felt he was obliged to poll the aldermen and get their sentiment as to future action.

Carroll also noted that the Fifth Ward post, because of pending court action, was unfilled when the council met and Alderman Robert C. Schantz (R) Second Ward, was also absent because of illness.

If, when he again polls the aldermen to gain opinion on the career plan proposal, he said, and they appear to favor a non-property tax, it must be determined whether a public hearing is required.

If opinion favors a non-property tax proposal, he said, the aldermen could then consider the career incentive plan.

He would not, however, he said, favor a plan which called for raising the money to finance one from added real estate taxes.

Leaders at Dinner

Among those attending the dinner were: Fire Chief James M. Brett, Police Chief Robert F. Murphy, Fire Department Chaplains, the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, and the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church; C. John Bechtold, president of the Board of Fire Commissioners, and Commissioners Edward Dasher and Henry E. Boice, Aldermen Raymond Armater, 2nd Ward; Donald P. Tucker, 4th Ward, Peter J. Mancuso, 8th Ward, and Edward Norton, 7th Ward.

Many members of the fire department, volunteer firemen, members of other city departments, plus neighbors, relatives and friends of Fireman Coughlin also attended.

Sizeable Cut Asked On Dollars Overseas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration set voluntary but painful targets today for curtailment of the dollar drain caused by private overseas loans and investments.

In swift followups to President Johnson's personal appeal Thursday to some 350 businessmen and bankers assembled at the White House, the Commerce Department and Federal Reserve Board:

Called on every company that had $10 million or more of export sales or overseas investments last year — some 400 to 500 corporations — to reduce their net outflow of dollars 15 to 20 per cent.

Asked each such company to notify the Commerce Department in advance of every new foreign investment project exceeding $10 million for an advisory ruling on whether the outlay is "in the national interest."

Imposed on the banking industry a voluntary ceiling for foreign lending. Outstanding credits to foreigners, said the Federal Reserve Board, should be held in 1965 to a level not more than 5 per cent above the total outstanding last Dec. 31. This apparently would reduce new loans to less than one-third the 1964 total.

Began drafting, at the Commerce Department, questionnaires and periodic reports for companies in the $10 million-plus class, to keep tabs on each

Peking Hand Apparent

A showdown was averted by agreement to take up only matters that could be approved unanimously, without a roll call vote. But with all such business exhausted, most delegates agreed to a long recess while further peacemaking negotiations were held.

But on Tuesday, Budo threw the assembly into turmoil with his demand that the assembly organize.

Negro Is Shot, Several Beaten In Voter Clash

MARION, Ala. (AP) — One Negro was shot twice and at least eight other persons, including three newsmen, were beaten during a clash between Negro demonstrators and police on the first night march of the present voter registration campaign.

Starts Quietly

The march started quietly Thursday night at the Zion Methodist Church on one corner of the attractive square in the center of this west-central rural Alabama county seat of about 4,000.

About 500 demonstrators left the church and headed for the jail to protest the arrest of one of their leaders, James Orange. Police told them to disperse.

"We stood there a little while and turned around," said Albert Turner, president of the Perry County Civil League. "One of the ministers in the group started praying. By that time state troopers had arrived."

He said the troopers "started pushing the crowd back toward the church, but our people couldn't get in the door because it was jammed. When they tried to go around the church to a side door the troopers beat them."

Police and Highway Patrol officials declined to comment on what followed. But there was clubbing and shoving and some rock and bottle throwing. An FBI spokesman said some arrests were made.

In addition to the nine reported injured, Negro leaders said 15 or 20 members of their race were hurt but not enough to be hospitalized.

Shot in Stomach

The man who was shot was identified as Jimmie Lee Jackson, 26, of Marion. He was shot twice in the stomach and was in

Legislature Is Gaining on Time It Lost at First

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature, which took five weeks to organize, appears to be making up the lost time. Hearings have been scheduled for March 3-5 on the $3.48-billion budget, only two weeks later than usual.

Republican Gov. Rockefeller submitted his record budget Jan. 29, two days before the deadline for that step, but because of a leadership fight in the Democratic-controlled Legislature no action was taken.

All hearings will be held in Albany and are expected to be more spirited than usual because of the governor's proposals to increase taxes, including the initiation of a 2 per cent statewide sales tax.

In announcing the the hearings Thursday, the chairmen of the Legislature's fiscal commit-

Kingston Water Supply Gains At Cooper Lake

Cooper Lake, the city's main reservoir, down 12.9 feet below spillway level on Feb. 1, continues to gain water and is now eight feet down, Edmund T. Connan, water department superintendent, noted today.

Last year at this time it was at capacity, in 1963 it was only three feet below top crest, and in 1962 it was some four feet down. It had reached a low of 18½ feet last November due to a long drought.

Intake now, Cloonan said, is considerably better than the 3,600,000 to 3,800,000 gallons of water drawn daily into the city.

City Pure Water Committee Ready On New Campaign

The Kingston Pure Water Committee, which took part in a vigorous campaign in 1962 to present their reasons why water supplies should not be subjected to the addition of sodium fluoride (fluoridation).

Committee members elected included president, Howard Fox, of 33 Grandview Avenue, a former member of the Kingston Schools (Consolidated) Board of Education; vice chairman, Donald Hastings of 21 Stanley Street former Democratic alderman from the Third Ward; treasurer, Bernie Singer of 245 Pearl St., currently a member of the Board of Education; secretary, John Fitzgerald of 14 Wynkoop Place, former secretary of the Municipal Civil Service Commission and publicity chairman, John Heitzman of 333 Browning Terrace, former Democratic alderman from the 12th Ward.

Citing what they described as "what has been regarded as one-sided publicity in favor of the fluoridation of area water supplies, the Pure Water Committee agreed upon three objectives as their first order of business. These include:

1. To present the facts about

Viet Loyalists Moving To Nullify Eighth Coup

Violent Buddhist Reaction Likely

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Military forces headed by a Roman Catholic officer revolted today against Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh's leadership and, without firing a shot, seized strategic centers of Saigon.

Hope to Avoid Bloodshed

But an attempt seemed under way to nullify the coup, the eighth major upheaval in South Viet Nam's politico-military affairs in the last 16 months. The situation was tense. U.S. diplomats launched consultations, evidently aimed at avoiding bloodshed.

Warplanes circled above the rebel-held Saigon radio station and tanks were drawn up outside it. Loudspeakers warned civilians to clear the area.

The rebel chieftain, Col. Pham Ngoc Thao, 42, said the commander of South Viet Nam's U.S. - backed armed forces was under house arrest, along with Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, head of the air force. Ky put down a similar uprising against Khanh last Sept. 13.

Conflicting Reports

Conflicting reports, however, said Ky was safe and still in control of many of his fighters at the Bien Hoa base outside Saigon and that Khanh was at one of two provincial cities, Bang Tau or Nha Trang.

Thao, 42, and most of the other coup leaders are Catholics, a minority in this largely Buddhist nation.

A violent Buddhist reaction was predicted to their bid for power, which came 72 hours after the installation of a new government in which that sect was well represented.

Accused of Dictatorship

Thao is a former aide of Khanh who, in the late 1940s, served as both a line officer and information chief for Ho Chi Minh in the Communist fight that eventually drove the French from Indochina. He explained "I was never a Communist, but I believed deeply in the liberation of the country."

Thao accused Khanh of running a dictatorship. He said the strong man who has dominated South Vietnamese affairs for 13 months was interested only in money and power.

"No government can work under Khanh pressure," he said.

Thao in a broadcast accused Khanh of swindling the military and the people. He said his action was directed against one man — Khanh — and no one else.

Trouble Expected

It was the eighth government upheaval in South Viet Nam since President Ngo Dinh Diem was overthrown and slain Nov. 1, 1963. Khanh, commander of the armed forces, has been the country's strongman since Jan. 30, 1964.

There was great possibility of an attack by military units loyal to Khanh.

Khanh had been expecting trouble. Nearly the entire armed forces strategic reserve, normally held in Saigon to reinforce any field units in trouble, had been deployed to the provinces where forces loyal to Khanh presumably were still in charge.

These include two battalions

Collapse Of Cavern Ends All

Mitchell's Body Sealed in Rocks

DOLGEVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — The six-day-long effort to drill and blast a hole to the body of young cave-explorer James Mitchell is over—ended with a rumbling collapse of the 100-foot-deep cavern in which the 23-year-old had been entombed since Saturday.

"His body is now sealed in its final resting place," William Karras, who directed the recovery operation, said Thursday night after dynamite sent tons of rock and clay into Schroeder's Cave in the Adirondack foothills.

Father Approves

In Waterville, Ohio, Mitchell's father, James G. Mitchell, said "the cave makes a natural tomb for our son."

"I feel everything that could be done has been done," he said. "The decision to leave the body in the cave is all right with us."

Rescue workers turned to dynamite yesterday after efforts to drill through 32 feet of limestone and clay were fruitless.

Three holes were bored into the cavern, but they could not be connected to make a hole large enough to have Mitchell's body pulled to the surface.

Three charges of dynamite were used in an effort to blast a hole. After the third, the roof of the cavern began to collapse.

Report Rumbling

They reported hearing a rumbling sound.

Workmen conferred with the cave experts and State Police and decided to seal the cavern. A fourth charge, directed downward, sent tons of earth into the cave.

State Police Capt. John Miller, commander of Troop D, termed the cave "a potential deathtrap," and ordered the three-foot-wide opening barricaded.

Herkimer County Coroner Gilbert Upright ruled the death due to exposure.

Heads Rescue

Karras, who works in the circulation department of the Washington Star, headed a five-man rescue team from the Washington club.

He termed the operation the toughest assignment in which he had been involved in 20 years of cave exploring. He estimated the cost of the recovery effort at $500,000 but pointed out that much of the labor and equipment was donated.

Mitchell's father, who said Sunday that he would rather have the cave sealed than have anyone injured attempting to recover the body of his son, said

Leaders Step Up Opposition

GOP Strongly Against Negotiating in Viet

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican congressional leaders have stepped up their opposition to a negotiated settlement of the war with Viet Nam.

GOP Senate Leader Everett M. Dirksen charged in a floor speech Thursday that advocates of a settlement propose to "run up the white flag before the world and start running away from communism."

Earlier in the day, House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford declared in a statement some Democrats want the United States to pull out of Viet Nam and "retreat to Pearl Harbor."

Late Session Forced

With Democrats divided on the issue, debate over Southeast Asian policy forced the Senate into another late session.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield stepped into the debate to argue against equating negotiations with surrender and appeasement.

Mansfield said of Dirksen: It is "a profound reassurance to know that the great senator from Illinois can be counted on to put the best interest of the nation first in any critical situation."

But, Mansfield told the Senate, it was "entirely proper" for Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and George S. McGovern, D-S.D., to suggest consideration of negotiation "which might lead to a prompt end to the bloodshed."

Close associates said Mansfield was concerned that speeches by Dirksen and other critics of Church and McGovern might be designed to foreclose any thought of negotiations, at least in the foreseeable future.

Dirksen, in a reply to the Sen-

More Public Use Of Ashokan Is Asked by Raichle

The possibility of making the Ashokan Reservoir available for greater public use has been suggested by Supervisor Clarence C. Raichle, (R), chairman of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors Publicity Committee.

Calling attention to the increased demand for park and recreation space, caused by the large concentration of people in metropolitan areas, and the seriousness of this problem, Supervisor Raichle has written to New York Commissioner Armand D'Angelo of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, asking him to study the possibilities of making the Ashokan Reservoir available for greater public use.

Sees Much Benefit

The 12th ward supervisor notes that "it is my firm belief that such a development would be mutually beneficial."

Supervisor Raichle in his letter to Commissioner D'Angelo calls attention to the seriousness of finding recreational areas for the large concentration of people of the metropolitan areas, a problem which has long been recognized and which is under study on a nationwide basis.

"As you know, the proposed

McNamara Hints He'll Advise Change in Service Draft Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara strongly hints he will recommend a change in draft policies when he reports to President Johnson on the problem in April.

McNamara, in a report to the House Armed Services Committee on the nation's military strength, indicated that some modification will be necessary in the Selective Service System because of a growing surplus in draft-age men.

And that, he observed, compounds the difficulty of deciding fairly which young men will be called up and when.

McNamara began reading his lengthy statement on the defense posture at a closed meeting of the committee Thursday. He returns today and is not expected to be able to finish his testimony before Tuesday.

"But it all depends on how many questions the committee members ask him," a committee source said.

In the censored and much shorter — it's still 207 pages — version made public Thursday, McNamara touched on practically every defense problem from jungle warfare and fallout shelters to manpower.

The defense secretary noted that President Johnson had ordered the manpower study last April.

"All reasonable alternatives to the present system, including the possibility of meeting our requirements on an entirely voluntary basis at some time in the next decade, are being explored," McNamara said.

McNamara didn't mention it but one problem has already arisen. Just the knowledge that a possible end of the draft is being considered, the Pentagon reports, has led to a drop in Army enlistments and a corresponding increase in the draft quota.

"While all our experience since the end of World War II underscores the important role of the draft in the proper manning of our armed forces, the large increase in the number of young men reaching draft age (18 years), beginning in 1965, will create a difficult problem of managing the draft in an equi-

City Fire Fighters Honor Coughlin, Carroll Refers to Career Pay Plan

Retired Fireman Francis T. Coughlin was honored at a dinner in the VFW post building, Delaware Avenue, Thursday night, and in the course of tribute to him, a local official promised constructive action in behalf of fire and police department career incentive plans.

Alderman-at-Large Joseph F. Carroll Jr., who represented Mayor John J. Schwenk at the dinner, said that as Common Council president, in the event of a tie vote on the career plan proposal when next introduced, he would vote for it, if means other than real estate tax is found for financing it.

Injured on Duty

Fireman Coughlin, who retired June 5, 1964 at the age of 42 because of disability suffered in the line of duty, was honored by the Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters Association, Local 461, AFL-CIO. He had served for several years as secretary of the association and of the Kingston Paid Fire Fighters Benevolent Association. He had served in the department some 17 years.

His activity extended beyond the local organizations, and he had served in the important posts of delegate and trustee in the New York State Fire Fighters Association.

Appointed to the department on March 1, 1947, he had suffered a first back injury more than a decade ago while fighting a raging downtown fire. It was impaired at two later fires during one of which he had rescued a woman.

Explains Position

Alderman-at-Large Carroll, in explaining his position on the career plan proposal, which failed to gain Common Council approval Feb. 2, said that since he was ill and unable to attend that meeting, he felt he was obliged to poll the aldermen and get their sentiment as to future action.

Carroll also noted that the Fifth Ward post, because of pending court action, was unfilled when the council met and Alderman Robert C. Schantz (R) Second Ward, was also absent because of illness.

If, when he again polls the aldermen to gain opinion on the career plan proposal, he said, and they appear to favor a non-property tax, it must be determined whether a public hearing is required.

If opinion favors a non-property tax proposal, he said, the aldermen could then consider the career incentive plan.

He would not, however, he said, favor a plan which called for raising the money to finance one from added real estate taxes.

Leaders at Dinner

Among those attending the dinner were: Fire Chief James M. Brett, Police Chief Robert F. Murphy, Fire Department Chaplains, the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, and the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church; C. John Bechfeld, president of the Board of Fire Commissioners, and Commissioners Edward Dasher and Henry E. Boice, Aldermen Raymond Armater, 2nd Ward; Donald P. Tucker, 4th Ward, Peter J. Mancuso, 8th Ward, and Edward Norton, 7th Ward.

Many members of the fire department, volunteer firemen, members of other city departments, plus neighbors, relatives and friends of Fireman Coughlin also attended.

Sizeable Cut Asked On Dollars Overseas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration set voluntary but painful targets today for curtailment of the dollar drain caused by private overseas loans and investments.

In swift followups to President Johnson's personal appeal Thursday to some 350 businessmen and bankers assembled at the White House, the Commerce Department and Federal Reserve Board:

Called on every company that had $10 million or more of export sales or overseas investments last year — some 400 to 500 corporations — to reduce their net outflow of dollars 15 to 20 per cent.

Asked each such company to notify the Commerce Department in advance of every new foreign investment project exceeding $10 million for an advisory ruling on whether the outlay is "in the national interest."

Imposed on the banking industry a voluntary ceiling for foreign lending. Outstanding credits to foreigners, said the Federal Reserve Board, should be held in 1965 to a level not more than 5 per cent above the total outstanding last Dec. 31. This apparently would reduce new loans to less than one-third the 1964 total.

Began drafting, at the Commerce Department, questionnaires and periodic reports for companies in the $10 million-plus class, to keep tabs on each

See Long Stand Opening Door on Voting Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., said today the door may be opening for early Senate passage of a bill to further safeguard Negro voting rights.

The two senators applauded in separate interviews a statement Wednesday by Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the assistant Democratic leader, that he would be willing "under certain circumstances" to support a measure to set up federal registrars to register any Negroes who say they are discriminated against by state officials.

Long's further intimation that Southerners may not filibuster against a voting rights bill was regarded in some quarters as a sign that the Southern phalanx against passage of civil rights legislation may be coming apart.

Javits said he welcomes Long's statement as a significant one. He said he thinks it reflects something of a realignment among Southerners because of the "accomplished fact" of the 1964 civil rights bill.

Agreeing, Ribicoff said he thinks the difficulties encountered by Negroes in attempting to register in Selma, Ala., and racial demonstrations elsewhere are exerting pressure on President Johnson to recommend voting rights legislation.

"I think a very large majority of the Senate would favor passage of legislation which would permit the federal government to step in to end the subterfuge and the dilatory tactics now being employed in some states," he said. "The people want to make civil rights a reality."

Javits predicted that whatever measure is brought before the Senate will have strong bipartisan support.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sometimes a movie star's life is not quite as rosy as it seems from an exterior view. Case in point: George Peppard.

A year ago the capable young actor seemed to have the world in his grasp. He had been starred in "The Carpetbaggers," a film with obvious commercial potential, and his life and career was considered in salutary shape.

The real situation?

"I hadn't worked in six months, I was falling deeper into debt, my mother died, and I was undergoing a divorce."

Peppard can now view that dismal period with some perspective. He hadn't worked because MGM wouldn't allow him to, because he balked at reporting for a movie, "Operation Crossbow." He was also rankled by his contract, which was signed before he became a box-office star.

He held firm against the studio despite mounting debt. The outcome?

"I ended up having to do three pictures, instead of six under the old deal," he said. "I made 'Operation Crossbow,'' but MGM added performers like Trevor Howard, Johnny Mills, Richard Johnson, Lilli Palmer, as well as Sophia Loren to the cast."

Now he is able to cash in on his popularity. The cash is good: $350,000 per picture, plus a percentage. He is enjoying the first of such fees at Warner Brothers in "The Third Day," with the romance of his life, Elizabeth Ashley. After a 10-day vacation in Hawaii, he reports to southwest Africa for Joseph E. Levine's "The Sands of Kalihari," then returns to MGM for "Merrilly We Roll Along."

And so, despite a heavy cold and a reaction to his tetanus shot for the African trip, the world looks better to George these days.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON AP Business New Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — New tax relief for business in 1965 is shaping up as a further nudge to keep prosperity rolling.

It is hoped that business will put its tax savings into new plants and equipment and that this expansion will help everyone prosper sooner or later.

Not Spelled Out

The amounts and even the scope of some of the tax relief is yet to be spelled out. But business is either sure of or promised these tax cuts:

—Federal tax rates on corporate profits will drop another notch this year, just as individual income rates will.

—Excise taxes will be cut. Just how much and what categories will be included is yet to be disclosed. While consumers will be the first obvious gainers from elimination or reduction of these sales or manufacturers' taxes, business firms expect to profit through increased sales.

—Postponement of new rules on depreciation deductions are promised. Not every business firm can profit from this easing of restrictions, but enough can so that the U.S. Treasury's collections are expected to drop by $700 million.

Depreciation rules were revised in 1962 and the Department of Commerce reported that corporate tax receipts dropped by $2.3 billion as a result.

But this year the Treasury was to put into effect tests designed to make sure that corporations don't write off their equipment faster than they actually replace it.

Will Postpone Rules

Now the Treasury is about to announce postponement for at least one year of enforcement of the rules, and perhaps outline changes in the rules to meet industry objections that compliance raises costly difficulties.

The rules originally were intended as a spur to business spending for modernization. But the postponement, President Johnson says, should save $700 million in taxes this year.

Many business firms had been expecting this decision and tailored their expansion programs for 1965 with the relaxed depreciation rules in mind. They say, however, that they would have had to curtail their spending plans if the postponement failed to materialize.

Six More County Youths Choose Air Force Career

Staff Sergeant Robert A. Milling, Kingston Air Force recruiter announced the following men chose a career of importance and joined the Air Force in February:

Thomas E. Mitchell, RD 1, East Kingston, (mechanics), Joseph J. Carpino, RD 1, Kingston, (mechanics), John W. Wilber, Plochman Lane, Woodstock, (electronics), Neil R. Bechtold, 337 Foxhall Avenue, Kingston (Fire Protection), Edward H. Cheely, Port Ewen (Mechanics) and Philip Spada, Kerhonkson, for Officer Training School.

Sgt. Milling stated that the airmen left Kingston under the buddy system and are guaranteed in writing that they will be in the same flight throughout basic training which lasts six weeks. From basic training the men will be sent to technical schools to become proficient in their choice of career fields.

Spada will attend a three-month course designed with the college graduate in mind and upon graduation will be commissioned a Second Lieutenant.

According to Sgt. Milling many openings exist for mechancs, electronics technicians, missile maintenance technicians, photography, scuba divers, paramedics, radar repairman, administration, accounting and finance, aircraft maintenance men (jet and reciprocating engines), heavy equipment operators and control tower technicians. The Air Force is accepting for a limited period non-high school graduates, Sgt. Milling repeated the Air Force's stand on high school graduates: Stay in school and graduate. The high school graduate generally qualifies for technical schooling ahead of non-graduates, but the manpower shortage which all the services are feeling has influenced the Air Force to accept dropouts on the condition that they can qualify on the Air Force Aptitude Tests.

There is no obligation in taking the aptitude tests and the results of this test (recognized as a valid guidance tool) can be helpful in planning a civilian vocation. The applicant signs in his own handwriting for the aptitude area of his choice, and it is a guarantee that he will work in that area.

Applicants should be aware of the six different educational programs currently being offered in the Air Force that all lead to college degrees. Sgt. Milling said that it is not unusual for a high school graduate to come out of the Air Force with 2½ to 3 years of college depending on how hard the airmen works, a college degree.

The Air Force offers to pay three-quarters of any tuition costs under one of the programs, while the Airmen Education and Commissioning Program enables the student to attend college full tme while still receiving all pay and allowances of a staff sergeant, with all expenses paid.

Under the language program the airmen is sent directly to Syracuse University after basic training an din addition to the language courses being taught specifically for the Air Force, he may carry as many other college courses as he can handle. For more information on the Air Force contact Sgt. Milling, his office is located at 597 Broadway, Kingston.

Scouts to Stage Klondike Derby On February 27

The first annual Onteora Trail District "Klondike Derby" is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 27 on the Hurley Flats, it was annouced today.

Officials of Rip Van Winkle Council Inc., Boy Scouts of America, said it was anticipated that more than 100 scouts will participate in a competition of outdoor skills which incorporate basic principles of winter survival.

Scout Troops will be representing Shandaken, Phoenicia, Ashokan, Olive Bridge, West Hurley, Woodstock, Port Ewen, Hurley and Kingston, according to Harrison Cornish of Port Ewen, chairman of the Onteora Trail Camping and Activities Committee.

On arrival at the site, each patrol will be issued sealed orders designating a compass bearing. Towing their own home made dog sled loaded with equipment they head out for the next "base camp." Once set down at camp number one they will be tested on one of the following skills: measuring distances, Morse code, fire building, cooking, rope lashing, knot tying and first aid.

Through the noon hour and early afternoon they will continue their trek over the mile long Klondike trail and finally to the finish line. This outdoor event is scheduled so that the public can enjoy along with the Boy Scouts the fun of this unique outdoor competitive event. Access to the Klondike site is by the Hurley mountain road to the rear of the Sunset Drive-In area.

The little American box turtle may live to be about 120.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON AP Business New Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — New tax relief for business in 1965 is shaping up as a further nudge to keep prosperity rolling.

It is hoped that business will put its tax savings into new plants and equipment and that this expansion will help everyone prosper sooner or later.

Not Spelled Out

The amounts and even the scope of some of the tax relief is yet to be spelled out. But business is either sure of or promised these tax cuts:

—Federal tax rates on corporate profits will drop another notch this year, just as individual income rates will.

—Excise taxes will be cut. Just how much and what categories will be included is yet to be disclosed. While consumers will be the first obvious gainers from elimination or reduction of these sales or manufacturers' taxes, business firms expect to profit through increased sales.

—Postponement of new rules on depreciation deductions are promised. Not every business firm can profit from this easing of restrictions, but enough can so that the U.S. Treasury's collections are expected to drop by $700 million.

Depreciation rules were revised in 1962 and the Department of Commerce reported that corporate tax receipts dropped by $2.3 billion as a result.

SCIENCE AND PEOPLE

Up to now, the spectacular successes of the age of science have been with things and physical events: Electrity, the airplane, the atomic bomb, formulating the "laws" of nature.

Although every scientific discovery has contributed to the revolutionizing of man's ways of living and his ways of thinking about the universe, and despite advances in medicine and psychology, human beings have remained pretty much on the outside of the test tubes.

That is going to change, say the scientists. One of the latest to go out on a limb of prediction is Dr. John Turkevich, professor of chemistry at Princeton University. According to him, the dramatic discoveries of the atomic age will pale alongside what will happen in chemistry and biochemistry in the foreseeable future.

Speaking at a symposium held by a life insurance company, he outlined his picture of the future:

Diseases and maladies caused by man-created harmful living conditions will be eliminated.

Virus diseases will be exterminated. (This includes the common cold!)

Mental disorders will be rationally explained and effectively treated by drugs and psychology.

Diagnostic techniques will be sensitive enough to enable doctors to head off illnesses long before they would show up.

Transplantation of organs will be commonplace. "I can foresee," says Turkevich, "the establishment of monkey farms where we'll be raising high-grade monkeys so we can take a heart or other organs and attach them to persons who need them."

Hereditary diseases will be curtailed by premarital examination of a couple's chromosomes—the chemical carriers of heredity.

"The bride and groom will be told, 'Here are your chances that you will have some congenital disease in your offspring. Act accordingly.'"

That is the same advice scientists have always given us when they have handed us new wonders and new power. Now more than ever, men must "act accordingly"—that is, with wisdom.

A LESSON FOR US

For some time, stories have been coming out of Russia telling of drastic, if severely limited, changes in economic policy. The gist of them is that the Soviets have been testing such once-despised capitalist principles as the profit motive in order to stimulate production and indifferent administrators.

Now, it seems, another lengthy step is being taken. It has been announced that by the end of 1965 a third of Russia's consumer-goods factories will also be operating on a capitalist principle. They will produce only what retailers can sell.

This certainly won't strike Americans as remarkable. That's exactly the way things are done in this country under our system of free, competitive mass production and distribution. But in Russia, just the opposite policy has been followed. Factories have been told by the planners what to make and in what quantity. As a result, stores are stocked with inferior, overpriced, unwanted goods. And consumers have been vigorously complaining.

So Russia, even if slowly, is moving toward a supply-demand consumer economy, complete with a certain amount of profit motive. One may be sure that this is being done out of reluctant necessity—it must be something of a humiliation to the Soviet hierarchy to imitate capitalism to any degree, and Karl Marx, very likely, is revolving in his grave. At any rate, there is a lesson in this for us. Our production-distribution system, working all the way from the sources of raw materials to our splendid retail stores, does more good for more people than any other system man has been able to think up.

NO GREATER DUTY

Numbers of members of Congress, confronted with a $100 billion budget, are worrying about where the money is to come from. They also could profitably worry about what the money will be worth.

There is more and more talk about possible waves of inflation. If this happens, the lower income families, who are supposed to be helped by new and expanded federal programs, will be hardest hit.

The government can have no greater duty than to protect what is left of the dollar's value. All programs, all appropriations, should be considered with that end always in view.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

OUR FUND OF GOOD WILL IN ASIA

If the United States is really to be pushed to the ultimate test in Asia, it is good to know that it will carry into the struggle a rich fund of good will in at least some of the free Asiatic nations.

The good will was manifest some months ago when the government of the Philippines offered a contingent of some six thousand men for service in South Vietnam. The story was a one-day wonder in U. S. headlines, whereupon it dropped from sight, presumaly because the Filipinos were turned down.

The offer could be revived, however, if the Philippine Ambassador to the Taiwan Chinese, Narciso Ramos, represents the continuing attitude of his government. In a little-publicized speech in Taipai made just at the beginning of the heightening of tensions in Southeast Asia, Ambassador Ramos lamented that the free Asiatic nations had only talked about insuring "their collective security against aggression." "In actual deed," he said, "free Asian nations have accomplished little, if at all, in this direction."

"It is high time," so Ambassador Ramos told the Taiwan Chinese and resident Americans, "that those nations which are definitely anti-Communist should band themselves together in a cohesive military alliance . . . The Chinese Reds are behind the Viet Cong in Vietnam and the Pathet Lao in Laos — and have been active in the undercover work of infiltration and subversion in many parts of the world, in Africa and in Latin America, besides Asia." The Philippine Ambassador added that Peking's secret agents were busy "in my own country."

Who has been standing in the way of a free Asian anti-Communist military alliance? The SEATO nations, including de Gaulle's France, were supposedly joined together to perform the function of a NATO for Southeast Asia. But this organization by no means included all the natural enemies of Communism in Asia, and it has been moribund now for a long time. The blame for passivity in Asia, however, is more properly attributable to the attitude of the United States, which has not wanted to provoke the Red Chinese by seeming to create any cordon sanitaire between the East Asiatic mainland and Hawaii.

In his diplomatic way Ambassador Ramos remarked that the United States "need not feel alarmed over this proposed alliance of anti-Communist nations. It is a union, not against, but in support of the United States. This, translated into non-diplomatic speech, adds up to a gentle reproof to the United States for having been alarmed all along at active anti-Communist maneuvers by the Taiwan Chinese or the Filipinos.

A "cohesive military alliance" of anti-Communist nations in Asia would pool the forces of the Japanese, the South Koreans, the Taiwan Chinese, the Filipinos, the South Vietnamese, the Malaysians, the Thais and, possibly, India. It could result in a sizeable army ready to fight Red Chinese imperialism wherever it may move into direct action outside of Chinese territory on the Asiatic mainland.

This is what General Albert Wedemeyer has been advocating for years. "White troops should not be used against Asiatic troops," says Wedemeyer, who has warned the West against doing anything that might be construed as wishing to fiight a war of "color." The struggle in Asia is actually between anti-Communist and Communist Asiatics, and in Wedemeyer's estimation, it is wrong for the United States to keep the Filipinos and the Taiwan Chinese and the South Koreans from taking a more active part in their own fight.

An open alliance of the free nations of Eastern Asia would be the logical retort to Red China's de facto alliance with Sukarno's Indonesia. The Red Chinese have promised to help Indonesia put a scissors clamp on Malaysia by launching a guerilla war in Thailand to distract the British and the Americans. In the grisly game of threat and counter-threat, the Red Chinese and the Indonesians have been making use of the old Nazi strategy of terror. The only answer to attempted terror is to wigwag that you are willing to give more than you get. It is good to know that the Philippine Ambassador to Taiwan knows the next diplomatic move.

Lack of Humidity Is Villain Behind Chapping

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The cracking and splitting of the skin, commonly called chapping, occurs mostly in cold weather. Contrary to popular notions, it is not caused by incomplete drying of your hands before you go outside.

The water content of your skin layers is normally 10 to 20 per cent. Chapping will occur any time this water content drops below 10 per cent. This is not due to a failure of your sweat glands, but to washing away and evaporation of your natural skin oil.

Any lotion that will hinder this evaporation of oil and moisture in your skin will prevent chapping.

Lotions that contain alcohol should be avoided, because they dissolve the oil in your skin.

If your hands are badly chapped, you should soak them in warm water for 10 or 15 minutes, then blot dry and apply a thin film of mineral oil, petroleum jelly or lanolin.

In a previous column I advocated increasing the humidity of the indoor air in winter. The prevention of chapping is an added reason for such a course of action.

Q—I am a man, 67. About 2 years ago my legs started to hurt from the back of my hips down to my calves. My doctor diagnosed my trouble as Leriche's syndrome and hardening of the arteries. What treatment do you advise?

A—Leriche's syndrome is an obliteration of the blood flow to both lower extremities. It is due to a large clot, and causes a severe aching pain in the extremities that is aggravated by walking. Most victims also have hardening of the arteries.

There is no drug that will cure this condition but, thanks to modern surgery, the clot can be removed.

Q—Whenever I get an infection in any part of my body my white count drops to 2,000 and I have a fever. This occurs fairly often. What causes it. What can I do to stop it?

A—There are several causes of a low white blood cell count. These include brucellosis (undulant fever), lupus erythematosus, malaria, arsenic poisoning and excessive doses of antithyroid drugs, sulfa drugs and griseofulvin (for fungu infections).

In some of these conditions there may also be a low fever.

The most likely cause, however, is tuberculosis, because in this disease, although the white count may be normal (5,000 to 10,000) in some victims, it may fall to a very low level.

Your own doctor is the best man to track down the cause for you.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Making strong impact upon this capital is the astonishng thinness of the verbal defenses being raised n Southeast Asia on behalf of the United States.

The play is going to the ink-throwing, jeering demonstrators who respond with mindless efficiency at the touch of a Communist button, and to those more thoughtful people who nevertheless see either nearly total error or evil purpose, or both, in the course ths country is following.

In the worst of it, Americans are assassins, imperalists, neo-colonialists. In milder vein, we are stupid or misguided meddlers in other people's affairs; we are vastly over-extended in our efforts to help other nations around the world; we are blithely indifferent to the need for negotiating — insistent, instead upon "bombing Asians" in a way sure to bring on a wider war.

WHERE, SOME MEN in government are asking, are the voices here and abroad to proclaim that there is another side to this story?

Our too-silent defenders could begin by running up the list of real postwar imperialists, great and petty, who have been fraudulently dressng their larger-than-national designs in the language of the developing people's legitimate aspirations.

The new imperialists are, of course, dominated by the men in Moscow and Peking. Even the most gullible in the emerging nations sometimes take fright when they glimpse occasionally the naked crudity of the purpose of those men.

The petty imitators who will fill out the roster of today's imperialists must inevitably include Sukarno of Indonesia, Nasser of Egypt, Ben Bella of Algeria, Ho Chi Minh of North Viet Nam, Castro of Cuba.

Not one of these leaders confines himself to advancing the legtimate aspirations of his own people. All are engaged in one kind or another of mischief-making for which there is no warrant in international law and morality.

Even if they never uttered a word of communism's patent fakery, these small caliber imperialists would, in their callous misuse of honest human concern for betterment, stand convicted of unrivaled hypocrisy and cinicism.

TO THOSE IN ASIA, Africa, Latin America who wish to resist this ugly new imperialism, the United States is today almost the only firm respondent.

It has thrown its men and its resources into the manifold tasks of resistence around the globe with a rough-and-ready nobility that is without precedent in human history.

Twenty years ago this country ended World War II as a triumphant world power almost completely uninitiated in the complexities of world leadership. Events thrust it to the free world's pinnacle.

Green at the game, being as much a collection of imperfect human beings as any other naton, America has sometimes lost its footing at the peak of power. It has overstressed military response, or been obsessed with communism as the "only enemy," or failed to understand the people it sought to help.

Even in a stable period of history, a nation newly come to leadership would surely commit many mistakes.

But America's rise to stewardship is part of an incredible triple juncture in history. The other two forces meeting it are the revolution of the underprivileged and subject peoples, and the push of the militant new imperialists, big and little, to exploit these peoples for their own grasping purpose.

TODAYS SIDELINE sitters, Britain and France, are quick with advice for us. Yet their 20th century record, bracketing the two great wars, hardly tells of distinctive triumph — either in perpetually troubled Europe or the stirring continents beyond. France's ineptitude in Indochina gave us the almost hopeless legacy with which we struggle in South Viet Nam right now.

America makes mistakes. It may try to do too much. But it acts with steady bravery and unparalleled vigor to advance humanity's best causes.

In a moment of crisis when clamoring world pictures of this country are of a wicked assassin or a fumbling giant, it is fair to ask:

"Where are the others who say they share humanity's great goals?"

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Although the current Congress has been in session only a few weeks, it is already apparent that the overwhelming majority in both houses won by the Democratic party last autumn can be overturned at will by a coalition of Republicans and Democrats who may wish to oppose certain measures of the Johnson administration.

While coalitions have been in existence in both Houses for the last 30 years, the new combination of Republican and Democratic votes is not likely to emerge on the same issues as have arisen in the past. Thus, on "civil rights" questions, the coalition is not able to command a majority because the Northern Republicans vote with the Northern Democrats, and this constitutes a big majority.

It is however, on economic issues which appeal to non-radical members in both parties that significant votes will be taken. One example is labor legislation. President Johnson recently recommended that the Taft-Hartley Act be amended so as to permit compulsory unionization in all states which now have laws against it. This is a question loaded with trouble even for the labor unions themselves, which are espousing the change. Once Congress begins to debate any change in the Taft-Hartley Act, there are certain to be counterdemands for strict regulation of strikes and also the internal affairs of labor unions, especially as they approach monopolistic practices.

If such an issue came to a vote today, it seems certain that a majority would be found in the House of Representatives as well as in the Senate to prevent the passage of any one-sided legislation which would give the labor unions advantages they have not heretofore possessed.

There are other issues, too, on which a coalition will make itself felt. Such instances, however, will not be frequent and the coalitions power will not be exercised except on very important legislation which could have repercussions in the next campaign. For in the Congressional election of 1966, which is about 20 months away, all members of the House an the one-third of the Senate who will be seeking re-election will not be able to ride along on the coattails of the President, as was the case in 1964.

This means that throughout the United States the contests will be local. While a certain hard core of citizens in both parties vote the regular ticket anyway, there are many independents who swing from one side to the other in Congressional elections. There are, moreover, many Democrats who were elected in the landslide of last autumn with a narrow majority, and this could easily be wiped out in the next Congressional election. More and more, therefore, the new members will be watching popular trends.

Perhaps the most striking example, however, of the influence of a coalition on domestic affairs was given in a little-noted vote recorded early in the session when there was a technical motion before the House of Representatives dealing with rules changes. The Administration's request was granted and increased power was placed in the hands of the Speaker so that he can force action on legislation. But the Administration motion to prohibit any amendment to the package on the rules question received 224 votes, while 201 were cast against it. These 201 votes constituted a coalition of 78 Democrats and 123 Republicans. The 224 votes on the Administration's side consisted of 208 Democrats and 16 Republicans.

If only 12 of the 16 defecting Republicans had stayed with the Republican majority and voted with the 78 Democrats the Administration would have been handed a serious and lasting defeat, and whatever rules changes were voted in the end would have been materially reduced in scope.

It could be argued that the Republicans on the opening day were in disarray, as they had just gone through a contest over their leadership, but the episode indicated nevertheless that House Democrats in large numbers showed they could vote independently of the White House. In fact, in the Senate this independence is even more apparent than in the House.

One thing is clear—the Democratic party cannot command a majority without the aid of certain "liberal' Republicans, and the customary coalition cannot prevail today unless nearly all of the Republicans vote with the "conservative" Democrats most of whom are from Southern states.

It is not certain yet whether the Southern Democrats who may find themselves up against Republican nominees in the next election will veer more toward the Administration or away from it, but sentiment in the South has changed very little on basically conservative issues. It looks, therefore, like an indefinite period of bipartisan coalition which at least can be described as non-radical, if not conservative.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

It was a cold morning and the Biddy held the old shawl tight about her throat as she treaded the sidewalk ice. She saw the old monsignor walking up and down reading his breviary, the plumes of breath floating over his shoulders as he hunched inside the black greatcoat.

"Ah," she said, as though spotted him for the first time, "good morning, your reverence. It's a cold one, it is indeed." He looked up, irritated at the interruption, more so because he knew the Biddy to be an unreliable gossip. He nodded, and tried to keep pacing.

"Strange thing," she said, and he stopped. "I got up at four o'clock this morning to throw a few coals on the fire and I looked out the front window to see if it was still snowing. Well, your reverence, I couldn't believe by eyes. There was a bunch of grown men running around in their long drawers."

"In their what, Madam?" the monsignor said. The Biddy repeated the words. "Ah," he said, "you were still half asleep. Dreaming, I'd say." She insisted that she had seen the men running in their underwear. The monsignor pointedly opened the book again. . . .

The night before, Lieutenant Cody called the roll in the Second Precinct Police Station for the midnight-to-8 a. m. shift. He read the names under a gas mantle and, when he was finished, he stroked his white mustache with the back of his hand. A bad sign.

"Cops," he said. The word dripped with venom. "You men aren't policemen. Know what you are? A bunch of drunken bums. Free loaders." The policemen, in double ranks, held their nightsticks verticle against their shoulders. Their high gray bucket hats were on straight. The double rows of brass buttons glittered on the overcoats, and on the back tails of the coats. Their mustaches twitched.

"This isn't eighteen eighty," Cody said. "It's nineteen hundred and ten. This department has got to become modern. We live in a new age where the thief—God help us!—is often smarter than the cops who chase him. Now buck up and do your duty and keep on your posts."

They marched out the front door, and they kept straight faces until they broke up into groups, walking through the snow and the hollow silence to their posts. Smitty started to laugh a block away and Shugrue and Tier and Mulligan roared. "Cody's all right," Smitty said. "His intentions are good. But I have a yard of tongue hanging out and I'm heading for Henderson's place."

The others held their heads down against the snow and nodded. Tier said: "1910. What the hell has that got to do with it? I've been on since '94 and nothing has changed." They got into Henderson's and stomped the snow from their feet and dusted it off their hats and shoulders. Barney, as big as a bungalow, was behind the stick and he saw them and was already drawing big foaming scooners of ale.

Barney did a good business. He never asked a cop for a nickel. He operated an orderly place 24 hours a day and he was buying tenements, up one block and down the other. The four cops drank, and drank good. By two a. m. they were so drunk Tier was singing "My Wild Irish Rose" with one foot in a brass cuspidor. Smitty suggested they go up on 9th to Number Two Fire Truck and get some sleep.

All four of them fell down at least twice on the way up, and, when they got there, Shugrue suggested that they take the uniforms off in the heat of the firehouse and hang them on the hook and ladder. The horses were stomping and neighing in the stalls when the cops fell asleep in their drawers. They sat in armchairs, looking like dyed penguins.

Mulligan woke up at 4. He looked around. The fire engine was gone. He awakened the others and they studied the situation bleary-eyed. They looked up the brass pole, and they called. All the firemen had left. "Well," Smitty said, "this is a fine kettle. Mulligan, one of us is going to have to find out where the fire is, and go get them uniforms."

Mulligan said he wouldn't be caught dead outside in his underwear. They got him a fireman's raincoat and a helmet, and they ran outside in their drawers to show him that it wasn't as cold as it had been. The snow had stopped. Mulligan cursed under his breath. But he went.

Five blocks away, he found the fire. When he approached the truck, he lifted the uniforms off and a fireman said: "Who the hell are you?" Mulligan said he was a cop, but the fireman thought otherwise. He called a policeman, and the policeman recognized Mulligan and said: "What is this, a masquerade?" Mulligan explained, and hurried off with the uniforms over his arms, the legs of his long johns flapping in the cold. He was mortified. . .

The Biddy sniffed and went on her way. The monsignor went back to his beviary, shaking his head at the mental image of men running around on a cold night in their underwear. The ladies, he assured himself, are always seeing things that aren't there. . .

SCIENCE AND PEOPLE

Up to now, the spectacular successes of the age of science have been with things and physical events: Electrity, the airplane, the atomic bomb, formulating the "laws" of nature.

Although every scientific discovery has contributed to the revolutionizing of man's ways of living and his ways of thinking about the universe, and despite advances in medicine and psychology, human beings have remained pretty much on the outside of the test tubes.

That is going to change, say the scientists. One of the latest to go out on a limb of prediction is Dr. John Turkevich, professor of chemistry at Princeton University. According to him, the dramatic discoveries of the atomic age will pale alongside what will happen in chemistry and biochemistry in the foreseeable future.

Speaking at a symposium held by a life insurance company, he outlined his picture of the future:

Diseases and maladies caused by man-created harmful living conditions will be eliminated.

Virus diseases will be exterminated. (This includes the common cold!)

Mental disorders will be rationally explained and effectively treated by drugs and psychology.

Diagnostic techniques will be sensitive enough to enable doctors to head off illnesses long before they would show up.

Transplantation of organs will be commonplace. "I can foresee," says Turkevich, "the establishment of monkey farms where we'll be raising high-grade monkeys so we can take a heart or other organs and attach them to persons who need them."

Hereditary diseases will be curtailed by premarital examination of a couple's chromosomes—the chemical carriers of heredity.

"The bride and groom will be told, 'Here are your chances that you will have some congenital disease in your offspring. Act accordingly.'"

That is the same advice scientists have always given us when they have handed us new wonders and new power. Now more than ever, men must "act accordingly"—that is, with wisdom.

A LESSON FOR US

For some time, stories have been coming out of Russia telling of drastic, if severely limited, changes in economic policy. The gist of them is that the Soviets have been testing such once-despised capitalist principles as the profit motive in order to stimulate production and indifferent administrators.

Now, it seems, another lengthy step is being taken. It has been announced that by the end of 1965 a third of Russia's consumer-goods factories will also be operating on a capitalist principle. They will produce only what retailers can sell.

This certainly won't strike Americans as remarkable. That's exactly the way things are done in this country under our system of free, competitive mass production and distribution. But in Russia, just the opposite policy has been followed. Factories have been told by the planners what to make and in what quantity. As a result, stores are stocked with inferior, overpriced, unwanted goods. And consumers have been vigorously complaining.

So Russia, even if slowly, is moving toward a supply-demand consumer economy, complete with a certain amount of profit motive. One may be sure that this is being done out of reluctant necessity—it must be something of a humiliation to the Soviet hierarchy to imitate capitalism to any degree, and Karl Marx, very likely, is revolving in his grave. At any rate, there is a lesson in this for us. Our production-distribution system, working all the way from the sources of raw materials to our splendid retail stores, does more good for more people than any other system man has been able to think up.

NO GREATER DUTY

Numbers of members of Congress, confronted with a $100 billion budget, are worrying about where the money is to come from. They also could profitably worry about what the money will be worth.

There is more and more talk about possible waves of inflation. If this happens, the lower income families, who are supposed to be helped by new and expanded federal programs, will be hardest hit.

The government can have no greater duty than to protect what is left of the dollar's value. All programs, all appropriations, should be considered with that end always in view.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

OUR FUND OF GOOD WILL IN ASIA

If the United States is really to be pushed to the ultimate test in Asia, it is good to know that it will carry into the struggle a rich fund of good will in at least some of the free Asiatic nations.

The good will was manifest some months ago when the government of the Philippines offered a contingent of some six thousand men for service in South Vietnam. The story was a one-day wonder in U. S. headlines, whereupon it dropped from sight, presumaly because the Filipinos were turned down.

The offer could be revived, however, if the Philippine Ambassador to the Taiwan Chinese, Narciso Ramos, represents the continuing attitude of his government. In a little-publicized speech in Taipai made just at the beginning of the heightening of tensions in Southeast Asia, Ambassador Ramos lamented that the free Asiatic nations had only talked about insuring "their collective security against aggression." "In actual deed," he said, "free Asian nations have accomplished little, if at all, in this direction."

"It is high time," so Ambassador Ramos told the Taiwan Chinese and resident Americans, "that those nations which are definitely anti-Communist should band themselves together in a cohesive military alliance . . . The Chinese Reds are behind the Viet Cong in Vietnam and the Pathet Lao in Laos — and have been active in the undercover work of infiltration and subversion in many parts of the world, in Africa and in Latin America, besides Asia." The Philippine Ambassador added that Peking's secret agents were busy "in my own country."

Who has been standing in the way of a free Asian anti-Communist military alliance? The SEATO nations, including de Gaulle's France, were supposedly joined together to perform the function of a NATO for Southeast Asia. But this organization by no means included all the natural enemies of Communism in Asia, and it has been moribund now for a long time. The blame for passivity in Asia, however, is more properly attributable to the attitude of the United States, which has not wanted to provoke the Red Chinese by seeming to create any cordon sanitaire between the East Asiatic mainland and Hawaii.

In his diplomatic way Ambassador Ramos remarked that the United States "need not feel alarmed over this proposed alliance of anti-Communist nations. It is a union, not against, but in support of the United States. This, translated into non-diplomatic speech, adds up to a gentle reproof to the United States for having been alarmed all along at active anti-Communist maneuvers by the Taiwan Chinese or the Filipinos.

A "cohesive military alliance" of anti-Communist nations in Asia would pool the forces of the Japanese, the South Koreans, the Taiwan Chinese, the Filipinos, the South Vietnamese, the Malaysians, the Thais and, possibly, India. It could result in a sizeable army ready to fight Red Chinese imperialism wherever it may move into direct action outside of Chinese territory on the Asiatic mainland.

This is what General Albert Wedemeyer has been advocating for years. "White troops should not be used against Asiatic troops," says Wedemeyer, who has warned the West against doing anything that might be construed as wishing to fiight a war of "color." The struggle in Asia is actually between anti-Communist and Communist Asiatics, and in Wedemeyer's estimation, it is wrong for the United States to keep the Filipinos and the Taiwan Chinese and the South Koreans from taking a more active part in their own fight.

An open alliance of the free nations of Eastern Asia would be the logical retort to Red China's de facto alliance with Sukarno's Indonesia. The Red Chinese have promised to help Indonesia put a scissors clamp on Malaysia by launching a guerilla war in Thailand to distract the British and the Americans. In the grisly game of threat and counter-threat, the Red Chinese and the Indonesians have been making use of the old Nazi strategy of terror. The only answer to attempted terror is to wigwag that you are willing to give more than you get. It is good to know that the Philippine Ambassador to Taiwan knows the next diplomatic move.

In some of these conditions there may also be a low fever.

The most likely cause, however, is tuberculosis, because in this disease, although the white count may be normal (5,000 to 10,000) in some victims, it may fall to a very low level.

A 'Non-Radical' Coalition Emerges in the Congress

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Although the current Congress has been in session only a few weeks, it is already apparent that the overwhelming majority in both houses won by the Democratic party last autumn can be overturned at will by a coalition of Republicans and Democrats who may wish to oppose certain measures of the Johnson administration.

While coalitions have been in existence in both Houses for the last 30 years, the new combination of Republican and Democratic votes is not likely to emerge on the same issues as have arisen in the past. Thus, on "civil rights" questions, the coalition is not able to command a majority because the Norther Republicans vote with the Northern Democrats, and this constitutes a big majority.

It is however, on economic issues which appeal to nonradical members in both parties that significant votes will be taken. One example is labor legislation. President Johnson recently recommended that the Taft-Hartley Act be amended so as to permit compulsory unionization in all states which now have laws against it. This is a question loaded with trouble even for the labor unions themselves, which are espousing the change. Once Congress begins to debate any change in the Taft-Hartley Act, there are certain to be counterdemands for strict regulation of strikes and also the internal affairs of labor unions, especially as they approach monopolistic practices.

If such an issue came to a vote today, it seems certain that a majority would be found in the House of Representatives as well as in the Senate to prevent the passage of any one-sided legislation which would give the labor unions advantages they have not heretofore possessed.

There are other issues, too, on which a coalition will make itself felt. Such instances, however, will not be frequent and the coalitions power will not be exercised except on very important legislation which could have repercussions in the next campaign. For in the Congressional election of 1966, which is about 20 months away, all members of the House and the one-third of the Senate who will be seeking re-election will not be able to ride along on the coattails of the President, as was the case in 1964.

This means that throughout the United States the contests will be local. While a certain hard core of citizens in both parties vote the regular ticket anyway, there are many independents who swing from one side to the other in Congressional elections. There are, moreover, many Democrats who were elected in the landslide of last autumn with a narrow majority, and this could easily be wiped out in the next Congressional election. More and more, therefore, the new members will be watching popular trends.

Perhaps the most striking example, however, of the influence of a coalition on domestic affairs was given in a little-noted vote recorded early in the session when there was a technical motion before the House of Representatives dealing with rules changes. The Administration's request was granted and increased power was placed in the hands of the Speaker so that he can force action on legislation. But the Administration motion to prohibit any amendment to the package on the rules question received 224 votes, while 201 were cast against it. These 201 votes constituted a coalition of 78 Democrats and 123 Republicans. The 224 votes on the Administration's side consisted of 208 Democrats and 16 Republicans.

If only 12 of the 16 defecting Republicans had stayed with the Republican majority and voted with the 78 Democrats the Administration would have been handed a serious and lasting defeat, and whatever rules changes were voted in the end would have been materially reduced in scope.

It could be argued that the Republicans on the opening day were in disarray, as they had just gone through a contest over their leadership, but the episode indicated nevertheless that House Democrats in large numbers showed they could vote independently of the White House. In fact, in the Senate this independence is even more apparent than in the House.

One thing is clear—the Democratic party cannot command a majority without the aid of certain "liberal" Republicans, and the customary coalition cannot prevail today unless nearly all of the Republicans vote with the "conservative" Democrats most of whom are from Southern states.

It is not certain yet whether the Southern Democrats who may find themselves up against Republican nominees in the next election will veer more toward the Administration or away from it, but sentiment in the South has changed very little on basically conservative issues. It looks, therefore, like an indefinite period of bipartisan coalition which at least can be described as non-radical, if not conservative.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

It was a cold morning and the Biddy held the old shawl tight about her throat as she treaded the sidewalk ice. She saw the old monsignor walking up and down reading his breviary, the plumes of breath floating over his shoulders as he hunched inside the black greatcoat.

"Ah," she said, as though spotted him for the first time, "good morning, your reverence. It's a cold one, it is indeed." He looked up, irritated at the interruption, more so because he knew the Biddy to be an unreliable gossip. He nodded, and tried to keep pacing.

"Strange thing," she said, and he stopped. "I got up at four o'clock this morning to throw a few coals on the fire and I looked out the front window to see if it was still snowing. Well, your reverence, I couldn't believe by eyes. There was a bunch of grown men running around in their long drawers."

"In their what, Madam?" the monsignor said. The Biddy repeated the words. "Ah," he said, "you were still half asleep. Dreaming, I'd say." She insisted that she had seen the men running in their underwear. The monsignor pointedly opened the book again. . . .

The night before, Lieutenant Cody called the roll in the Second Precinct Police Station for the midnight-to-8 a. m. shift. He read the names under a gas mantle and, when he was finished, he stroked his white mustache with the back of his hand. A bad sign.

"Cops," he said. The word dripped with venom. "You men aren't policemen. Know what you are? A bunch of drunken bums. Free loaders." The policemen, in double ranks, held their nightsticks verticle against their shoulders. Their high gray bucket hats were on straight. The double rows of brass buttons glittered on the overcoats, and on the back tails of the coats. Their mustaches twitched.

"This isn't eighteen eighty," Cody said. "It's nineteen hundred and ten. This department has got to become modern. We live in a new age where the thief—God help us!—is often smarter than the cops who chase him. Now buck up and do your duty and keep on your posts."

They marched out the front door, and they kept straight faces until they broke up into groups, walking through the snow and the hollow silence to their posts. Smitty started to laugh a block away and Shugrue and Tier and Mulligan roared. "Cody's all right," Smitty said. "His intentions are good. But I have a yard of tongue hanging out and I'm heading for Henderson's place."

The others held their heads down against the snow and nodded. Tier said: "1910. What the hell has that got to do with it? I've been on since '94 and nothing has changed." They got into Henderson's and stomped the snow from their feet and dusted it off their hats and shoulders. Barney, as big as a bungalow, was behind the stick and he saw them and was already drawing big foaming scooners of ale.

Barney did a good business. He never asked a cop for a nickel. He operated an orderly place 24 hours a day and he was buying tenements, up one block and down the other. The four cops drank, and drank good. By two a. m. they were so drunk Tier was singing "My Wild Irish Rose" with one foot in a brass cuspidor. Smitty suggested they go up on 9th to Number Two Fire Truck and get some sleep.

All four of them fell down at least twice on the way up, and, when they got there, Shugrue suggested that they take the uniforms off in the heat of the firehouse and hang them on the hook and ladder. The horses were stomping and neighing in the stalls when the cops fell asleep in their drawers. They sat in armchairs, looking like dyed penguins.

Mulligan woke up at 4. He looked around. The fire engine was gone. He awakened the others and they studied the situation bleary-eyed. They looked up the brass pole, and they called. All the firemen had left. "Well," Smitty said, "this is a fine kettle. Mulligan, one of us is going to have to find out where the fire is, and go get them uniforms."

Mulligan said he wouldn't be caught dead outside in his underwear. They got him a fireman's raincoat and a helmet, and they ran outside in their drawers to show him that it wasn't as cold as it had been. The snow had stopped. Mulligan cursed under his breath. But he went.

Five blocks away, he found the fire. When he approached the truck, he lifted the uniforms off and a fireman said: "Who the hell are you?" Mulligan said he was a cop, but the fireman thought otherwise. He called a policeman, and the policeman recognized Mulligan and said: "What is this, a masquerade?" Mulligan explained, and hurried off with the uniforms over his arms, the legs of his long johns flapping in the cold. He was mortified. . .

The Biddy sniffed and went on her way. The monsignor went back to his beviary, shaking his head at the mental image of men running around on a cold night in their underwear. The ladies, he assured himself, are always seeing things that aren't there. . .

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Arthur Short, manager of the Volunteers of America at 11 Broadway gave me an interesting paper. It is the Kingston Daily Freeman of Monday evening, Jan. 12, 1885. One advertisement reads: "Given away, a handsome decorated china cup and saucer or a beautiful shell slipper, given away to any purchaser of 50 cents worth of tea or coffee at Bain's tea stores, Rondout and Kingston." No doubt such items, if they still exist are considered in the antique class today.

The front page had other advertisements such as for Sampson Opera House, and the Music Hall of Kingston, live show with some 30 artists. Horse cars in waiting at close. The both had the same show, one day only, one on Jan. 12, the other on Jan. 13 ,and popular prices were 25, 35 and 50 cents. They also advised, "Watch the parade on day of arrival." No doubt old timers remember some years later, when live shows used to come to our local theatres they had a street parade and music. Liscomb's Grand Opera House, which later was the Orpheum Theatre, corner Broadway and Spring Street had an operetta, Charity Begins at Home, by the Lyceum Opera Company, no doubt a tear jerker. They also advertise roller skating at the Kingston rink in 1885, with a three mile race, and prize of a $5 gold medal. Admission was 10 cents, and the rink was open nearly all day from 10 in the morning until 10:30 at night, and they mention music.

C. Hiltebrant was advertising his new coal yard, on the dock above the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, and he promised the best screened coal in the city. St. Mary's were having a fair, with a raffle for a cane. Good music each evening by Goeller and dancing, with everyone invited.

This Jan. 12, 1885 Kingston Freeman noted that the weather after the heavy thunder shower of the morning was warm as a spring day. I guess the weather hasn't changed much over the some 80 years in Kingston. They mention the death of James W. Harvey who lived on Ravine Street, and who had been employed on the Delaware and Hudson for some 40 years. They also write about the patronage of the West Shore Railroad which was increasing every day. The road was being constantly equipped with new and elegant cars. Long trains were run and the cars were filled. The freight business of the West Shore was considerably increased, they wrote. Those were the days when the West Shore was the center an hub of Kingston. The two ferries for a while were bringing people to Rondout. Now everyone is moving away as fast as they can find a place outside of town.

Of course the boat and towing business brought no end to financial rewards to the lower part of Rondout and entire city ir 1880's. They mention the Cornell tug, Coe F. Young which arrived at Highland from New York at 7 o'clock Saturday morning having in tow a Kingston stone barge. The barge was left at Highland and the propeller proceeded on to Kingston. At 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the steamer Norwich came down after the barge and returned with it to Kingston. This was also in the Poughkeepsie New-Press.

Another ship building item tells about a number of ship carpenters lengthening the steamer, Hudson Taylor at Polk's shipyard, Poughkeepsie. The steamer was sawed in half just forward of the boiler, and 20 feet were added to her length. When the Taylor was to be launched her carrying capacity was to be double what it was before she was lengthened.

PUPILS VISIT BANK—Pupils in the first grade classes of Mrs. Lorraine Denis and Mrs. Grace H. Graham at the Hurley School this week visited Kingston Savings Bank, where the operation of the various departments and especially the handling of school savings accounts was explained to them by staff members. Clifford A. Henze, executive vice president and secretary, said that the bank encourages such visits and arrangements may be made by calling him. (Powell photo)

Hurley to Have Census in March

Arrangements have been completed for a special census to be conducted in the Town of Hurley by the United States Bureau of Census under the direction of Charles Baker of the Bureau.

The census is expected to begin early in March.

In announcing the census, the Hurley Town Board noted that only "certified' results of a regular or special census can be used as a basis for computing State per capita aid. Since the last census in 1960, Hurley has experienced a health growth rate.

Using the present rate of State aid, it is expected that the additional funds received by Hurley over the next five years will greatly exceed the cost of the census.

The announcement today said that any eligible resident of the Town of Hurley who wishes to apply for the position of census enumerator may obtain an application blank from the office of Town Clerk Raymond Croswell.

All applications must be returned by Feb. 27. The applications will be reviewed by Baker who will then select and train the enumerators.

TV Reviews, Best Bets

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Perry Mason was busily confounding his old adversary Hamilton Berger, district attorney, Thursday night. But behind the cameras, his CBS overlords were deciding whether to pit the indomitable attorney against another old and familiar enemy — the Cartwright men of the Ponderosa.

It is expected that CBS will move the eight-year-old courtroom drama into its Sunday schedule next season, in direct competition with NBC's Nielsen block-buster, "Bonanza," a spot where many shows have quietly died.

In the multimillion-dollar TV-chess game currently in progress, this is a fascinating move. For the first couple of years of "Bonanza's" life, it languished in the shadow of "Perry Mason" in a Saturday night spot.

Then NBC moved it to a Sunday evening, where it perked up and for the past few seasons has consistently been one of the two top shows on television, according to Nielsen's national surveys. Later, CBS moved "Perry Mason" into Thursday night where the competition with "Dr. Kildare" has been tough.

Raymond Burr, who has been playing the title role through all these years, has been grumbling for the past two or three seasons, each time growing more vehement about his reluctance to continue in the program. By last August he had even convinced Gail Patrick Jackson, the former film star who is the show's executive producer, that he really wanted out. Mrs. Jackson, in fact, was considering a replacement for Burr and also preparing other Erle Stanley Gardner properties for television.

Now, it appears certain, Burr has agreed to a ninth season of "Perry Mason."

Recommended weekend viewing:

Tonight — "Young People's Concert," CBS, 7:30-8:30 (Eastern Standard Time), Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in a tribute to Sibelius; "Who Has Seen the Wind?" ABC, 9:30-11 p.m. drama about stateless persons with Edward G. Robinson and Theodore Bikel.

Saturday — "Hollywood Palace," ABC, 9:30-10:30 p.m. with Bette Davis as hostess.

Sunday — "The American Sportsman," ABC, 5-6 p.m. showing an African elephant hunt and pheasant shooting in America; "Return to Oz," NBC, 5:30-6:30, cartoon story based on the L. Frank Baum characters.

Tortured Confession

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Two men accused of spying for the U.S. Embassy in Damascus told a military court that the embassy's second secretary paid them $8,000 for information about "a rocket and a boat."

The testimony of Farhan Atassi, 37, a naturalized U.S. citizen, and Syrian army Col. Abdul Muenn El Haikimi was made public Wednesday night in a seven - hour television recording of the trial.

Atassi claimed a confession he gave interrogators was extracted under torture by electricity.

Some of Natural Gas Wells In State Had Short Supply

(Editors: This is the last in a series of four Associated Press membership enterprise stories explaining efforts to develop oil and gas fields in New York State).

By MALCOLM R. ALAMA
Syracuse Post-Standard
For The Associated Press

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Fortune-hunters are punching more holes in the surface of New York State in search of natural gas — first harnessed commercially in this country at Fredonia, N.Y., in 1821.

The wildcat drillers are spurred by the increases use of gas —and the oil usually found near it—for heating, power and providing raw materials for chemical and other industries.

Cite Many Uses

There are 30,000 commercial and industrial uses for products of natural gas. But much of the gas used by New Yorkers must be piped many miles.

Today, the New York State Natural Gas Co., holds 260,000 acres under lease in Upstate New York for exploratory purposes.

The only counties where gas is now produced in commercial quantities are Oneida, Onondaga, Oswego, Lewis, Erie and Hamilton.

But back to Fredonia, Chautauqua County and 1821, when William A. Hart, a gunsmith, drilled and struck gas at 767 feet to start what has become a multi-million-dollar business.

Signs First Customer

His first customer was Col. Thomas Abell, a tavern owner on the Buffalo-Cleveland stagecoach line. Subsequently, he charged neighbors $1.50 per light per year for gas.

Natural gas became a booming business in Fredonia. In 1828, Judge T.B. Campbell of nearby Westfield built a lighthouse for the government at Barcelona, on the shore of Lake Erie, 20 miles west of Fredonia. He supplied the lighthouse with gas from his spring three quarters of a mile away.

The proud village adopted as its seal a figure representing a gas pipe with five burning jets. The wells petered out before long.

Small deposits of gas have been found in other areas of the state.

Leased 14,000 Acres

Fulton explorers leased some 14,000 acres and hit gas at 1,700 feet. The cost was $1.25 a foot. Gas was piped to 164 village homes in 1895, but the supply soon gave out.

At Pulaski, a company drilled 20 wells, four of them dry, and in 1899 supplied 250 homes with natural gas.

Rufus P. White of Watertown spent $11,000 for drilling and tools and formed a gas company in 1891 with a capital of $10,000. At 921 feet, his four drillers who were paid $4 a day, found enough gas to supply White's house and those of a few neighbors. The vein lasted only six months.

Shortly before the turn of the century, small deposits of gas were tapped at Syracuse and several other Onondaga County communities.

A Baldwinsville field was active for about 36 years. When drilling ended, 60 wells had been completed.

Rome was the most successful gas producer in Oneida County. Businessmen discovered gas while excavating ground for a new factory.

More recently—this month, in fact—Ira Livingston, a resident of Rotterdam, Schenectady suburb, ignited natural gas spewing from a well he had dug to get water because of last year's drought. Trying to decide what to do with the gas, Livingston figured the flame would be the safest way to keep it for the time being.

The 12-foot-high flame on his front lawn attracted many visitors.

TV Reviews, Best Bets

NEW YORK (AP) — Perry Mason was busily confounding his old adversary Hamilton Berger, district attorney, Thursday night. But behind the cameras, his CBS overlords were deciding whether to pit the indomitable attorney against another old and familiar enemy — the Cartwright men of the Ponderosa.

It is expected that CBS will move the eight-year-old courtroom drama into its Sunday schedule next season, in direct competition with NBC's Nielsen block-buster, "Bonanza," a spot where many shows have quietly died.

In the multimillion-dollar TV-chess game currently in progress, this is a fascinating move. For the first couple of years of "Bonanza's" life, it languished in the shadow of "Perry Mason" in a Saturday night spot.

Then NBC moved it to a Sunday evening, where it perked up and for the past few seasons has consistently been one of the two top shows on television, according to Nielsen's national surveys. Later, CBS moved "Perry Mason" into Thursday night where the competition with "Dr. Kildare" has been tough.

Raymond Burr, who has been playing the title role through all these years, has been grumbling for the past two or three seasons, each time growing more vehement about his reluctance to continue in the program. By last August he had even convinced Gail Patrick Jackson, the former film star who is the show's executive producer, that he really wanted out. Mrs. Jackson, in fact, was considering a replacement for Burr and also preparing other Erle Stanley Gardner properties for television.

Now, it appears certain, Burr has agreed to a ninth season of "Perry Mason."

Recommended weekend viewing:

Tonight — "Young People's Concert," CBS, 7:30-8:30 (Eastern Standard Time), Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in a tribute to Sibelius; "Who Has Seen the Wind?" ABC, 9:30-11 p.m. drama about stateless persons with Edward G. Robinson and Theodore Bikel.

Saturday — "Hollywood Palace," ABC, 9:30-10:30 p.m. with Bette Davis as hostess.

Sunday — "The American Sportsman," ABC, 5-6 p.m. showing an African elephant hunt and pheasant shooting in America; "Return to Oz," NBC, 5:30-6:30, cartoon story based on the L. Frank Baum characters.

Tortured Confession

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Two men accused of spying for the U.S. Embassy in Damascus told a military court that the embassy's second secretary paid them $8,000 for information about "a rocket and a boat."

The testimony of Farhan Atassi, 37, a naturalized U.S. citizen, and Syrian army Col. Abdul Muenn El Haikimi was made public Wednesday night in a seven - hour television recording of the trial.

Atassi claimed a confession he gave interrogators was extracted under torture by electricity.

Kingston Trust Bids in Bonds For County Office Building

Thirteen bidders, including banking firms from Chicago, Buffalo and New York City as well as two Kingston banks, submitted bids for the $1,300,000 bond issue for financing the new County Office Building. The bonds were offered for sale by County Treasurer Fred H. DuBois and bids were opened Thursday afternoon.

All of the bidders offered the same interest rate, 3.20 per cent, and the sale of the bonds went to the Kingston Trust Company of Kingston which offered a premium of $15,594.25.

Many large investment houses were represented among the bidders for the $1,300,000 serial bond issue. The bonds become due serially from 1965 to 1993 in varying amounts.

The bond issue was authorized by the Board of Supervisors to finance the construction of the new six story County Office Building recently completed on the former Main Street parking lot.

Kingston Trust Company led the bidders by offering a premium of $15,594.25. Rondout National Bank, the second Kingston bank to bid on the bonds offered $5,719.00 premium.

The following bids including premium were received all submitting the same interest of 3.20 per cent:

Expect Resnick To Address Area LWV on Saturday

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick will be the guest of the Leagues of Women Voters of the 28th Congressional District at a tea on Saturday, Feb. 20 at 1:30 p. m. in the Fireside Room of the Educational building of the New Paltz Reformed Church.

The meeting of the Leagues and the Congressman will permit members of the organization and the new congressman to exchange their views on vital national issues.

The New Paltz League will be hostess for the four other Leagues of the 28th Congressional District which includes Kingston, Saugerties, Woodstock and Poughkeepsie.

The League of Women Voters is a nonpartisan organization established to promote political responsibility through informed participation of citizens in government. As part of its program, it is traditional for local Leagues throughout the United States to interview their congressman after he has taken office.

Says Attendance Deliberate Snub To Hudson Mayor

A City of Hudson alderman has theorized that the poor attendance at Wednesday's meeting of the Common Council was a deliberate snub to Mayor Samuel T. Wheeler, who had called for a special meeting.

Mayor Wheeler had referred to the aldermen as a "bunch of deadbeats who collect their $400 a year but do not have the interest of the citizens at heart."

Alderman Benjamin Murell, who arrived late for the meeting, said, "The aldermen snubbed the mayor because of his constant insults. The people are disgusted and the aldermen are disgusted."

In reply to the mayor's remark, Alderman Murell said: "He talks about our $400 a year. What does he do for his $2,000? Our mayor acts like a kid, when he doesn't get his own way he cries. The Council is the mayor's whipping boy."

As for any so-called insults and ridicule from members of the Council, Mayor Wheeler was quoted," I shed them like water off a duck's back."

The mayor on several occasions has indicated he would not be a candidate for re-election in November. He spiked reports that he might resign before the end of his term.

Principal Retained

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — A three-day hearing of accusations that a school principal permitted harsh and unusual punishment of pupils ended with the school board voting to retain the principal.

The Cobb County Board of Education decided unanimously Thursday that W. A. Geer, principal of the Richard B. Russell Elementary School, could continue in his post.

Accusations against Geer were made in a petition signed by 65 parents. Geer said he was withdrawing a threat to sue the petition signers.

Vassar College Group in 'Peace Walk' Saturday

A Briarcliff College professor, who recently returned from Viet Nam, said that the current American war effort was "self-defeating."

Professor Stanley Millet, who teaches at the Westchester County college, told more than 350 students and Hudson Valley area residents that our main aim in South East Asia is to prevent Chinese involvement and domination in the conflicts of that region.

Speaking before the mixed group this week at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, Professor Millet said that one of this country's main assets in containing Communism was the Russo-Chinese split. He said that the main effects of American involvement in Viet Nam and especially in the recent attacks on North Viet Nam, were to increase China's participation and stakes in the Viet Nam conflict, to increase North Viet Nam's dependence on China, and "apparently to force Russia and China much closer together."

North Viet Nam

The speaker asked, "Why did our government decide to attack North Viet Nam? The incredible answer is that we don't know." He downgraded an explanation that the attack was a reprisal and said that in modern times the U. S. has always stood against reprisals.

Millet said that "The basic assumption on which we went into Viet Nam were false. Since then we have hidden from ourselves all evidence against these assumptions."

The Briarcliff professor who speaks Viet Namese, described a discussion he had with the present head of the South Viet Namese government, Phan Huy Quat, during the dying days of the Diem dictatorship when Quat was a Saigon physician. Professor Millet said that Quat asked him whether he thought the U.S. would give a free hand to the government that replaced Diem. Millet said he answered that he didn't think that the U.S. would tolerate a government that was not anti-Communist. Millet quoted Quat as replying, "Then we are lost."

The speaker described Quat as a "real anti-Communist" who had fled from North Viet Nam and had lost relatives to the Communists. Yet, he said, he felt that Quay held that our policy in South Viet Nam was unworkable.

Russell Stetler Jr., a student at Haverford College in Pennsylvania, showed those attending the meeting films of the Far East war taken by the National Liberation Front, better known in this country as the Viet Cong.

Plan Peace Walks

At the close of the meeting, Susan Finnel, co-chairman of the Vassar Students for a Democratic Party, urged those present to join with her organization and four others in a peace walk against the war in Viet Nam, scheduled for 10 a. m. Saturday from the Mid-Hudson Peace Center, 15 Washington Street, in Poughkeepsie.

Miss Finnel described the protest as one of more than 30 to be held across the nation today and tomorrow, "We who protest," she said, "want to make people aware of what is going on in Viet Nam and of the possibility of world war. And we want to demonstrate our concern with the war in Viet Nam to President Johnson and to our fellow citizens."

Would Add Tivoli

Petitions have been sent to the State Education Department asking that the Tivoli Union Free School District be made a part of the Red Hook Central School District. Roscoe L. Williams, superintendent of the Dutchess County Supervisory School District, said the Tivoli petitions bore signatures of 77.5 per cent of the 303 legal voters of the district.

The perihelion is that point closest to the sun in the orbit of any member of the solar system.

Viet Loyalists

of Marines in central Bin Dinh Province and the large force Khanh led to Nha Trang for an attack on a suspected Viet Cong supply port.

Thao claimed he had the support of the 25th, 9th, 7th and 5th Army Divisions, which are stationed in areas adjoining Saigon, plus part of the marine corps and part of the air force.

The first signs of the coup came at the waterfront near Knanh's armed forces headquarters. Sveral M24 tanks smashed through the barbed-wire barricades outside the navy headquarters and Khanh's house, which are on the same street.

Riding in one of the tanks was Col. Thao.

Planes Blocked

This happened about 1 p.m. Saigon time (midnight Thursday Eastern Standard Time).

At the same time, tanks smashed their way into the Saigon Airport, blocking Vietnamese air force planes whose pilots were not on the side of the rebels. About 10 Skyraider fighter-bombers, whose pilots apparently had been won over, took off and circled Saigon for the remainder of the afternoon. Within 30 minutes all key military installations in Saigon had been taken by the rebels.

It was believed that troops from the 5th Division, based 15 miles north of Saigon, had occupied the installations with assistance of at least two marine battalions.

All Objectives Taken

At 2 p.m., when Thao had received confirmation by radio that all objectives had been taken, a convoy of tanks and military trucks drove hurriedly through the streets to Saigon radio station.

There, Thao said in a broadcast, "This is not a coup d'etat but it is a military operation.

"All the units of the army, navy and air force and marines are contributing.

"General Khanh is a dictator. All units throughout the country must maintain order and security.

"This is the voice of the military-civilian force."

Interviewed at the radio station, Thao said, "We want to get rid of Khanh and restore order. We will see later if any of the present government will stay."

A new government named by Khanh had been installed in office on Tuesday. Dr. Phan Huy Quat is premier and Phan Khac Suu was retained as figurehead chief of state.

Surprises U.S. Embassy

The coup took the U.S. Embassy by surprise. U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor said his first hint of the coup was the activity on the waterfront, which he noticed as he was on his way back to his office from lunch. He would not comment on the latest development in the cycle of perennial political upheaval.

Taylor, Deputy Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson; Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. military commander in Viet Nam; and other top U.S. officials met at the Vietnamese military headquarters with representatives of the coup leaders.

The Americans were reported trying to prevent bloodshed and to straighten out the situation.

The State Department in Washington declined comment for the time being.

One of the first indications to the outside world was a report from a Pan American World Airways flight controller at Saigon Airport. He notified Pan Am in Tokyo that the field had been closed to commercial traffic and a short time later said tanks were on the landing strips.

U.S. Air Force personnel at the airport at first thought a Communist attack was impending as they saw the circling military planes.

All Americans at the field were alerted.

"So what else is new?" said one U.S. soldier when told a coup was under way.

Thao and most of the coup leaders are Roman Catholics, and violent Buddhist reaction was predicted to their bid for power. Army elements still loyal to Khanh presumably would back such an upheaval.

Drum Up Support

During the afternoon, Thao made several speeches, apparently intended to quiet the populace and to drum up support. He said the Vietnamese ambassador to Washington, Tran Thien Khiem, was returning to Saigon to join him in leading the new government.

In Washington, Khiem would neither confirm nor deny Thao's statement. He said any plans to return to Saigon had not yet been decided upon.

Khiem said the coup came as no surprise to him. A prominent Buddhist, he is a former defense minister and chief of staff of the Vietnamese armed forces.

Thao, 42, fought with the Communist Viet Minh during the Vietnamese war against the French. For a year he was intelligence chief to Ho Chi Minh, president of North Viet Nam.

Thao said he was never a Communist and quit the Viet Minh after the French collapsed at Dien Bien Phu in 1954. He worked for a time for a commercial firm in Saigon and then went into government service under Diem.

From the time Khanh came to power on Jan. 30, 1964, Thao worked closely with him. Last fall he was Khanh's press officer. After the unsuccessful attempt to overthrow Khanh in September, Khanh sent him to Washington as information officer of the Vietnamese Embassy.

He disappeared from Washington in December and the embassy said he had returned to Saigon on official business. But informed sources in Saigon said he was hiding out in the Vietnamese capital.

Three weeks ago the U.S. Embassy denied reports that it had been instrumental in bringing Thao back from the United States with the object of overthrowing Khanh.

20 Killed in Ambush

Unofficial sources at Da Nang said 20 government soldiers were killed, 18 wounded and 8 missing in a Viet Cong ambush of a Vietnamese battalion Thursday at Viet An, 350 miles north of Saigon.

Vietnamese authorities estimated that 100 of the Viet Cong were killed and carried off by their companions, but this could not be confirmed.

A second battery of U.S. Marines Corps Hawk antiaircraft missiles became operational at the strategic forward Da Nang Air Base Thursday night, bringing the number of missiles ready for firing to 72.

President Johnson ordered the Hawks here from Okinawa at the start of the air strikes on North Viet Nam.

Communist China indicated it is unwilling to negotiate over Viet Nam until American forces are withdrawn.

No Trace Found By Police of Boy Falling in Creek

A report at 11:30 a. m. today that a boy had fallen through ice in the Rondout Creek near the Dwyer Boat basin off Dock Street, police believe was made by a young prankster.

It resulted, however, in a police check all along the creek from the city line near Eddyville to the lower end of the creek.

Lt. Lemuel Howard joined the tour with several patrolmen and detectives and County Investigator Thomas Mayone of the sheriff's staff joined the search. No hole large enough for a person to fall through was found.

Sgt. Bernard Fowler, who received the call at headquarters, said the voice was apparently that of a youngster.

Expect Resnick To Address Area LWV on Saturday

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick will be the guest of the Leagues of Women Voters of the 28th Congressional District at a tea on Saturday, Feb. 20 at 1:30 p. m. in the Fireside Room of the Educational building of the New Paltz Reformed Church.

The meeting of the Leagues and the Congressman will permit members of the organization and the new congressman to exchange their views on vital national issues.

The New Paltz League will be hostess for the four other Leagues of the 28th Congressional District which includes Kingston, Saugerties, Woodstock and Poughkeepsie.

The League of Women Voters is a nonpartisan organization established to promote political responsibility through informed participation of citizens in government. As part of its program, it is traditional for local Leagues throughout the United States to interview their congressman after he has taken office.

Says Attendance Deliberate Snub To Hudson Mayor

A City of Hudson alderman has theorized that the poor attendance at Wednesday's meeting of the Common Council was a deliberate snub to Mayor Samuel T. Wheeler, who had called for a special meeting.

Mayor Wheeler had referred to the aldermen as a "bunch of deadbeats who collect their $400 a year but do not have the interest of the citizens at heart."

Alderman Benjamin Murell, who arrived late for the meeting, said, "The aldermen snubbed the mayor because of his constant insults. The people are disgusted and the aldermen are disgusted."

In reply to the mayor's remark, Alderman Murell said: "He talks about our $400 a year. What does he do for his $2,000? Our mayor acts like a kid, when he doesn't get his own way he cries. The Council is the mayor's whipping boy."

As for any so-called insults and ridicule from members of the Council, Mayor Wheeler was quoted," I shed them like water off a duck's back."

The mayor on several occasions has indicated he would not be a candidate for re-election in November. He spiked reports that he might resign before the end of his term.

Principal Retained

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — A three-day hearing of accusations that a school principal permitted harsh and unusual punishment of pupils ended with the school board voting to retain the principal.

The Cobb County Board of Education decided unanimously Thursday that W. A. Geer, principal of the Richard B. Russell Elementary School, could continue in his post.

Accusations against Geer were made in a petition signed by 65 parents. Geer said he was withdrawing a threat to sue the petition signers.

Theft at Dress Co.

Theft of an unknown amount of change and a coin collection from a safe at Kays Dress Company, 100 Greenkill Avenue, was reported to local police today. Police said entrance was gained by prying of a rear door. The safe was removed from an inner office to a shop area and was opened. An inside door had also been pried open.

Vassar College Group in 'Peace Walk' Saturday

A Briarcliff College professor, who recently returned from Viet Nam, said that the current American war effort was "self-defeating."

Professor Stanley Millet, who teaches at the Westchester County college, told more than 350 students and Hudson Valley area residents that our main aim in South East Asia is to prevent Chinese involvement and domination in the conflicts of that region.

Speaking before the mixed group this week at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, Professor Millet said that one of this country's main assets in containing Communism was the Russo-Chinese split. He said that the main effects of American involvement in Viet Nam and especially in the recent attacks on North Viet Nam, were to increase China's participation and stakes in the Viet Nam conflict, to increase North Viet Nam's dependence on China, and "apparently to force Russia and China much closer together."

North Viet Nam

The speaker asked, "Why did our government decide to attack North Viet Nam? The incredible answer is that we don't know." He downgraded an explanation that the attack was a reprisal and said that in modern times the U. S. has always stood against reprisals.

Millet said that "The basic assumption on which we went into Viet Nam were false. Since then we have hidden from ourselves all evidence against these assumptions."

The Briarcliff professor who speaks Viet Namese, described a discussion he had with the present head of the South Viet Namese government, Phan Huy Quat, during the dying days of the Diem dictatorship when Quat was a Saigon physician. Professor Millet said that Quat asked him whether he thought the U.S. would give a free hand to the government that replaced Diem. Millet said he answered that he didn't think that the U.S. would tolerate a government that was not anti-Communist. Millet quoted Quat as replying, "Then we are lost."

The speaker described Quat as a "real anti-Communist" who had fled from North Viet Nam and had lost relatives to the Communists. Yet, he said, he felt that Quay held that our policy in South Viet Nam was unworkable.

Russell Stetler Jr., a student at Haverford College in Pennsylvania, showed those attending the meeting films of the Far East war taken by the National Liberation Front, better known in this country as the Viet Cong.

Plan Peace Walks

At the close of the meeting, Susan Finnel, co-chairman of the Vassar Students for a Democratic Party, urged those present to join with her organization and four others in a peace walk against the war in Viet Nam, scheduled for 10 a. m. Saturday from the Mid-Hudson Peace Center, 15 Washington Street, in Poughkeepsie.

Miss Finnel described the protest as one of more than 30 to be held across the nation today and tomorrow, "We who protest," she said, "want to make people aware of what is going on in Viet Nam and of the possibility of world war. And we want to demonstrate our concern with the war in Viet Nam to President Johnson and to our fellow citizens."

Would Add Tivoli

Petitions have been sent to the State Education Department asking that the Tivoli Union Free School District be made a part of the Red Hook Central School District. Roscoe L. Williams, superintendent of the Dutchess County Supervisory School District, said the Tivoli petitions bore signatures of 77.5 per cent of the 303 legal voters of the district.

The perihelion is that point closest to the sun in the orbit of any member of the solar system.

Viet Loyalists

of Marines in central Bin Dinh Province and the large force Khanh led to Nha Trang for an attack on a suspected Viet Cong supply port.

Thao claimed he had the support of the 25th, 9th, 7th and 5th Army Divisions, which are stationed in areas adjoining Saigon, plus part of the marine corps and part of the air force.

The first signs of the coup came at the waterfront near Knanh's armed forces headquarters. Sveral M24 tanks smashed through the barbed-wire barricades outside the navy headquarters and Khanh's house, which are on the same street.

Riding in one of the tanks was Col. Thao.

Planes Blocked

This happened about 1 p.m. Saigon time (midnight Thursday Eastern Standard Time).

At the same time, tanks smashed their way into the Saigon Airport, blocking Vietnamese air force planes whose pilots were not on the side of the rebels. About 10 Skyraider fighter-bombers, whose pilots apparently had been won over, took off and circled Saigon for the remainder of the afternoon. Within 30 minutes all key military installations in Saigon had been taken by the rebels.

It was believed that troops from the 5th Division, based 15 miles north of Saigon, had occupied the installations with assistance of at least two marine battalions.

All Objectives Taken

At 2 p.m., when Thao had received confirmation by radio that all objectives had been taken, a convoy of tanks and military trucks drove hurriedly through the streets to Saigon radio station.

There, Thao said in a broadcast, "This is not a coup d'etat but it is a military operation.

"All the units of the army, navy and air force and marines are contributing.

"General Khanh is a dictator. All units throughout the country must maintain order and security.

"This is the voice of the military-civilian force."

Interviewed at the radio station, Thao said, "We want to get rid of Khanh and restore order. We will see later if any of the present government will stay."

A new government named by Khanh had been installed in office on Tuesday. Dr. Phan Huy Quat is premier and Phan Khac Suu was retained as figurehead chief of state.

Surprises U.S. Embassy

The coup took the U.S. Embassy by surprise. U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor said his first hint of the coup was the activity on the waterfront, which he noticed as he was on his way back to his office from lunch. He would not comment on the latest development in the cycle of perennial political upheaval.

Taylor, Deputy Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson; Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. military commander in Viet Nam; and other top U.S. officials met at the Vietnamese military headquarters with representatives of the coup leaders.

The Americans were reported trying to prevent bloodshed and to straighten out the situation.

The State Department in Washington declined comment for the time being.

One of the first indications to the outside world was a report from a Pan American World Airways flight controller at Saigon Airport. He notified Pan Am in Tokyo that the field had been closed to commercial traffic and a short time later said tanks were on the landing strips.

U.S. Air Force personnel at the airport at first thought a Communist attack was impending as they saw the circling military planes.

All Americans at the field were alerted.

"So what else is new?" said one U.S. soldier when told a coup was under way.

Thao and most of the coup leaders are Roman Catholics, and violent Buddhist reaction was predicted to their bid for power. Army elements still loyal to Khanh presumably would back such an upheaval.

Drum Up Support

During the afternoon, Thao made several speeches, apparently intended to quiet the populace and to drum up support. He said the Vietnamese ambassador to Washington,Tran Thien Khiem, was returning to Saigon to join him in leading the new government.

In Washington, Khiem would neither confirm nor deny Thao's statement. He said any plans to return to Saigon had not yet been decided upon.

Khiem said the coup came as no surprise to him. A prominent Buddhist, he is a former defense minister and chief of staff of the Vietnamese armed forces.

Thao, 42, fought with the Communist Viet Minh during the Vietnamese war against the French. For a year he was intelligence chief to Ho Chi Minh, president of North Viet Nam.

Thao said he was never a Communist and quit the Viet Minh after the French collapsed at Dien Bien Phu in 1954. He worked for a time for a commercial firm in Saigon and then went into government service under Diem.

From the time Khanh came to power on Jan. 30, 1964, Thao worked closely with him. Last fall he was Khanh's press officer. After the unsuccessful attempt to overthrow Khanh in September, Khanh sent him to Washington as information officer of the Vietnamese Embassy.

He disappeared from Washington in December and the embassy said he had returned to Saigon on official business. But informed sources in Saigon said he was hiding out in the Vietnamese capital.

Three weeks ago the U.S. Embassy denied reports that it had been instrumental in bringing Thao back from the United States with the object of overthrowing Khanh.

20 Killed in Ambush

Unofficial sources at Da Nang said 20 government soldiers were killed, 18 wounded and 8 missing in a Viet Cong ambush of a Vietnamese battalion Thursday at Viet An, 350 miles north of Saigon.

Vietnamese authorities estimated that 100 of the Viet Cong were killed and carried off by their companions, but this could not be confirmed.

A second battery of U.S. Marines Corps Hawk antiaircraft missiles became operational at the strategic forward Da Nang Air Base Thursday night, bringing the number of missiles ready for firing to 72.

President Johnson ordered the Hawks here from Okinawa at the start of the air strikes on North Viet Nam.

No Trace Found By Police of Boy Falling in Creek

A report at 11:30 a. m. today that a boy had fallen through ice in the Rondout Creek near the Dwyer Boat basin off Dock Street, police believe was made by a young prankster.

It resulted, however, in a police check all along the creek from the city line near Eddyville to the lower end of the creek.

Lt. Lemuel Howard joined the tour with several patrolmen and detectives and County Investigator Thomas Mayone of the sheriff's staff joined the search. No hole large enough for a person to fall through was found.

Sgt. Bernard Fowler, who received the call at headquarters, said the voice was apparently that of a youngster.

Alarm Out for Man

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A 13-state alarm has gone out for a 25-year-old man who, police say, robbed the city treasurer's office of more than $299,000 last Dec. 29.

Police Commissioner William H. Schneider said Thursday a warrant was issued charging Pascal Calabrese with first-degree robbery in connection with the theft. Calabrese's last known address was North Tonawanda.

Two men robbed the city treasurer in City Hall of $299,130, of which approximately $16,245 was in cash and the rest in checks.

Woman Hurt in Crash

Helen E. Ricks, 67, of Rt. 3, Box 75, Saugerties, was injured at 1:45 p. m. Thursday, when her car went out of control on Old Kings Highway, Town of Saugerties, and hit several small trees, according to Kingston state police. Trooper Donald Alder reported the car was traveling south when it failed to negotiate a left curve and veered off the pavement into the trees. The driver sustained bruises of the legs, Trooper Robert Houghtaling reported.

Duplicate Bills Cost Thousands in State Taxes

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—An individual voices loud concern if he is billed more than once for a single purchase, but the Legislature is receiving hundreds of duplicate bills of another type — proposed laws.

And these, like those monthly statements, are costing taxpayers thousands of dollars annually.

So far this year, more than 4,000 bills have been introduced in the Senate and Assembly, but about 1,700 of them are identical copies of bills that already have been filed.

The cost of having bills printed is $12.32 a page. Figuring the duplicates at one page per bill—some proposals run more than 20 pages—the cost through duplication would amount to nearly $21,000.

One legislator has introduced more than 100 bills filed in previous years. An assemblyman has presented 23 bills already filed by another member of his house in addition to 11 introduced in the Senate.

The same assemblyman introduced one 22-page bill twice. This duplication represented a loss of $271.

Why the duplication?

One reason appears to be the desire of lawmakers to have their names on popular legislation.

A common practice is for a legislator to delete from a bill the name of the previous sponsor, inscribe his own name and introduce the measure as his own.

Deaths

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Paul J. Sachs, 86, a former New York banker and later a professor of fine arts at Harvard University, died Thursday.

COLRAIN, Mass. (AP) — Robert J. Hull, 63, retired president of Cities Service Oil Co. of Canada, died Thursday while shoveling snow near his farm home.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Mrs. Joseph Cummings Chase, 83, widow of a famous portrait painter, died Thursday, 33 days after her husband's death.

Alarm Out for Man

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A 13-state alarm has gone out for a 25-year-old man who, police say, robbed the city treasurer's office of more than $299,000 last Dec. 29.

Police Commissioner William H. Schneider said Thursday a warrant was issued charging Pascal Calabrese with first-degree robbery in connection with the theft. Calabrese's last known address was North Tonawanda.

Two men robbed the city treasurer in City Hall of $299,130, of which approximately $16,245 was in cash and the rest in checks.

Woman Hurt in Crash

Helen E. Ricks, 67, of Rt. 3, Box 75, Saugerties, was injured at 1:45 p. m. Thursday, when her car went out of control on Old Kings Highway, Town of Saugerties, and hit several small trees, according to Kingston state police. Trooper Donald Alder reported the car was traveling south when it failed to negotiate a left curve and veered off the pavement into the trees. The driver sustained bruises of the legs, Trooper Robert Houghtaling reported.

Duplicate Bills Cost Thousands in State Taxes

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—An individual voices loud concern if he is billed more than once for a single purchase, but the Legislature is receiving hundreds of duplicate bills of another type — proposed laws.

And these, like those monthly statements, are costing taxpayers thousands of dollars annually.

So far this year, more than 4,000 bills have been introduced in the Senate and Assembly, but about 1,700 of them are identical copies of bills that already have been filed.

The cost of having bills printed is $12.32 a page. Figuring the duplicates at one page per bill—some proposals run more than 20 pages—the cost through duplication would amount to nearly $21,000.

One legislator has introduced more than 100 bills filed in previous years. An assemblyman has presented 23 bills already filed by another member of his house in addition to 11 introduced in the Senate.

The same assemblyman introduced one 22-page bill twice. This duplication represented a loss of $271.

Why the duplication?

One reason appears to be the desire of lawmakers to have their names on popular legislation.

Situation in Richmond, Ind.

One of First Dial Cities Cut to Emergency Service

By DICK REYNOLDS
The Richmond Palladium-Item

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP) — This city of 44,000, which boasted one of the nation's first dial telephone systems in 1907, has gone three weeks with telephone service ranging from dead silence to makeshift party lines limited to emergency calls.

An insurance agent commented: "It's the first time I've had any peace for years."

Teenagers found they could convey most vital information to one another at school, without gluing themselves to the phone a couple of hours each night.

Not one housewife had to climb out of the tub and inform a telephone salesman she wasn't interested in new siding on the house, or buying more magazines.

Will Be Glad

With all that, Richmond's citizens will be glad when the General Telephone Co. restores the normal service that was stopped abruptly Feb. 4 by a $1-million fire in a switching center.

The last normally completed call was to the Fire Department. One to the company's general managers, William Rigdon, was stopped in the middle when the connection melted.

Richmond quickly realized the telephone blackout wasn't simply a matter of uninterrupted naps and undisturbed households. Suppose the house caught fire, you heard a burglar at the window, the baby became desperately ill, or a business emergency came up?

Emergency Measures

With 18,000 telephones dead, officials realized they had a potentially dangerous situation on their hands.

General Telephone, aided by rival Bell companies, threw all of its resources into restoring emergency services — but it was radio that prevented inconvenience from becoming tragedy in the early days of Indiana's biggest communications blackout.

Companies which used radio to direct taxicabs, fuel trucks and other business vehicles, sent them to strategic locations. Radio-equipped local and state police cars went to hospitals, police and fire stations.

Amateur and citizens band radio operators manned strategic points.

Use Radios

A radio communications center in the city building received all flashes on fires, imminent births and other emergencies and relayed them to appropriate departments, by radio, auto or runners.

The telephone company first hooked in the Police Station, Fire Department and hospital to emergency switchboards. It then spotted free telephone booths around the city.

By last Monday, it had all private phones on a temporary network of four-party lines. A special temporary telephone book was published as a supplement of the Palladium-Item newspaper.

The threat of castastrophe was over. But more than 300 men and women from 14 states will be working until midsummer before regular dial service is restored.

Negro Is Shot

critical condition in a Selma hospital.

Five other Negroes were hospitalized in Selma.

Richard G. Valeriani, an NBC correspondent, was clubbed on the head and taken to the Perry County Hospital at Marion. Six stitches were needed for a wound at the base of his skull.

UPI Men Injured

Two United Press International men also were injured. Pete Fisher, a photographer, said he got "a pretty good working over" and his camera was smashed. Reggie Smith, a newsfilm cameraman, said he was hit in the ribs and his camera broken.

Turner said that Orange was arrested earlier in the day on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Orange and Turner had been leading the voter registration drive.

In Washington, an FBI spokesman said the FBI would investigate, if called upon to do so by the Civil Rights Commission, and make a report on the facts to the Justice Department.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said he sent a telegram to Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach asking for federal protection of citizens in Marion.

William R. McAndrew, executive vice president of NBC, sent a telegram to Gov. George Wallace of Alabama asking him to direct all law enforcement agencies in Perry County and Marion to capture the person or persons who injured correspondent Valeriani.

The voter registration campaign, which began in Selma and spread here, is now in its fifth week. More than 3,000 Negroes have been arrested, most of them in Selma, which is about 50 miles to the east.

Trailer Heavily Damaged by Fire

While the occupants of a mobile home on Herdman Road, Phoenicia, were shopping for a can of fuel oil Thursday afternoon, fire broke out in the trailer and caused heavy damage before firemen quelled the flames.

According to reports the fire occurred in a mobile home occupied by a man identified as Amico, who had gone to a local store to purchase gasoline. On his return home with another man, it was said, Amico discovered the trailer in flames.

He drove about two miles back to the center of the community and notified firemen, who responded in command of Chief M. C. Jones. When firemen arrived most of the home was involved in fire.

Fire officials said the blaze apparently started from an oil space heater.

Man Is Jailed On Charge of Threatening Son

Arrested on a charge of first degree assault on Thursday, accused of threatening his son with a 16-gauge shotgun, Malcolm Lyons Sr., 50, of RD 4, Binnewater, waived preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Daniel McMonagle, Town of Rosendale.

Lyons was committed to the Ulster County jail to await grand jury action.

State Police Sergeant Joseph Ellsworth, Trooper David Wachtel and Chief Constable Harold Bowers of the Town of Rosendale made the arrest.

Trooper Robert Houghtaling said the complaint was made by Malcolm Lyons Jr., who told authorities his father threatened him and then placed the loaded shotgun against his stomach.

GOP Strongly

ate speeches Church and McGovern made Wednesday, said: "If we don't man the ramparts of freedom on our outer defense line from Korea to South Viet Nam, we'll inevitably be facing the enemy on the inner line from Alaska to Hawaii."

"To negotiate in South Vie Nam while Communist aggression is spreading throughout the entire Southeast Asia peninsula," Dirksen declared, "is like a man trying to paint his front porch while his house is on fire."

Fears Weakness Sign

Dirksen told a reporter he is trying to "put a stop to this negotiation talk" in this country for fear it will be inerpreted by Communists and non-Communists as a sign of weakness.

"I don't think we should even talk about it at all until there is some good faith evidence from the Communists that they will keep the agreements they already have made on Southeast Asia. "You don't hear the Communists talking about negotiations."

Both McGovern and Church took the floor later in the day to reply to Dirksen.

"I regard his remarks," McGovern said of the Republican leader, "as good oratory and bad logic. I have never advocated running up a white flag and I don't advocate it now.

"But neither do I believe that every problem in the world can be solved by bigger wars or even by waving the American flag on the floor of the United States Senate."

Won't Be Senators

McGovern went on to say:

"It doesn't require any particular bravery to stand on the floor of the Senate and urge our boys in Viet Nam to fight harder, and if this war mushrooms into a major conflict and a hundred thousand Americans are killed, it won't be United States senators who die."

Church said Dirksen "is a fine patriot, but he's no better patriot than any other members of this body" and called the white flag charge "contrary to the facts." He added he saw no purpose in questioning the courage of those who would find a political, rather than a military solution, in Southeast Asia.

Church said the Republicans gave enthuiastic support to President Harry S. Truman's decision to enter the war in Korea, but when the casualty lists began to grow and the going got tough it quickly became "Mr. Truman's war" and the principal campaign issue of the Republicans in 1952.

Legislature . . .

tees, Sen. Samuel L. Greenberg of Brooklyn and Assemblyman John T. Satriale of the Bronx, said persons wishing to speak at the meetings should file a written request with the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, specifying the day on with they wish to appear.

The Legislature is in recess until Monday, but in another development at the Capitol Thursday:

Assemblyman Edwyn E. Mason, R-Delaware, sponsored a bill calling for a state study of the feasibility of an express highway linking Route 20 from a point north of Cooperstown and Route 17 near Roscoe in Sullivan County.

Plea Interrupts Trial

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A 32-year-old man, accused of shooting a woman a year ago Christmas Eve, has pleaded guilty to first-degree manslaughter.

Willie Ray Salter interrupted his trial Thursday in Erie County Court before Judge Frederick M. Marshall and a jury to enter the plea. He had been charged with first-degree murder in the shooting of Mrs. Nancy Wormack, 27, Dec. 24, 1963.

Judge Marshall set March 15 for sentencing.

Chest to Elect Officers at Dinner Meeting

The Ulster County Community Chest Nominating Committee announced today that the following candidates are favored for election to the board of directors at the Chest's annual dinner-meeting slated for 7:15 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 23, at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Nominated by the committee for two year terms, expiring in 1967, are: Joseph J. Benjamin, Edwin B. Bolz, Milton M. Grover Jr., MD; Daniel E. Fitzsimmons; the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, Thomas J. Mitchell, Robert M. Schnitzer, Herman J. Eatton, Wayne S. Cattlett, Harry C. Scarpati, Nathan A. Aaron.

For a one-year term, expiring in 1966, Sam S. Fratoni has been nominated.

For president, term expiring in 1966, Joseph J. Benjamin has been nominated. Robert M. Schnitzer is renominated as treasurer.

The current Nominating Committee is composed of Arthur B. Ewig, Albert C. Flanagan, Harry C. Kapreilian, Ernest Le Fevre and chairman William H. Hobbs.

The new committee to be nominated is Dale B. Lake, William R. Stall, Richard M. Kalish, Robert B. O'Reilly and George Svirsky.

The principal speaker for the Tuesday meeting is Hollis S. Ingraham MD, New York State commissioner of health.

The public is invited to attend the meeting. Since it is a dinner meeting, however, participation is by reservation only.

Cornell Seeking DA Drug Probe

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Cornell University revealed today it had asked the district attorney's office to investigate the use of marijuana by some members of the student body.

James A. Perkins, Cornell president, said the university "viewed with the utmost concern the availability of marijuana in our community and its use by even a few students."

Neither Perkins or Dist. Atty. Richard M. Thaler would reveal any details of the case.

Katrine Sidetrack Removal Okayed

ALBANY, Feb. 19—The Public Service Commission today authorized New York Central Railroad to discontinue the handling of carload freight at Lake Katrine, Ulster County, and to remove the team track there. The action was taken after it was determined that no freight shipments have been handled at Lake Katrine for many years and that no future business is anticipated there.

The Lake Katrine station has been on a non-agency carload-only basis since 1950. The former station building is now used as the local postoffice. The only remaining rail facility there is the siding.

In asking for permission to discontinue this sidetrack, the railroad said a grant of its petition would enable it to dispense with unnecessary facilities and to save maintenance expenses.

Resnick Would Extend Hudson Scenic Bill

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick has introduced an ammended version of Congressman Richard L. Ottinger's Hudson Highland's National Scenic Riverways Bill in the House of Representatives.

Rep. Resnick's amended bill includes Dutchess, Ulster, Columbia, and Greene Counties and would give the secretary of the interior the power to preserve and rehabilitate the river and its shore areas from Yonkers to the northern Columbia County line on the eastern bank and from New York-New Jersey line to the northern Greene C[illegible]ty line on the western bank. Previously the bill only covered the Hudson River valley as far north as Newburgh and Beacon.

$20,000,000 Ceiling

The bill would authorize the secretary of the interior to spend up to $20,000,000 to aid local communities in protecting, rehabilitating and developing the Hudson's shores. The riverway extends on each side about one mile in from the river and covers all the visible shorelines of the Hudson.

Under the bill the secretary of the interior would be authorized to take steps to protect the Hudson Valley. However, his powers to acquire land be limited and he would be directed to cooperate with state agencies and local communities in making any plans.

Rep. Resnick, commenting on the ammended bill, said today, "Congressman Ottinger and I met on this subject and we both agreed it would be useful and advantageous to amend his bill to include portions of the 28th District. We are hopeful the bill will receive adequate consideration on the floor of the house this session. It is a bill which has been needed for many years and I am most happy to join with my colleague in working for its passage."

Reports Zenith Heir No Suicide

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — If Eugene McDonald's death wasn't suicide — who murdered him?

Sheriff Waldon Burr raised this question Thursday after a coroner's jury found the 23-year-old heir to the Zenith fortune had not taken his own life.

Since the night of Feb. 3, when McDonald's body was found, Burr and two of his investigators have said they were certain he committed suicide.

"If it hadn't been McDonald the case would have been closed that night," detective John Lyon said. "I'm not going to stop working on it, but it's hard for me to believe someone killed him. There's just no motive."

"We'll comply with the jury's decision," Burr said. "You can be sure if it was murder, we want to get the person who did it."

The differences between Burr and County Atty. Norman Green came out a week ago when Green appointed a political foe of Burr to aid in the investigation.

More Public Use

large Tock's Island Reservoir on the Delaware River is being planned as a multi-purpose reservoir. With this in mind do you believe that the Ashokan Reservoir could be opened and developed as still more of a recreational area. We appreciate the fact that controlled fishing is permitted, but thought that it might be mutually beneficial if other activities could be developed without affecting the quality of the water supplied to New York City," Supervisor Raichle writes.

"I have made inquiries in other states with practically the same situation and they inform me that they are relaxing some of the rigid controls and making some reservoirs more available for public use, but of coure under rigid rules and regulations. You are well aware of the demand by metropolitan New York residents for recreation space, and additional facilities of this kind would also be an asset to our region."

In conclusion Supervisor Raichle offers to meet and discuss the proposal with the commissioner.

U.N. Recesses

an assembly vote and forced the U.S.-Soviet showdown.

Since then, key delegations conferred and came up with the U.S. agreement to a procedural vote.

Murder-Suicide Ruled

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A young mother and her four sons were shot to death in their home late Thursday in what police said was murder-suicide.

Police said the mother shot her sons and then reloaded the gun and took her own life by firing a bullet into her forehead shortly after telling a friend in a telephone conversation that she intended to kill herself and her family.

Dead are: Doris Johnson, 27, and her sons, Donald, 7; Ronald, 5; Arnold, 3, and Ernest, 11 months.

Marquette Dividend

CHICAGO — The regular first quarterly dividend on the common shares of Marquette Cement Manufacturing Company, amounting to 45 cents per share, will be paid March 12 to shareowners of record at the close of business on March 1. This was authorized by the company's Board of Directors at a meeting here.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Airlines fell victim to some profit taking early this afternoon but the general level of the stock market was higher. Trading was moderately active.

Gains of fractions to a point by a good selection of blue chips helped move up the market averages a little.

The pace was considerably slower than Thursday as traders showed usual caution in advance of a three-day weekend. Stock markets will be closed Monday for Washington's birthday.

Selected gains by coppers, chemicals, aerospace issues and office equipments lent some brightness to the session. Motors, steels, rails and tobaccos put on a drab performance, producing a mixture of small gains and losses.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .6 at 332.2 with industrials up 1.0, rails up .2 and utilities up .5.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.96 at 885.65.

Kennecott and Anaconda benefitted from investment buying and rose about a point each while other coppers were mixed.

Highland Sets Vote

The Highland Central School District Board of Education at a special meeting Thursday night, set March 2 for another vote on a $190,000 site improvement program. The proposal was previously rejected by district voters. A total of $165,000 would be used for site improvement at the junior-senior high school, and $25,000 would be earmarked for site improvement on the property of the elementary school.

Treasurer Will Be Located in New Site Tuesday

The Ulster County Treasurer's office beginning next Tuesday have all its facilities located in the new County Office Building, Main and Fair Streets.

Presently some of the departments are located on North Front Street, others are still in the County Court House.

Ulster County Treasurer Fred DuBois said the office would take advantage of the Washington's birthday holiday Monday and utilizing the weekend closing, would be fully moved in the new quarters at the opening of business on Tuesday.

One to Face Jury On Burglary; Other Case Due

John V. Schoonmaker, 19, of 37 Liberty Street, one of two defendants charged recently with third degree burglary after a reported theft from Promise Land Restaurant, 240 Foxhall Avenue, today waived preliminary hearing before City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman and faces grand jury action.

Sentence was imposed on a traffic charge against him dating back to July 23, 1964. He was given the choice of two days in jail or a fine of $10. The fine was not paid. The charge dealt with failure to keep right and was lodged by Officer Thomas Coffey.

Howard Quick Jr., 24, of 85 Franklin Street, who was arrested with Schoonmaker, is next due in court Feb. 24. He is due to obtain counsel. Bail for him, fixed at $200 cash or $400 property, has been posted. For Schoonmaker it was fixed at $500 cash or $1,000 property, and was not posted.

Police allege that an unknown amount of money was taken from cigarette and game machines and a juke box at the restaurant.

David Teague, 18, of 13 Overlook Drive, Woodstock, charged with four vehicle and traffic charges, pleaded guilty and sentence was put over to March 5 to permit him time to obtain counsel. He was charged with lacking proof of insurance, misuse of a dealer's plate, insufficient lights and lack of registration.

New Action . . .

tals at a cost of $1.2 billion.

The protest of 14 GOP congressmen of the state was in a resolution adopted Thursday. The resolution petitioned the New York Congressional Steering Committee to urge the Johnson administration to maintain the facilities "required to render services to veterans."

The VA announcement January 13 issued orders to close the hospitals at Beacon, Bath and Tupper Lake, a soldiers' home at Bath and regional offices at Syracuse and Albany.

It was announced last week that by action of Congress, the halt of new admissions to the hospitals affected has been extended to May 1.

Vincent W. Powers, administrator at Castle Point later announced that work toward closing the facility at Beacon had been suspended and patients are again being admitted. He said this will continue until May 1, under a new VA directive.

Sizeable Cut . . .

firm's own "balance of payments" record.

Set about organizing, under direction of Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor, a "balance of payments advisory committee" of businessmen. Among other things, it will help draft guidelines to distinguish "desirable" from "undesirable" foreign investments.

"I know this will involve some pain, and it will mean passing up some profits," Johnson told the big businessmen who thronged the East Room to hear his appeal for "voluntary partnership."

But their country, their businesses and their stockholders "will all be better off for it" in the long run, Johnson promised.

And he backed up his plea with the mildest of reminders that if the $3-billion payments deficit is not sharply reduced by voluntary means, the government can enforce compliance by lgislation.

"As President, I pledge whatever actions prove necessary to keep our economy strong and our dollar sound," he said.

Bookkeeper Learns, Now Needs Advice

Q) "I am 50 years old and work as a bookkeeper. I have $10,000 in the bank and own 42 American Telephone; 100 Bargain Town, U.S.A.; 50 Avnet. I have substantial losses in the last two. I am thoroughly ashamed that I bought these on a tip and I hope I have learned a bitter and costly lesson. What shall I do with the stocks I own and shall I invest any more money?" D. K.

A) I'm very sorry indeed that you've had to learn the hard way that tips rarely pay off. Your Telephone stock should be retained.

Avnet is essentially a wholesaler of electronic items and this is not a growth business. There is a moderate amount of speculative attraction to the stock because of its control of Shaw process of precision casting, and I would be inclined to hold at current levels.

Bargain Town has recently changed its name to Retail Centers of the Americas, but that does not mitigate the fact that operations were at a deficit in the 9 months ended Oct. 31, 1964. I advise you to sell.

I would at this time invest no more than $3,500 of your cash reserves in 40 Safeway Stores and 20 Consolidated Edison.

Q) "We are a family with 5 children. We own our home which is paid for, also a 2-family house which will not be free and clear for 9 years. Would we be better off if we sold the 2-family house and put the money in stocks, or are we better off keeping it? We know nothing about securities." D. C.

A) This is a difficult question to answer without knowing more about the location and rentability of the 2-family house you own.

If it is in a good neighborhood, is fully rented and pays you around 6 per cent net after all expenses, I should hesitate very much to sell it at this time. Good rental property is a splendid hedge against inflation.

Havana Learns GM Buses Better Than Reds' Type

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Buses made in Communist countries have not worked out in Havana, but reconstructed General Motors buses are doing fine, a top Cuban transport ministry official said.

The capacity of buses made in Communist lands is too small for Havana, Jose Morales, deputy minister of transportation, said in a radio interview monitored in Miami Thursday night.

They are better suited for smaller towns in the provinces, Morales said. "A route serviced entirely by reconstructed General Motors buses has been initiated recently," Morales said. "In just three months, Cuban mechanics in Havana have rebuilt 26 buses."

Po'keepsie Youth Faces 2 Charges In Hearse Theft

A 20-year-old Poughkeepsie youth, accused of stealing a combination hearse and ambulance and damaging it in a mishap in the Town of Pleasant Valley, faces charges of driving while intoxicated and first degree grand larceny.

Gail C. Whispell, of 336 Mill Street, was admitted at Vassar Hospital after the accident early Thursday. He suffered a back injury.

After Detective Sgt. Jack Brophy obtained warrants against the youth charging grand larceny, Police Chief John L. Martin said a police guard was assigned at the hospital.

Police said the ambulance-hearse was allegedly taken by Whispell from the Emergency Apparatus Co., 26 High Street, where he reportedly had been employed. The ambulance, valued at $10,000, was damaged when it left Salt Point Turnpike near Netherwood Road, Town of Pleasant Valley.

McNamara Hints

table manner," the defense secretary said.

As an example McNamara said the number of men reaching age 18 last year was somewhat less than 1.5 million. This year the number will jump by about 500,000 and average about 2 million a year over the next decade.

Since the annual replacement needs of the military services are expected to stay relatively stable — about 100,000 per year in 1965-66—"a declining proportion of the men eligible for the draft will need to be called up."

If there is no change in draft selection policies, McNamara said, "this trend would result in a gradual increase in the average age of induction and cause rising uncertainties among draft eligible men as to whether they would, in fact, be called.

Jail N. H. Girl For False Charge

After pleading guilty to a charge of making a false report of a crime to authorities, Mary Lee Agatha Curran, 18, a magazine saleswoman of Berlin, N. H., today was in the Columbia County jail.

The girl was sentenced Thursday by Hudson City Judge Harold Lieberman to a $50 fine or 20 days in jail. In lieu of payment of the fine she was committed.

Authorities said the saleswoman made the false report to Catskill police. She complained that she had been raped by two men in a downtown Hudson home. Investigation by authorities disclosed the report was erroneous according to Detective Sergeant Julius Brenner of Hudson and State Police BCI Investigator William Wolfe.

Situation in Richmond, Ind.

One of First Dial Cities Cut to Emergency Service

By DICK REYNOLDS
The Richmond Palladium-Item

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP) — This city of 44,000, which boasted one of the nation's first dial telephone systems in 1907, has gone three weeks with telephone service ranging from dead silence to makeshift party lines limited to emergency calls.

An insurance agent commented: "It's the first time I've had any peace for years."

Teenagers found they could convey most vital information to one another at school, without gluing themselves to the phone a couple of hours each night.

Not one housewife had to climb out of the tub and inform a telephone salesman she wasn't interested in new siding on the house, or buying more magazines.

Will Be Glad

With all that, Richmond's citizens will be glad when the General Telephone Co. restores the normal service that was stopped abruptly Feb. 4 by a $1-million fire in a switching center.

The last normally completed call was to the Fire Department. One to the company's general managers, William Rigdon, was stopped in the middle when the connection melted.

Richmond quickly realized the telephone blackout wasn't simply a matter of uninterrupted naps and undisturbed households. Suppose the house caught fire, you heard a burglar at the window, the baby became desperately ill, or a business emergency came up?

Emergency Measures

With 18,000 telephones dead, officials realized they had a potentially dangerous situation on their hands.

General Telephone, aided by rival Bell companies, threw all of its resources into restoring emergency services — but it was radio that prevented inconvenience from becoming tragedy in the early days of Indiana's biggest communications blackout.

Companies which used radio to direct taxicabs, fuel trucks and other business vehicles, sent them to strategic locations. Radio-equipped local and state police cars went to hospitals, police and fire stations.

Amateur and citizens band radio operators manned strategic points.

Use Radios

A radio communications center in the city building received all flashes on fires, imminent births and other emergencies and relayed them to appropriate departments, by radio, auto or runners.

The telephone company first hooked in the Police Station, Fire Department and hospital to emergency switchboards. It then spotted free telephone booths around the city.

By last Monday, it had all private phones on a temporary network of four-party lines. A special temporary telephone book was published as a supplement of the Palladium-Item newspaper.

The threat of castastrophe was over. But more than 300 men and women from 14 states will be working until midsummer before regular dial service is restored.

critical condition in a Selma hospital.

Five other Negroes were hospitalized in Selma.

Richard G. Valeriani, an NBC correspondent, was clubbed on the head and taken to the Perry County Hospital at Marion. Six stitches were needed for a wound at the base of his skull.

UPI Men Injured

Two United Press International men also were injured. Pete Fisher, a photographer, said he got "a pretty good working over" and his camera was smashed. Reggie Smith, a newsfilm cameraman, said he was hit in the ribs and his camera broken.

Turner said that Orange was arrested earlier in the day on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Orange and Turner had been leading the voter registration drive.

In Washington, an FBI spokesman said the FBI would investigate, if called upon to do so by the Civil Rights Commission, and make a report on the facts to the Justice Department.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said he sent a telegram to Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach asking for federal protection of citizens in Marion.

William R. McAndrew, executive vice president of NBC, sent a telegram to Gov. George Wallace of Alabama asking him to direct all law enforcement agencies in Perry County and Marion to capture the person or persons who injured correspondent Valeriani.

The voter registration campaign, which began in Selma and spread here, is now in its fifth week. More than 3,000 Negroes have been arrested, most of them in Selma, which is about 50 miles to the east.

Trailer Heavily Damaged by Fire

While the occupants of a mobile home on Herdman Road, Phoenicia, were shopping for a can of fuel oil Thursday afternoon, fire broke out in the trailer and caused heavy damage before firemen quelled the flames.

According to reports the fire occurred in a mobile home occupied by a man identified as Amico, who had gone to a local store to purchase gasoline. On his return home with another man, it was said, Amico discovered the trailer in flames.

He drove about two miles back to the center of the community and notified firemen, who responded in command of Chief M. C. Jones. When firemen arrived most of the home was involved in fire.

Fire officials said the blaze apparently started from an oil space heater.

Man Is Jailed On Charge of Threatening Son

Arrested on a charge of first degree assault on Thursday, accused of threatening his son with a 16-gauge shotgun, Malcolm Lyons Sr., 50, of RD 4, Binnewater, waived preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Daniel McMonagle, Town of Rosendale.

Lyons was committed to the Ulster County jail to await grand jury action.

State Police Sergeant Joseph Ellsworth, Trooper David Wachtel and Chief Constable Harold Bowers of the Town of Rosendale made the arrest.

Trooper Robert Houghtaling said the complaint was made by Malcolm Lyons Jr., who told authorities his father threatened him and then placed the loaded shotgun against his stomach.

GOP Strongly

ate speeches Church and McGovern made Wednesday, said: "If we don't man the ramparts of freedom on our outer defense line from Korea to South Viet Nam, we'll inevitably be facing the enemy on the inner line from Alaska to Hawaii."

"To negotiate in South Vie Nam while Communist aggression is spreading throughout the entire Southeast Asia peninsula," Dirksen declared, "is like a man trying to paint his front porch while his house is on fire."

Fears Weakness Sign

Dirksen told a reporter he is trying to "put a stop to this negotiation talk" in this country for fear it will be inerpreted by Communists and non-Communists as a sign of weakness.

"I don't think we should even talk about it at all until there is some good faith evidence from the Communists that they will keep the agreements they already have made on Southeast Asia. "You don't hear the Communists talking about negotiations."

Both McGovern and Church took the floor later in the day to reply to Dirksen.

"I regard his remarks," McGovern said of the Republican leader, "as good oratory and bad logic. I have never advocated running up a white flag and I don't advocate it now.

"But neither do I believe that every problem in the world can be solved by bigger wars or even by waving the American flag on the floor of the United States Senate."

Won't Be Senators

McGovern went on to say:

"It doesn't require any particular bravery to stand on the floor of the Senate and urge our boys in Viet Nam to fight harder, and if this war mushrooms into a major conflict and a hundred thousand Americans are killed, it won't be United States senators who die."

Church said Dirksen "is a fine patriot, but he's no better patriot than any other members of this body" and called the white flag charge "contrary to the facts." He added he saw no purpose in questioning the courage of those who would find a political, rather than a military solution, in Southeast Asia.

Church said the Republicans gave enthuiastic support to President Harry S. Truman's decision to enter the war in Korea, but when the casualty lists began to grow and the going got tough it quickly became "Mr. Truman's war" and the principal campaign issue of the Republicans in 1952.

Plea Interrupts Trial

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A 32-year-old man, accused of shooting a woman a year ago Christmas Eve, has pleaded guilty to first-degree manslaughter.

Willie Ray Salter interrupted his trial Thursday in Erie County Court before Judge Frederick M. Marshall and a jury to enter the plea. He had been charged with first-degree murder in the shooting of Mrs. Nancy Wormack, 27, Dec. 24, 1963.

Judge Marshall set March 15 for sentencing.

Chest to Elect Officers at Dinner Meeting

The Ulster County Community Chest Nominating Committee announced today that the following candidates are favored for election to the board of directors at the Chest's annual dinner-meeting slated for 7:15 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 23, at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Nominated by the committee for two year terms, expiring in 1967, are: Joseph J. Benjamin, Edwin B. Bolz, Milton M. Grover Jr., MD; Daniel E. Fitzsimmons; the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, Thomas J. Mitchell, Robert M. Schnitzer, Herman J. Eatton, Wayne S. Cattlett, Harry C. Scarpati, Nathan A. Aaron.

For a one-year term, expiring in 1966, Sam S. Fratoni has been nominated.

For president, term expiring in 1966, Joseph J. Benjamin has been nominated. Robert M. Schnitzer is renominated as treasurer.

The current Nominating Committee is composed of Arthur B. Ewig, Albert C. Flanagan, Harry C. Kapreilian, Ernest Le Fevre and chairman William H. Hobbs.

The new committee to be nominated is Dale B. Lake, William R. Stall, Richard M. Kalish, Robert B. O'Reilly and George Svirsky.

The principal speaker for the Tuesday meeting is Hollis S. Ingraham MD, New York State commissioner of health.

The public is invited to attend the meeting. Since it is a dinner meeting, however, participation is by reservation only.

Cornell Seeking DA Drug Probe

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Cornell University revealed today it had asked the district attorney's office to investigate the use of marijuana by some members of the student body.

James A. Perkins, Cornell president, said the university "viewed with the utmost concern the availability of marijuana in our community and its use by even a few students."

Neither Perkins or Dist. Atty. Richard M. Thaler would reveal any details of the case.

Katrine Sidetrack Removal Okayed

ALBANY, Feb. 19—The Public Service Commission today authorized New York Central Railroad to discontinue the handling of carload freight at Lake Katrine, Ulster County, and to remove the team track there. The action was taken after it was determined that no freight shipments have been handled at Lake Katrine for many years and that no future business is anticipated there.

The Lake Katrine station has been on a non-agency carload-only basis since 1950. The former station building is now used as the local postoffice. The only remaining rail facility there is the siding.

In asking for permission to discontinue this sidetrack, the railroad said a grant of its petition would enable it to dispense with unnecessary facilities and to save maintenance expenses.

Resnick Would Extend Hudson Scenic Bill

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick has introduced an ammended version of Congressman Richard L. Ottinger's Hudson Highland's National Scenic Riverways Bill in the House of Representatives.

Rep. Resnick's amended bill includes Dutchess, Ulster, Columbia, and Greene Counties and would give the secretary of the interior the power to preserve and rehabilitate the river and its shore areas from Yonkers to the northern Columbia County line on the eastern bank and from New York-New Jersey line to the northern Greene C ty line on the western bank. Previously the bill only covered the Hudson River valley as far north as Newburgh and Beacon.

$20,000,000 Ceiling

The bill would authorize the secretary of the interior to spend up to $20,000,000 to aid local communities in protecting, rehabilitating and developing the Hudson's shores. The riverway extends on each side about one mile in from the river and covers all the visible shorelines of the Hudson.

Under the bill the secretary of the interior would be authorized to take steps to protect the Hudson Valley. However, his powers to acquire land be limited and he would be directed to cooperate with state agencies and local communities in making any plans.

Rep. Resnick, commenting on the ammended bill, said today, "Congressman Ottinger and I met on this subject and we both agreed it would be useful and advantageous to amend his bill to include portions of the 28th District. We are hopeful the bill will receive adequate consideration on the floor of the house this session. It is a bill which has been needed for many years and I am most happy to join with my colleague in working for its passage."

Reports Zenith Heir No Suicide

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — If Eugene McDonald's death wasn't suicide — who murdered him?

Sheriff Waldon Burr raised this question Thursday after a coroner's jury found the 23-year-old heir to the Zenith fortune had not taken his own life.

Since the night of Feb. 3, when McDonald's body was found, Burr and two of his investigators have said they were certain he committed suicide.

"If it hadn't been McDonald the case would have been closed that night," detective John Lyon said. "I'm not going to stop working on it, but it's hard for me to believe someone killed him. There's just no motive."

"We'll comply with the jury's decision," Burr said. "You can be sure if it was murder, we want to get the person who did it."

The differences between Burr and County Atty. Norman Green came out a week ago when Green appointed a political foe of Burr to aid in the investigation.

More Public Use

large Tock's Island Reservoir on the Delaware River is being planned as a multi-purpose reservoir. With this in mind do you believe that the Ashokan Reservoir could be opened and developed as still more of a recreational area. We appreciate the fact that controlled fishing is permitted, but thought that it might be mutually beneficial if other activities could be developed without affecting the quality of the water supplied to New York City," Supervisor Raichle writes.

"I have made inquiries in other states with practically the same situation and they inform me that they are relaxing some of the rigid controls and making some reservoirs more available for public use, but of coure under rigid rules and regulations. You are well aware of the demand by metropolitan New York residents for recreation space, and additional facilities of this kind would also be an asset to our region."

In conclusion Supervisor Raichle offers to meet and discuss the proposal with the commissioner.

Murder-Suicide Ruled

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A young mother and her four sons were shot to death in their home late Thursday in what police said was murder-suicide.

Police said the mother shot her sons and then reloaded the gun and took her own life by firing a bullet into her forehead shortly after telling a friend in a telephone conversation that she intended to kill herself and her family.

Dead are: Doris Johnson, 27, and her sons, Donald, 7; Ronald, 5; Arnold, 3, and Ernest, 11 months.

Marquette Dividend

CHICAGO — The regular first quarterly dividend on the common shares of Marquette Cement Manufacturing Company, amounting to 45 cents per share, will be paid March 12 to shareowners of record at the close of business on March 1. This was authorized by the company's Board of Directors at a meeting here.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Airlines fell victim to some profit taking early this afternoon but the general level of the stock market was higher. Trading was moderately active.

Gains of fractions to a point by a good selection of blue chips helped move up the market averages a little.

The pace was considerably slower than Thursday as traders showed usual caution in advance of a three-day weekend. Stock markets will be closed Monday for Washington's birthday.

Selected gains by coppers, chemicals, aerospace issues and office equipments lent some brightness to the session. Motors, steels, rails and tobaccos put on a drab performance, producing a mixture of small gains and losses.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .6 at 332.2 with industrials up 1.0, rails up .2 and utilities up .5.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.96 at 885.65.

Kennecott and Anaconda benefitted from investment buying and rose about a point each while other coppers were mixed.

Highland Sets Vote

The Highland Central School District Board of Education at a special meeting Thursday night, set March 2 for another vote on a $190,000 site improvement program. The proposal was previously rejected by district voters. A total of $165,000 would be used for site improvement at the junior-senior high school, and $25,000 would be earmarked for site improvement on the property of the elementary school.

Treasurer Will Be Located in New Site Tuesday

The Ulster County Treasurer's office beginning next Tuesday have all its facilities located in the new County Office Building, Main and Fair Streets.

Presently some of the departments are located on North Front Street, others are still in the County Court House.

Ulster County Treasurer Fred DuBois said the office would take advantage of the Washington's birthday holiday Monday and utilizing the weekend closing, would be fully moved in the new quarters at the opening of business on Tuesday.

One to Face Jury On Burglary; Other Case Due

John V. Schoonmaker, 19, of 37 Liberty Street, one of two defendants charged recently with third degree burglary after a reported theft from Promise Land Restaurant, 240 Foxhall Avenue, today waived preliminary hearing before City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman and faces grand jury action.

Sentence was imposed on a traffic charge against him dating back to July 23, 1964. He was given the choice of two days in jail or a fine of $10. The fine was not paid. The charge dealt with failure to keep right and was lodged by Officer Thomas Coffey.

Howard Quick Jr., 24, of 85 Franklin Street, who was arrested with Schoonmaker, is next due in court Feb. 24. He is due to obtain counsel. Bail for him, fixed at $200 cash or $400 property, has been posted. For Schoonmaker it was fixed at $500 cash or $1,000 property, and was not posted.

Police allege that an unknown amount of money was taken from cigarette and game machines and a juke box at the restaurant.

David Teague, 18, of 13 Overlook Drive, Woodstock, charged with four vehicle and traffic charges, pleaded guilty and sentence was put over to March 5 to permit him time to obtain counsel. He was charged with lacking proof of insurance, misuse of a dealer's plate, insufficient lights and lack of registration.

New Action . . .

tals at a cost of $1.2 billion.

The protest of 14 GOP congressmen of the state was in a resolution adopted Thursday. The resolution petitioned the New York Congressional Steering Committee to urge the Johnson administration to maintain the facilities "required to render services to veterans."

The VA announcement January 13 issued orders to close the hospitals at Beacon, Bath and Tupper Lake, a soldiers' home at Bath and regional offices at Syracuse and Albany.

It was announced last week that by action of Congress, the halt of new admissions to the hospitals affected has been extended to May 1.

Vincent W. Powers, administrator at Castle Point later announced that work toward closing the facility at Beacon had been suspended and patients are again being admitted. He said this will continue until May 1, under a new VA directive.

Sizeable Cut . . .

firm's own "balance of payments" record.

Set about organizing, under direction of Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor, a "balance of payments advisory committee" of businessmen. Among other things, it will help draft guidelines to distinguish "desirable" from "undesirable" foreign investments.

"I know this will involve some pain, and it will mean passing up some profits," Johnson told the big businessmen who thronged the East Room to hear his appeal for "voluntary partnership."

But their country, their businesses and their stockholders "will all be better off for it" in the long run, Johnson promised.

And he backed up his plea with the mildest of reminders that if the $3-billion payments deficit is not sharply reduced by voluntary means, the government can enforce compliance by lgislation.

"As President, I pledge whatever actions prove necessary to keep our economy strong and our dollar sound," he said.

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I am 50 years old and work as a bookkeeper. I have $10,000 in the bank and own 42 American Telephone; 100 Bargain Town, U.S.A.; 50 Avnet. I have substantial losses in the last two. I am thoroughly ashamed that I bought these on a tip and I hope I have learned a bitter and costly lesson. What shall I do with the stocks I own and shall I invest any more money?" D. K.

A) I'm very sorry indeed that you've had to learn the hard way that tips rarely pay off. Your Telephone stock should be retained.

Avnet is essentially a wholesaler of electronic items and this is not a growth business. There is a moderate amount of speculative attraction to the stock because of its control of Shaw process of precision casting, and I would be inclined to hold at current levels.

Bargain Town has recently changed its name to Retail Centers of the Americas, but that does not mitigate the fact that operations were at a deficit in the 9 months ended Oct. 31, 1964. I advise you to sell.

I would at this time invest no more than $3,500 of your cash reserves in 40 Safeway Stores and 20 Consolidated Edison.

Q) "We are a family with 5 children. We own our home which is paid for, also a 2-family house which will not be free and clear for 9 years. Would we be better off if we sold the 2-family house and put the money in stocks, or are we better off keeping it? We know nothing about securities." D. C.

A) This is a difficult question to answer without knowing more about the location and rentability of the 2-family house you own.

If it is in a good neighborhood, is fully rented and pays you around 6 per cent net after all expenses, I should hesitate very much to sell it at this time. Good rental property is a splendid hedge against inflation.

Havana Learns GM Buses Better Than Reds' Type

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Buses made in Communist countries have not worked out in Havana, but reconstructed General Motors buses are doing fine, a top Cuban transport ministry official said.

The capacity of buses made in Communist lands is too small for Havana, Jose Morales, deputy minister of transportation, said in a radio interview monitored in Miami Thursday night.

They are better suited for smaller towns in the provinces, Morales said. "A route serviced entirely by reconstructed General Motors buses has been initiated recently," Morales said. "In just three months, Cuban mechanics in Havana have rebuilt 26 buses."

Po'keepsie Youth Faces 2 Charges In Hearse Theft

A 20-year-old Poughkeepsie youth, accused of stealing a combination hearse and ambulance and damaging it in a mishap in the Town of Pleasant Valley, faces charges of driving while intoxicated and first degree grand larceny.

Gail C. Whispell, of 336 Mill Street, was admitted at Vassar Hospital after the accident early Thursday. He suffered a back injury.

After Detective Sgt. Jack Brophy obtained warrants against the youth charging grand larceny, Police Chief John L. Martin said a police guard was assigned at the hospital.

Police said the ambulance-hearse was allegedly taken by Whispell from the Emergency Apparatus Co., 26 High Street, where he reportedly had been employed. The ambulance, valued at $10,000, was damaged when it left Salt Point Turnpike near Netherwood Road, Town of Pleasant Valley.

McNamara Hints

table manner," the defense secretary said.

As an example McNamara said the number of men reaching age 18 last year was somewhat less than 1.5 million. This year the number will jump by about 500,000 and average about 2 million a year over the next decade.

Since the annual replacement needs of the military services are expected to stay relatively stable — about 100,000 per year in 1965-66—"a declining proportion of the men eligible for the draft will need to be called up."

If there is no change in draft selection policies, McNamara said, "this trend would result in a gradual increase in the average age of induction and cause rising uncertainties among draft eligible men as to whether they would, in fact, be called.

Jail N. H. Girl For False Charge

After pleading guilty to a charge of making a false report of a crime to authorities, Mary Lee Agatha Curran, 18, a magazine saleswoman of Berlin, N. H., today was in the Columbia County jail.

The girl was sentenced Thursday by Hudson City Judge Harold Lieberman to a $50 fine or 20 days in jail. In lieu of payment of the fine she was committed.

Authorities said the saleswoman made the false report to Catskill police. She complained that she had been raped by two men in a downtown Hudson home. Investigation by authorities disclosed the report was erroneous according to Detective Sergeant Julius Brenner of Hudson and State Police BCI Investigator William Wolfe.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Feb. 17—Everybody is talking about a possible devaluation of the dollar. This has been touched off by the narrow escape which the English pound had last December. And fuel has been added to the fires of speculation by the remarks of President de Gaulle of France concerning the need for something more stable than the dollar and the pound with which to settle debts between nations.

Early Dollar Devaluation Highly Unlikely

What does dollar devaluation mean? Simply the raising of the dollar price for gold. For more than thirty years, an ounce of gold has been valued at slightly over $35. In some international circles, it has been suggested that a price of $70 an ounce would provide greater liquidity for carrying on the world's commerce. This would mean that one ounce of gold held in this country's reserves could support twice as large an expansion of credit as one ounce can today.

Is the dollar price of gold likely to be raised soon? Our studies of the history of the world's many devaluations point to the conclusion that the price of gold is not advanced until a nation gets into real economic and financial trouble. Only when it is faced with serious deflation does a government resort to a hike in the price of gold—i.e., to devaluation of its currency. The United States does not face such a threat. . .at this time.

Drift Toward the Brink

But if our country continues for a long enough period of time to promote "prosperity" by budget deficits and by spending too much abroad and by big annual additions to bank credit, we may be in serious trouble with the dollar at some unknown date in the future. The whole nation is captive to the idea that we must not permit even a tiny downturn in the total of business. Credit must be kept easy and plentiful so that production and income will climb ever higher; this is the way to avoid unemployment and keep everyone happy.

We are like a happy family picnicking in a rowboat drifting down a river . . . so busy with the lunch that we do not hear the roar of the falls growing louder. The danger is not yet; but holding to this course can end only in disaster.

President De Gaulle The Prophet

When President de Gaulle of France made his famous remarks about the dollar and the pound at one of his infrequent "press conferences" early this month, he set off an explosion of angry retorts in Washington, London, and New York. These political and financial centers assumed that he was calling for a return to the old-fashioned gold standard . . . to replace dollars and pounds as carriers of trade. Every effort was made to dismiss de Gaulle comments as another of his delusions of grandeur.

It seems more likely, however, that the French statesman was warning Uncle Sam that if he didn't mend his ways, the U.S. would find itself in the same mess that de Gaulle pulled France out of when he took over the helm at Paris in the late 1950's. Certainly few could know at first hand the awful disease of inflation better than the French President. Moreover, he realizes that if the U.S. gets into an economic stew, France can hardly escape the aftermath.

What Can We Do?

Rather than worrying about what would happen if the dollar should be devalued—or struggling to think up ways we can "benefit" from inflation — we should work to make certain that the dollar is not devalued and that inflation does not run wild. Only a handful, and these are probably the very rich, can come through inflation unharmed. Ask any German who is now in his late sixties or over.

The first thing to do is to think right. Don't believe that perpetual prosperity is any more likely than perpetual happiness. Don't believe that tinkerings with money and credit can keep business constantly climbing. Don't believe that our dollar can stay sound if we persist in spending, lending, and investing abroad more than foreigners spend, lend, and invest here. Don't believe that big budget deficits can permanently postpone a day of reckoning. And don't believe that paying more for less work can create a bigger purchasing power that will lead to the production of more goods. It will lead only to higher prices and to more poverty for those with low incomes.

The constitutionality of the fluoridation program in New York City was upheld in State Supreme Court Feb. 15, and Water Commissioner D'Angelo announced at that time that most of the population would be consuming treated tap water by the end of May. The target date was originally April 15, but the program was held up to permit a study of the bids for installation which went over the original estimates of costs.

In a 15- page decision which rejected a taxpayer's petition for an injunction to halt fluoridation, Justice Joseph A. Brust ruled:

Judge's Ruling

"While the courts do not have a right to impose fluoridation upon any one, judicial restraint requires us to adhere to the uniform decisions holding that the executive and legislative branches of government do — at least until some proof is adduced that fluoridation has harmful side effects and therefore is not in the interests of the community."

Dominick F. Paduano, who served as city water commissioner from 1946 to 1953, last May 11 filed suit in Supreme Court with three other taxpayers to prevent Commissioner D'Angelo from proceeding with the program.

The decision was the final go-ahead signal for Commissioner D'Angelo.

The bids, although not approved as yet, are under study by city engineers, and the commissioner said the contracts are expected to be awarded within a few days.

Plan for Laboratory

The contract calls for construction of a new laboratory building at the injection point of the Catskill and Delaware water systems at Kensico Reservoir at Valhalla, Westchester County.

The commissioner's office also revealed that the Croton system at Dunwoodie Reservoir, Yonkers, will also be fluoridated. The city has 18 Upstate reservoirs.

The problem of scarcity of a chemical which must be added to the water to free the fluorine into the 1.2 billion gallons used daily has been solved.

The commissioner said three suppliers have assured the department that supplies will be on hand when needed.

Cites Mass Medication

The petitioners and former commissioner Paduano described the program as "mass medication." and said in the petition that the program might be injurious to the health of some consumers.

Justice Brust in his decision said the program "is an attempt to cope with the serious and growing public health problem of tooth decay and dental neglect, particularly among children."

He also observed that the record shows that 48 million persons in the nation and Canada have been using treated water for years "without substantial evidence of harm to health."

Not including New York City, a total of 53 million Americans in 4,435 communities are using fluoridated water. Of these, 7.5 million in 1,934 communities drink naturally fluoridated water, and 45.8 million in 2,501 towns, and cities drink treated water.

In Natural State

Los Angeles and Houston have water naturally fluoridated. Prior to New York's decision, Detroit was the most recent among the largest cities to approve the program.

Washington, D. C., after 10 years of fluoridation, reports a 59 per cent reduction in cavities attack in six-year-old children, a 51 per cent reduction in eight-year-olds; Philadelphia, after seven years, reports a 77 per cent reduction in cavities in six-year-olds, a 40 per cent reduction in 10-year-olds; St. Louis, after 5½ years of fluoridation reports a 50 per cent and 30 per cent reduction, respectively in six and 10-year-old children.

Baltimore, Md., after seven years, reports a 68 and 32 per cent reduction, respectively in the same age groups.

Estimate 30 Nations

Aside from the United States, it is estimated the communities in more than 30 nations have fluoridated their drinking water, Dr. Galagan observed.

Opponents to fluoridation often point out that some cities, which have had the program, abandoned fluoridating its water.

One in particular is Antigo, a city of 9,600 in northeastern Wisconsin.

The Wisconsin State Board of Health issued a startling statement to the press early this year.

They report that tooth decay rose by as much as 183 per cent among comparable groups of children in the city which abandoned fluoridation. The statement was based on a recently completed department study.

Report After Halt

The study was the first in which the board compared findings of tooth decay while a community had fluoridated water and after it had abandoned the program.

Antigo had treated water from June 1949 to November 1960. Residents then voted in a referendum to discontinue its use.

The Health Board, aware that the program might be dropped, conducted a study of about 600 school children in October 1960. Last December, the board went back and surveyed a like number of children in the same age, fourth graders.

The results, the board said, indicated that in the four years, tooth decay had risen 92 per cent among kindergarten children; 183 per cent among second graders and 100 per cent among fourth graders.

In 1960, while the affects of fluoridation were still being felt, there was an average of 2.5 decayed teeth for each kindergarten child in Antigo. Also in 1960, the average rose to 4.8, close to the average of 5 in areas in the state that do not have fluoridated water. This observation was made by Dr. Michael S. Ara, director of the dental division of the Wisconsin Board.

The next article in the series will outline a report from the American Dental Association showing that fluoridation is steadily losing ground in referendums held throughout the nation.

Fruit or Vegetable

Botanically, the tomato is a fruit but, in the United States it is considered a vegetable for purposes of trade, being so classified in a decision by the Supreme Court in 1893.

Social Security for Farm Owners

Self-employed farmers are virtually assured social security protection for themselves and their dependents by a special provision in the social security law according to George J. Habernig, social security district manager, and, Edward J. Fitzgerald Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue.

Mr. Habernig stated that farm owners and operators who have a gross income as little as $600 a year can get social security credit by using the optional method for figuring their net annual earnings.

"Now, before filing Federal income tax returns," said Mr. Fitzgerald, "is a good time for farm owners and operators to check up on the optional method for figuring earnings in years when profit is low."

Fitzgerald summarized the optional provision as follows:

If a farmer's gross income is at least $600, but less than $1,800 he has the option of counting either his actual net or two-thirds of his gross farm income for social security credit.

If the gross farm income is over $1,800 and net farm earnings are under $1,200, a farmer may report either his actual net earnings of $1,200; if a farmer's gross income exceeds $1,800 and net farm earnings are $1,200 or more, he must use the actual amount of his net earnings.

Habernig said that the option enables farmers with low incomes to obtain credit toward social security retirement and disability benefits, as well as survivor benefits for their families in case of death.

He emphasized, however, that a farmer must have net earnings of at least $400, either actual net earnings or by the optional method, to get social security credit for the year.

Information regarding taxes and tax return forms can be obtained at the Internal Revenue Service office at 59 North Front Street, Kingston. Questions about old-age, survivors, or disability insurance should be taken up with the Social Security Office at 57 Albany Avenue, Kingston.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Feb. 17—Everybody is talking about a possible devaluation of the dollar. This has been touched off by the narrow escape which the English pound had last December. And fuel has been added to the fires of speculation by the remarks of President de Gaulle of France concerning the need for something more stable than the dollar and the pound with which to settle debts between nations.

Early Dollar Devaluation Highly Unlikely

What does dollar devaluation mean? Simply the raising of the dollar price for gold. For more than thirty years, an ounce of gold has been valued at slightly over $35. In some international circles, it has been suggested that a price of $70 an ounce would provide greater liquidity for carrying on the world's commerce. This would mean that one ounce of gold held in this country's reserves could support twice as large an expansion of credit as one ounce can today.

Is the dollar price of gold likely to be raised soon? Our studies of the history of the world's many devaluations point to the conclusion that the price of gold is not advanced until a nation gets into real economic and financial trouble. Only when it is faced with serious deflation does a government resort to a hike in the price of gold—i.e., to devaluation of its currency. The United States does not face such a threat. . .at this time.

Drift Toward the Brink

But if our country continues for a long enough period of time to promote "prosperity" by budget deficits and by spending too much abroad and by big annual additions to bank credit, we may be in serious trouble with the dollar at some unknown date in the future. The whole nation is captive to the idea that we must not permit even a tiny downturn in the total of business. Credit must be kept easy and plentiful so that production and income will climb ever higher; this is the way to avoid unemployment and keep everyone happy.

We are like a happy family picnickng in a rowboat drifting down a river . . . so busy with the lunch that we do not hear the roar of the falls growing louder. The danger is not yet; but holding to this course can end only in disaster.

President De Gaulle The Prophet

When President de Gaulle of France made his famous remarks about the dollar and the pound at one of his infrequent "press conferences" early this month, he set off an explosion of angry retorts in Washington, London, and New York. These political and financial centers assumed that he was calling for a return to the old-fashioned gold standard . . . to replace dollars and pounds as carriers of trade. Every effort was made to dismiss de Gaulle comments as another of his delusions of grandeur.

It seems more likely, however, that the French statesman was warning Uncle Sam that if he didn't mend his ways, the U.S. would find itself in the same mess that de Gaulle pulled France out of when he took over the helm at Paris in the late 1950's. Certainly few could know at first hand the awful disease of inflation better than the French President. Moreover, he realizes that if the U.S. gets into an economic stew, France can hardly escape the aftermath.

What Can We Do?

Rather than worrying about what would happen if the dollar should be devalued—or struggling to think up ways we can "benefit" from inflation — we should work to make certain that the dollar is not devalued and that inflation does not run wild. Only a handful, and these are probably the very rich, can come through inflation unharmed. Ask any German who is now in his late sixtes or over.

The first thing to do is to think right. Don't believe that perpetual prosperity is any more likely than perpetual happiness. Don't believe that tinkerings with money and credit can keep business constantly climbing. Don't believe that our dollar can stay sound if we persist in spending, lending, and investing abroad more than foreigners spend, lend, and invest here. Don't believe that big budget deficits can permanently postpone a day of reckoning. And don't believe that paying more for less work can create a bigger purchasing power that will lead to the production of more goods. It will lead only to higher prices and to more poverty for those with low incomes.

Fluoridation Upheld In Latest Court Case

EDITOR'S NOTE — The fifth in the series on fluoridation reports on the latest court decision in which the program for New York City was upheld. Renewed interest in the program in Ulster County motivated The Freeman, in the public interest, to publish the series.

A Special Freeman Report
By ALBERT J. CAWEIN
Freeman Staff Writer

The constitutionality of the fluoridation program in New York City was upheld in State Supreme Court Feb. 15, and Water Commissioner D'Angelo announced at that time that most of the population would be consuming treated tap water by the end of May. The target date was originally April 15, but the program was held up to permit a study of the bids for installation which went over the original estimates of costs.

In a 15- page decision which rejected a taxpayer's petition for an injunction to halt fluoridation, Justice Joseph A. Brust ruled:

Judge's Ruling

"While the courts do not have a right to impose fluoridation upon any one, judicial restraint requires us to adhere to the uniform decisions holding that the executive and legislative branches of government do — at least until some proof is adduced that fluoridation has harmful side effects and therefore is not in the interests of the community."

Dominick F. Paduano, who served as city water commissioner from 1946 to 1953, last May 11 filed suit in Supreme Court with three other taxpayers to prevent Commissioner D'Angelo from proceeding with the program.

The decision was the final go-ahead signal for Commissioner D'Angelo.

The bids, although not approved as yet, are under study by city engineers, and the commissioner said the contracts are expected to be awarded within a few days.

Plan for Laboratory

The contract calls for construction of a new laboratory building at the injection point of the Catskill and Delaware water systems at Kensico Reservoir at Valhalla, Westchester County.

The commissioner's office also revealed that the Croton system at Dunwoodie Reservoir, Yonkers, will also be fluoridated. The city has 18 Upstate reservoirs.

The problem of scarcity of a chemical which must be added to the water to free the fluorine into the 1.2 billion gallons used daily has been solved.

The commissioner said three suppliers have assured the department that supplies will be on hand when needed.

Cites Mass Medication

The petitioners and former commissioner Paduano described the program as "mass medication." and said in the petition that the program might be injurious to the health of some consumers.

Justice Brust in his decision said the program "is an attempt to cope with the serious and growing public health problem of tooth decay and dental neglect, particularly among children."

PRIMARY DIVISION GROUP—An "Over the Top" eye for Benedictine Hospital's $1 million Building Fund Campaign, was cast by hospital officials and members of the Primary Gifts Division at a meeting Wednesday in hospital's dining room. On hand for luncheon meeting which was held to acquaint division's seven vice chairmen with procedure to be followed in campaign and to provide them with literature were from left, seated, Edwin B. Bolz, hospital administrator; Herman G. Rafalowsky, Primary Gifts Division chairman; Sister Callista, director of hospital's School of Nursing; division vice chairman, Tony Bell, Attorney Maurice Goldberg and Kenneth C. Pratt; standing, Jack Feye, Frank Reis Jr., Thomas Glynn and James F. Maloney Jr., vice chairmen. Chairman Rafalowsky told his vice chairmen, who are now in process of selecting their captains and workers who also will help to raise funds for the building program. "We've got to prepare and maintain a better health care center. We must provide an opportunity for the best health care for every citizen within the community." He said, "It is up to us, the citizens of Ulster County, to show community interest which will wisely shape the growth of this area and to bring forth the objectives to be found in the $1 million Benedictine Hospital Building Fund." Finishes Third In District's Legion Contest

A third place finish in the Third District competition of the National American Legion Oratorical Contest by Miss Marlene Amarello is the highest ever achieved by a St. Ursula student.

Miss Amarello took part in the district competition Thursday night at Columbia Central School in East Greenbush. Pierce O'Donnell, an Averill Park High School student, placed first. Murray Golderman of Ichabod Crane Central School, Valatie, finished second.

Her third place finish was the highest for a St. Ursula student since the local school entered the Legion Oratorical contest nearly 20 years ago.

MARLENE AMARELLO

In addition to repeating her winning 8-10 minute prepared oratation on The Living Constitution, which she delivered at the Ulster County competition, Miss Amarello also presented an extemporaneous talk on The Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

Miss Amarello is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Amarello of 3 North Wilbur Avenue.

Both Miss Amarello and Charles Gaffney Jr., son of Attorney and Mrs. Charles H. Gaffney, 204 Pearl Street, who was runnerup in the county competition, appeared before members of Kingston Post 150, American Legion, during their January meeting.

Executive Body Of Democrats Opposed to Tax

The Ulster County Democratic Committee's Executive Body has gone on record as being "unalterably opposed" to the imposion of a statewide sales tax as proposed by Governor Rockefeller, it was learned today.

Aaron B. Klein, Ulster County Democratic chairman, told The Freeman that the body voiced unanimous opposition at an executive committee meeting on Wednesday.

"In so doing," the executive committee said today, "the committee has joined its opposition with that previously registered by many other local groups and organizations, notably the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, the Town Board of the Town of Gardiner, New York, the Highland Grange and the State AFL-CIO among others.

"There were many specific reasons given for the stand taken by the executive body," Chairman Klein said, "among them being the fact that this tax is predicated on the needs rather than the ability to pay of the taxpayer, penalizes larger families, and is extraordinarily burendsome on senior citizens living on fixed incomes. Furthermore, this tax would stifle the economic growth of the state. In short, the tax is regressive in its impact."

By George, it's a good day to go shopping for a new Pontiac.

It's not everyday that the Father of Our Country intervenes in our behalf—just February 22. Through his wisdom and foresight he's seen to it that some of you get the day off so you can get down to your Pontiac dealer's and look over the brilliant array of Bonneville, Grand Prix, Star Chief, Catalina, 2+2, GTO, Le Mans and Tempest models. To be truthful (may lightning strike us down) you'll probably find some more appealing than others. Performance lovers will gravitate toward the GTO and 2+2. Those who lean to luxury will probably be leaning up against a Bonneville or Grand Prix. The value-conscious you'll find clustered around the Catalina, Le Mans or Tempest. Why not drop in at your Pontiac dealer's Washington's Birthday Open House. Drive a Pontiac. Ask a few questions. On this of all days you can expect straightforward answers. That's the way George would have wanted it.

State Commerce Office Gives Glowing Report of Activity

ALBANY — "Extraordinary" results from overseas sales leads, new highs in business activity and in employment and factory output, and a record year for the state's travel industry are highlighted by State Commerce Commissioner Keith S. McHugh today in his annual report to Governor Rockefeller and the Legislature.

In his letter of transmittal of the State Comemrce Department's 1964 Annual Report, Commissioner McHugh states:

Has Overseas Office

"Extraordinary results were obtained through the efforts of the new Division of International Commerce which was formally created less than three years ago. This activity is unique among all the states, New York being the only state with such an organization and the only state with a permanent Commerce office in Europe—at Brussels, Belgium.

"This activity, designed primarily to provide export sales leads to New York manufacturers exporters and suppliers for selling opportunities to firms abroad, brought these results:

"In the first 11 months of 1964, 13,331 sales opportunities from 80 countries of the free world became opportunities for more than 9,000 New York firms to sell more than 38,700 categories of manufactured goods.

"These export sales leads to New York manufacturers, exporters and suppliers for selling opportunities to firms abroad, brought these results:

"In the first 11 months of 1964, 13,331 sales opportunities from 80 countries of the free world became opportunities for more than 9,000 New York firms to sell more than 38,700 categories of manufactured goods.

"These export sales leads were nearly 60 per cent more than those achieved in 1963 and 85 per cent above the total received in 1962 and 1963 combined.

Results: $37 Million

"It is too soon to know the 1964 dollar sales of manufacturers resulting from sales leads, but in 1963 they resulted in sales of $37 million. This is equivalent to an estimated 5,500 manufacturing jobs."

On the home front, he reported, nonagricultural employment in the state advanced sharply from the beginning of the year, with each mon'ts figures topping those for corresponding months in prior years. The average of 6,318,000 in the first 11 months of 1964 was 57,000 more than in the comparable period of 1963.

"During the 50 months from October 1960 through November 1964, New York State's rate of unemployment was below the national average in 37 months, equal to it in three months and above it in only 10 months," McHugh stated.

Another indication of the state's strong economic position, the commissioner pointed out, was the Index of Business Activity—a measure of the state's physical output of goods and services.

Index Climbs

The index climbed steadily throughout the year to 161 (1947-49 equals 100) in November, 1963. In the first 11 months of 1964, the index averaged 160, a gain of six points over comparable months in the preceding year. During the same period, the factory output component of the index averaged about six points higher than in 1963.

"The general feeling of businessmen and industrialists toward New York State as a preferred place in which to locate, expand and create new job opportunities was better than at any time in the last six years," the commissioner said. "This is the direct result of more than 100 positive actons by the Governor and the Legislature to make New York State more attractive for growth of business and jobs.

"As a result of this steady increase in confidence, 3,369 important new or expanded manufacturing plants have been established in the state from January 1959 through November 1964; and business has invested, by conservative estimate, more than $12 billion in new and expanded plants and equipment in our state during this period."

Helping to finance this industrial growth, McHugh reported, was the New York Job Development Authority, of which he is chairman. In 1964, the JDA authorized 46 loans totaling more than $7 million, creating nearly 3,000 new jobs.

JDA Made 85 Loans

Since its establishment in 1962, the JDA has made 85 loans, aggregating more than $11 million, to local non-profit development corporations throughout the state for industrial construction or expansion. Total land and construction costs involved in the 85 loans approximate $37 million. It is estimated that within one year of operation, these plants will create nearly 5,800 new job opportunities.

Since the first of the year, six more JDA loans have been approved, bringing the current total to 91 loans, totaling more than $11.7 million. These loans are expected to create nearly 5,900 new jobs.

As part of the program to maintain its economic leadership, Commissioner McHugh reported, New York State pioneered in the establishment of commerce offices in the important industrial areas of Chicago, Los Angeles and Montreal, Canada in 1961 and 1962. These offices seek to attract firms with headquarters in these areas to locate branch plants and offices in New York State.

Commissioner McHugh noted that since these out-of-state branch offices have been established, 23 plants or offices of firms with headquarters in these areas have located in the state. These facilities will provide employment to more than 1,000 people and annual payrolls of approximately $5 million.

"With all industrial states competing for industrial growth, it is important that New York maintain outpost sales offices in areas of high industrial potential, if we are to get our full share of the growth of firms in these areas," the commissioner said.

New York's travel industry—important to the livelihood and prosperity of tens of thousands of people throughout the state— is expected to approach a record $3 billion mark for 1964, McHugh said.

The demand for "Vacationlands," the state's principal travel publication, was so great that the total of 800,000 published and distributed in 1963 had to be increased to 1,500,000 in 1964, the commissioner noted.

FIGHT HEART DISEASE ON HEART SUNDAY

Identical twins Cindy and Sandy Vilmer, 8, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Vilmer, of Independence, Mo., form a real-life Valentine — only because Sandy's inborn heart abnormality was surgically corrected in 1958. Without advances made in heart surgery, Sandy might not have lived to be part of this charming double portrait. Nationally, more than 1,750,000 volunteers will visit their neighbors next weekend, marked by Heart Sunday, Feb. 21, to distribute heart-guarding information and to receive Heart Fund contributions. Oh, yes. Which of the healthy, happy little girls is Sandy? She's the child at the left.

Ex-Chief Retired

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The ruling civilian triumvirate has retired Brig. Gen. Belisario Guerrero Peguero, former chief of the National Police force and target of an armed forces plot last month.

Guerrero was named undersecretary of police on Jan. 18 in a move to prevent fighting among the armed forces. The new post had been created for Guerrero.

Union Center Troop Holds Awards Court

Junion Girl Scout Troop 159 of Union Center observed Valentines Day with a Court of Awards at the former Union Center school house Sunday evening. Parents of the girls attended the varied program planned by the Sixth Grade Patrol.

Following the flag ceremony led by Betty Ann Miller, Debra Swanson welcomed the parents and friends and introduced members of each of the three patrols.

Assistant Troop Leader Georgialee McElhaney accompanied 10 sixth graders on her guitar as they sang two numbers, and fourth grader Gretchen Daum provided violin accompaniment to a trio in a musical introduction to a program on camping.

Slides of Camp Wendy furnished by the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts gave the girls and their parents an account of the many opportunities for growth in a variety of skills at the Girl Scout Camp in Wallkill. Margaret Sheffield, a former camper, narrated. Troop Leader Mrs. William Daum announced council plans to send each registered Girl Scout further information and application forms for the camp.

Thirty-six awards in nine categories earned by members of the troop during the past three months were awarded as follows:

Books—Mary Jane Freer, Cynthia Kirk; Cook—Deborah Harris, Cynthia Kirk; Hospitality—Diane Koola; Housekeeper—Deborah Harris, Margaret Sheffield; Magic Carpet—Charlotte Nunes; Pen Pal—Johanna Daum; My Home—Gretchen Daum, Christine Joyet, Michele McDonough, Mildred Sheffield, Jean Tillson; My Trefoil—Susan Kinsch; My Community—Gretchen and Johanna Daum, Deborah Dvorick, Mary Jane Freer, Deborah Harris, Helen Johnson, Christine Joyet, Susan Kinsch, Cynthia Kirk, Diane Koola, Michele McDonough, Betty Ann Miller, Colleen Murray, Charlotte Nunes, Carita Rintala, Mildred and Margaret Sheffield, Debra Swanson, Mary Lou Terpening, Jean Tillson and Gail Tremper.

Final announcements concerning Troop 159 included participation in the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale beginning Feb. 20 and the World Friendship Fund to be presented on Girl Scout Birthday, March 12.

A clothesline art gallery hung about the troop's meeting room featured original drawings and paintings of the Girl Scouts. The girls are also working on the toymaker badge and had stuffed animals on display.

Following the formal closing of the meeting with the Girl Scout Promise and song, refreshments were served by the Sixth Grade Patrol.

Troop 159 is sponsored by the Union Center Civic Group and meets regularly each Friday afternoon at the schoolhouse. On Feb. 26 the troop plans to visit the arts and crafts show of pupils in the elementary schools in the Kingston District to be held at the Artcraft Gallery on Broadway.

Entertain Mothers

Junior Troop 36 sponsored by the Sawkill Fire Company Auxiliary and led by Mrs. Thomas Malone, assisted by Mrs. Shirley Quick, entertained mothers at a luncheon at the Sawkill firehouse recently. The Scouts planned, prepared and served the luncheon as a part of the Hospitality Badge.

The Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts is a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

REMARRIAGE OF WIDOWER

Q: I am a widower in the mid-thirties and have a 10-year-old son. My fiancee has never been married before and she wants to have a large formal wedding. My wife has been dead for two years but her parents have never quite recovered from the shock of her sudden death. When we were married, we had a large formal wedding. Although I realize the wedding preparations are the prerogative of the bride, I am a bit embarrassed to have a second large wedding with all the fanfare. Will you please tell me if a large wedding is proper under the circumstances?

A: As this is your fiancee's first marriage, it will be entirely proper for her to have a large formal wedding if that is what she wishes, and there is no reason why she should be deprived of this because of your previous marriage. Your friends and relatives will surely realize that a large wedding is your fiancee's and not your choice and there is no need for you to feel embarrassed.

Indicating Dress on Invitations

Q: Our company is planning to send out formal invitations to a large dinner they are giving in several weeks. They want to keep it informal as far as dress is concerned. Will you please tell me how this is indicated on the invitations?

A: Include the words, "Informal Dress" in the lower right hand corner of the invitations opposite the r.s.v.p.

Inviting Bridegroom's Relatives to Shower

Q: The young woman who is to be the maid of honor at my daughter's forthcoming wedding is giving a shower for her. I would like to know if it would be proper to ask the bridegroom for a list of his relatives and invite them to this shower even though they do not know my daughter.

A: No, it would not be proper. Only those who know the bride-to-be well, should be invited to a shower for her.

Details concerning the remarriage of a widow and divorcee are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Second Marriage." To obtain a copy send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Freeman.

Ulster Garden Club Resumes Meetings; Activities Noted

The Ulster Garden Club held its first meeting of the new year on Tuesday, Feb. 16 at the home of Mrs. Mortimer B. Downer, 55 Fair Street, Kingston. Twenty-four members attended and Mrs. Burton Davis, vice-president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Philip LeFevre.

Mrs. W. Anderson Carl presented a report on the Memorial Tree Fund and what has been accomplished to date. It is planned that a Memorial Book be kept in the Senate House, listing all gifts to the Fund, with the name of the donor and of the one in whose memory the gift was given.

At the suggestion of the Horticulture Committee, it was decided that the Ultser Garden Club make a regular practice of putting floral exhibits in the Senate House throughout the year and particularly at those times when the heaviest visitor load is anticipated.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Kenneth Davenport conducted a Wild Flower Quiz for the members. First place honors were shared by Mrs. Clarence Hansen and Mrs. John Remensnyder with Mrs. Frank Steenken winning second prize. Tea was served and Mrs. Hansen and Mrs. Alfred Schmid presided at the tea table.

ROBERT GRAVES

Poet Is Scheduled To Speak Monday At Paltz College

Robert Graves, leading figure in English letters, will speak on "The Craft of Verse" at the State University College, New Paltz, February 22 at 8:30 p. m. in the main auditorium, sponsored by the Scriblerus Society and the Literature and Philosophy Division.

Mr. Graves, who considers himself primarily a poet, is also a novelist, critic historian and librettist. His autobiography, "Goodbye to All That" is considered a modern classic and his novels, "I, Claudius" and "Hercules, My Shipmate" were best-sellers. His study of poetic myth, "The White Goddess" and books on mythology have been used by scholars and in college courses for many years.

Mr. Graves has occupied the Chair of Poetry at Oxford and in 1963 was invited to the Poet in Residence at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he lectured and observed the scientific versus the poetic turn of mind. He grew up in England and earned his degree at Oxford. Three volumes of his poems were published before he was 23. He now lives on the island of Majorca where he has written the majority of his works.

Legion Auxiliary Subscription Sale Is Underway Now

The annual magazine drive for the Ulster County Committee American Legion Auxiliary is now underway throughout Ulster County. Funds derived from the sales are used for the purchase of hospital equipment available for use of the general public free of charge throughout the county.

Each Unit in the county of which there are 13 has its own equipment loaned to them by the county committee for use of the general public. Equipment consists of hospital beds, side rails, walkers, wheel chairs, mattresses and covers, crutches of various sizes, bed pans, and a few commodes.

Following is a list of the names of the men and women working throughout the county: John Jacquay; John Morgan; Jean Flyes; Sarah Seymour; Frank Parker; Douglas Reynolds; Nelson Roe; Carolyn Nemes; Kenneth Loud; Elene Partridge and Myron Donald. These names have been registered with the sheriff's office and police department.

Those contacted should ask for credentials. No donations will be accepted or requested. County chairman of equipment is Mrs. Betty Sanford and county chairman, Mrs. Margaret Trowbridge.

Machines Score Poorly in Potsdam

POTSDAM, N. Y. — Here's proof that men are better than machines in at least one subject.

A computer at Clarkson College of Technology scheduled Clarkson's nine coeds into a men's gym class during spring registration.

Why? Never having had women students at Clarkson before this year, the computer couldn't tell the difference between males and females.

Fortunately the instructor could, and the girls' classes were rescheduled.

Handel's Oratorio Samson to Be Presented Here by County Choral Society, Orchestra

The Ulster County Choral Society and Orchestra will present Handle's great oratorio Samson Sunday evening, Feb. 28 at the Community Theatre, Kingston.

The story of Samson is a stirring drama, portraying in music and song, episoded in the life of the great judge and hero of Israel; a man of prodigious strength who, in his youth, tore of the head of a ferocious lion—and slew a thousand of the enemies of Israel "with the jaw bone of an ass."

Samson will be sung with full orchestra under the direction of Percy W. Gazlay II. Mr. Gazlay's most recent triumph in a major performance is his superb conducting of the UCCS's presentation of Mendelssohn's Elijah, last April at the theatre.

For the first time in many years, a Hudson Valley audience will hear the lovely tone of the harpsichord. For this performance the UCCS will present Harold Chaney, whose offerings have so charmed music lovers of the United States, Europe and the Orient that he has been called The Premier Artist of the Harpsichord." Mr. Chaney will accompany chorus and orchestra on an instrument created by the house of Maendler Schramm of Munich.

The sole purpose for the existence of the Ulster County Choral Socety is the bringing of the world's great choral music to the community.

Area P-TA News

Port Ewen School

Mrs. Donald Roosa, assistant director of the Central Hudson District Parent-Teacher Association will be guest speaker at the Wednesday meeting of the Port Ewen School P-TA.

Mrs. Roosa is an industrial nurse with IBM and a past secretary of the Highland P-TA. She will discuss the various benefits derived from being a member of the national organization.

Highlight of the month's meeting will be the presentation of the Jenkins Memorial Award to some person from the community who has done much to aid the care and welfare of children. A donation is made in the name of the recipient to the New York State Scholarship Fund.

Mrs. Martin Jordan, president, urges all members and friends to attend.

Chambers School

Results of the recent membership contest were announced at the recent meeting of the Chambers School Parent-Teacher Group. Approximately 200 persons attended the meeting in the school hall.

The contest was conducted under the chairmanship of Mrs. Richard Sorenson and Mrs. Robert Stedge. First place award of $10 went to the fourth grade, Mrs. Cacchello, teacher; second, $7.50, to fourth grade, Mrs. Dittus, teacher; third, $5, fifth grade, Mrs. Travis, teacher; fourth, $5, kindergarten, Mrs. Bouyea, teacher; fifth, first grade, $5, Mrs. Brooks, teacher; sixth, $4, second grade, Mrs. Coutant, teacher, and seventh, $4, fifth grade, Mrs. Ferraro, teacher.

Membership before the contest was 153 and is now 273.

After the business meeting a gymnasium demonstration was given by the children. Refreshments were served by the P-TA officers.

We The Women

Dress Up to Homemaking

By RUTH MILLETT, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There's a reason why women in the business areas of American cities usually look well dressed.

Those who don't, don't hold their jobs, or else hold down small ones without much chance of ever moving up.

But the American housewife has no standard of on-the-job dress.

You see too-fat and too-thin and too-old housewives working in their front yards, doing their marketing, going to beauty shops, ets., in shorts.

You see houswives stepping out of fancy cars with their hair in pin curls.

You see young housewives wearing jeans, when the job doesn't call for jeans at all.

You see housewives working all day and running out-of-doors in trailing nightgowns.

In fact, looking around at the housewives of America as they go about their duties at home and in public, you can see almost any kind of get-up.

Isn't it about time that housewives woke up to the fact that even as a working woman is careful to dress in clothes suitable to business because she represents her company. the housewife represents her family?

Certainly women who think they can look any old way simply because they are housewives aren't representing their families in a very flattering light. So how about the housewives setting a few standards of working dress?

They've got the best "boss" a woman could have. And they ought to dress properly when they're doing their jobs.

Dear Abby . . .

There's Still Time, Honey!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 years old and I have never been kissed. To tell you the truth, I have never even been on a real date. I am not bad-looking, but I wear glasses. I am beginning to wonder if maybe that isn't my trouble. I am not too shy, although I don't throw myself at boys, either. I can also carry on a pretty good conversation. At the rate I'm going, I'll be an old maid. Can you help me?

DATELESS

DEAR DATELESS: Eyeglasses rarely, if ever, cost a girl popularity. But they provide a handy excuse, which is easily seen through. For a girl to be popular, she must develop the kind of personality other people enjoy. The first step is to quit thinking about yourself and concentrate on making the other person comfortable.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: A man who would make a perfect husband has asked me to marry him. My problem is his mother. She dominates him. When he was a child, she divorced his father and devoted her whole life to raising Hal. I have to hand it to her. She did a fine job. He is beautifully educated, has a wonderful personality and is well-respected in the community. He's 41 and lives with his mother. He says when we marry, SHE will live with us. His friends tell me they wouldn't wish a mother-in-law like her on their worst enemy. She is not the affectionate, gushy type, but she seems to like me. (Hal says I am the first girl to pass her inspection.) She is 60 and in good health. Hal told me that he owes his mother "everything" and she will always come first. I love this man, but wonder about the chances of a good marriage.

A VIRGO

DEAR VIRGO: You're luckier than most women who are engaged to a Mamma's boy. He has told you in advance exactly where you will stand—behind his mother, which is a poor second for any wife. Don't marry him unless you enjoy feeling sorry for yourself.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I have been having nightmares every night for the past few weeks. First, let me tell you that I am a 38-year-old wife and mother. My husband is reasonably good to me, and while my life isn't always moonlight and roses, I am by nature a happy, friendly, but rather quiet person. I keep dreaming the same terrible dream over again. I dream that I am in a big lake and I am an expert swimmer (which I am not) and I am with people who can't swim. They are drowning and I could save them if I wanted to, but I just let them drown and it doesn't seem to bother me a bit. What do you make of that, Abby Please don't send me to psychiatrist. He would think I am crazy.

HAVING NIGHTMARES

DEAR HAVING: It would appear that your dreams are the result of deep guilt feelings. Are you in a position to help someone, but have chosen to look out the window? If the nightmares persist, see a psychiatrist. I assure you he won't think you are "crazy."

• • • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO PHIL: There is, indeed, hope — for a problem honestly stated is half-solved.

• • • •

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif.

Mr. Graves, who considers himself primarily a poet, is also a novelist, critic historian and librettist. His autobiography, "Goodbye to All That" is considered a modern classic and his novels, "I, Claudius" and "Hercules, My Shipmate" were best-sellers. His study of poetic myth, "The White Goddess" and books on mythology have been used by scholars and in college courses for many years.

Mr. Graves has occupied the Chair of Poetry at Oxford and in 1963 was invited to the Poet in Residence at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he lectured and observed the scientific versus the poetic turn of mind. He grew up in England and earned his degree at Oxford. Three volumes of his poems were published before he was 23. He now lives on the island of Majorca where he has written the majority of his works.

Legion Auxiliary Subscription Sale Is Underway Now

The annual magazine drive for the Ulster County Committee American Legion Auxiliary is now underway throughout Ulster County. Funds derived from the sales are used for the purchase of hospital equipment available for use of the general public free of charge throughout the county.

Each Unit in the county of which there are 13 has its own equipment loaned to them by the county committee for use of the general public. Equipment consists of hospital beds, side rails, walkers, wheel chairs, mattresses and covers, crutches of various sizes, bed pans, and a few commodes.

Following is a list of the names of the men and women working throughout the county: John Jacquay; John Morgan; Jean Flyes; Sarah Seymour; Frank Parker; Douglas Reynolds; Nelson Roe; Carolyn Nemes; Kenneth Loud; Elene Partridge and Myron Donald. These names have been registered with the sheriff's office and police department.

Those contacted should ask for credentials. No donations will be accepted or requested. County chairman of equipment is Mrs. Betty Sanford and county chairman, Mrs. Margaret Trowbridge.

Machines Score Poorly in Potsdam

POTSDAM, N. Y. — Here's proof that men are better than machines in at least one subject.

A computer at Clarkson College of Technology scheduled Clarkson's nine coeds into a men's gym class during spring registration.

Why? Never having had women students at Clarkson before this year, the computer couldn't tell the difference between males and females.

Fortunately the instructor could, and the girls' classes were rescheduled.

We The Women

Dress Up to Homemaking

By RUTH MILLETT,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There's a reason why women in the business areas of American cities usually look well dressed.

Those who don't, don't hold their jobs, or else hold down small ones without much chance of ever moving up.

But the American housewife has no standard of on-the-job dress.

You see too-fat and too-thin and too-old housewives working in their front yards, doing their marketing, going to beauty shops, ets., in shorts.

You see houswives stepping out of fancy cars with their hair in pin curls.

You see young housewives wearing jeans, when the job doesn't call for jeans at all.

You see housewives working all day and running out-of-doors in trailing nightgowns.

In fact, looking around at the housewives of America as they go about their duties at home and in public, you can see almost any kind of get-up.

Isn't it about time that housewives woke up to the fact that even as a working woman is careful to dress in clothes suitable to business because she represents her company, the housewife represents her family?

Certainly women who think they can look any old way simply because they are housewives aren't representing their families in a very flattering light. So how about the housewives setting a few standards of working dress?

They've got the best "boss" a woman could have. And they ought to dress properly when they're doing their jobs.

Card Parties

Auxiliary Post 150

The American Legion Auxiliary, Post 150, will hold a card party Thursday, March 11 in the Legion Building, West O'Reilly Street at 8 p. m.

Dear Abby . . .

There's Still Time, Honey!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 years old and I have never been kissed. To tell you the truth, I have never even been on a real date. I am not bad-looking, but I wear glasses. I am beginning to wonder if maybe that isn't my trouble. I am not too shy, although I don't throw myself at boys, either. I can also carry on a pretty good conversation. At the rate I'm going, I'll be an old maid. Can you help me?

DATELESS

DEAR DATELESS: Eyeglasses rarely, if ever, cost a girl popularity. But they provide a handy excuse, which is easily seen through. For a girl to be popular, she must develop the kind of personality other people enjoy. The first step is to quit thinking about yourself and concentrate on making the other person comfortable.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: A man who would make a perfect husband has asked me to marry him. My problem is his mother. She dominates him. When he was a child, she divorced his father and devoted her whole life to raising Hal. I have to hand it to her. She did a fine job. He is beautifully educated, has a wonderful personality and is well-respected in the community. He's 41 and lives with his mother. He says when we marry, SHE will live with us. His friends tell me they wouldn't wish a mother-in-law like her on their worst enemy. She is not the affectionate, gushy type, but she seems to like me. (Hal says I am the first girl to pass her inspection.) She is 60 and in good health. Hal told me that he owes his mother "everything" and she will always come first. I love this man, but wonder about the chances of a good marriage.

A VIRGO

DEAR VIRGO: You're luckier than most women who are engaged to a Mamma's boy. He has told you in advance exactly where you will stand—behind his mother, which is a poor second for any wife. Don't marry him unless you enjoy feeling sorry for yourself.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I have been having nightmares every night for the past few weeks. First, let me tell you that I am a 38-year-old wife and mother. My husband is reasonably good to me, and while my life isn't always moonlight and roses, I am by nature a happy, friendly, but rather quiet person. I keep dreaming the same terrible dream over again. I dream that I am in a big lake and I am an expert swimmer (which I am not) and I am with people who can't swim. They are drowning and I could save them if I wanted to, but I just let them drown and it doesn't seem to bother me a bit. What do you make of that, Abby Please don't send me to psychiatrist. He would think I am crazy.

HAVING NIGHTMARES

DEAR HAVING: It would appear that your dreams are the result of deep guilt feelings. Are you in a position to help someone, but have chosen to look out the window? If the nightmares persist, see a psychiatrist. I assure you he won't think you are "crazy."

• • • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO PHIL: There is, indeed, hope — for a problem honestly stated is half-solved.

• • • •

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Handel's Oratorio Samson to Be Presented Here by County Choral Society, Orchestra

The Ulster County Choral Society and Orchestra will present Handle's great oratorio Samson Sunday evening, Feb. 28 at the Community Theatre, Kingston.

The story of Samson is a stirring drama, portraying in music and song, episoded in the life of the great judge and hero of Israel; a man of prodigious strength who, in his youth, tore of the head of a ferocious lion—and slew a thousand of the enemies of Israel "with the jaw bone of an ass."

Samson will be sung with full orchestra under the direction of Percy W. Gazlay II. Mr. Gazlay's most recent triumph in a major performance is his superb conducting of the UCCS's presentation of Mendelssohn's Elijah, last April at the theatre.

For the first time in many years, a Hudson Valley audience will hear the lovely tone of the harpsichord. For this performance the UCCS will present Harold Chaney, whose offerings have so charmed music lovers of the United States, Europe and the Orient that he has been called The Premier Artist of the Harpsichord." Mr. Chaney will accompany chorus and orchestra on an instrument created by the house of Maendler Schramm of Munich.

The sole purpose for the existence of the Ulster County Choral Socety is the bringing of the world's great choral music to the community.

Mr. Mellin was graduated from Kingston High School.

Both are employed by Shop Rite Markets, Poughkeepsie.

A spring wedding is planned.

4-H Club News

Cherry Dessert Contest

Rose Ann O'Reilly, 4-H'r from Sunset Park, Kingston, will represent Ulster County on February 22, at Rochester's famous Midtown Plaza for the annual New York Cherry Dessert Contest.

Rose Ann will be one of 18 4-H Club junior culinary specialists from as many counties demonstrating at Rochester.

The final winner at Rochester will be chosen on a basis of the tart cherry dessert prepared and the manner and ability with which it is perfected. Both the cook and her accomplishments will be judged by a group of four topflight specialists in home economics.

The bake-off finals at Rochester will be staged in the center of the famous Midtown Mall. A press conference will follow the event, as well as an awards banquet at the "Top of the Town" in the Midtown Tower. Copies of an attractive booklet of all competing desserts will be available.

The New York Cherry Dessert Contest and program is being cooperatively sponsored by the participating County 4-H Clubs, by Rochester's Midtown Plaza, by the Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation, and by the growers and processors of New York's tart cherry industry.

Mrs. Walter Lofink of Modena, a member of the 4-H Home Economics Advisory Committee and Chairman of the Home Demonstration Executive Committee has kindly consented to take the responsibility of chaperoning Rose Ann to this event.

YWCA Schedules Slim, Swim Class

The YWCA's Health Education Department's new term starts Feb. 23. The term will last six weeks and includes activities in the swimming pool and gymnasium at the YMCA. After exercises the class may take a dip in the pool for an hour or try the steam bath.

Slimnastics are held Tuesday and Thursday from 10-11 a.m. Swimming instruction is Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 12 noon and recreational swim is Thursday from 11 to 12 noon. Baby sitting is held at the YWCA for young children on Tuesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

Friday afternoons is reserved for students. The Junior Life Saving course will continue for another six week period from 3:30-4:30 p.m. All other student swimming is from 4:30-5:30 p.m. Students as well as adults may take plunges after that from 5:30-7 p.m.

Friday nights is for adults only beginning at 7 p.m. and ending at 9:30 p.m. This time is spent with slimnastics, swim instruction, open gym, recreational swim and steam bath. Instructors are Mrs. Linda Farrow, Mrs. Kay Hansen and Mrs. Pat Tiano. The YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, may be contacted for tickets of admission.

The Woman and Her Posture

Clothing alone cannot make the woman, but a woman in good posture can help to make the clothes.

The standing, sitting, and walking postures that you assume are usually an indication of your habits, general health, and state of mind; of the care and attention you give your body; and your attitudes. What is good posture for you may not be for someone else, for each person has individuality of body construction. Study yourself and learn how you can achieve the best posture.

Muscles may have become trained into unnatural positions that produce bad posture through constant incorrect use. The results may be a protruding abdomen, a deep hollow at the small of the back, a flat chest, the head carried too far forward, sagging shoulders, one shoulder or one hip higher than the other, turned-out toes, stiff knees, or a rigid body.

This incorrect use of muscles, which may have become habitual, may result from carelessness, malnutrition, illness, poor eyesight or bad lighting, feet that hurt, uncomfortable clothing, incorrect height of work tables or desks, sinks that are too high or to low, or even because the chair you sit in every day does not fit you.

CHECK YOUR POSTURE—One good way to check your posture is to stand with your back to the wall, your heels from 3 to 4 inches from it and your feet parallel. For the average person, the head and shoulders should touch the wall and the buttocks should be pressed against it. Pull in with your abdominal muscles, thus lifting the chest, straightening out the too curved-in back, and giving the correct tilt to the pelvis.

There should be just enough space between the small of the back and the wall to slip the straightened fingers in. If there is space for your whole hand, your back is too hollow. Aim to parallel a plumbline drawn from the ear through the shoulder tip and hip to ankle.

Look your best at all times. Clothes fit better and look better on a good figure. They are then more comfortable and they last longer. Try to find what postures are best for you, and learn to improve yours.

Send for a free copy of Cornell Extension Bulletin No. 535, "The Woman and Her Posture" to: Ulster County Home Demonstration Department, 220 Wall St., U.P.O. Box 545, Kingston, N. Y. or call FE 8-3494.

63 Interviewers Needed for Town Census in April

Initial steps to be taken for the special census of the Town of Saugerties in April includes recruiting of 63 applicants from which census takers will be chosen by Charles Baker, supervisor of census designated for this area.

Supervisor Peter M. Williams said that residents who believe they qualify for the position may call at the town clerk's office where applications are available.

Census Supervisor Baker, who will be in the area March 1 and 2 will select and instruct the interviewers.

Baker is from the federal Bureau of Census, New York City.

Prospective interviewers should be citizens of the United States and at least 18 years of age. They should be of good appearance, physically able to do considerable walking and climbing of stairs, write legibly and be able to understand instructions.

The interviewer must be willing and able to work full time until the assignments are completed. They will be paid a piece rate of 7 cents for each properly recorded name in accordance with instructions furnished. The average census taker will be able to enumerate about 200 names per day.

Early in February Supervisor Williams announced that the special town census could result in an estimated $24,708 increase in per capita state aid over a five-year period, until the 1970 regular federal census.

Supervisor Williams estimated that the total cost to conduct the census would be $3,500.

On the basis of $3.55 per inhabitant, the town receives a total of $48,308.40 annually in state assistance. An increase in population to 15,000 would mean and additional $3.55 for 1,392 inhabitants, or $4,941.60 in additional annual aid. The 1960 census recorded 13,608 inhabitants in the township.

Schools Closed Monday

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, announced today that Saugerties Central Schools will be closed on Washington's Birthday.

Outlines Great Strides in Heart, Vessel Research

The brightest chapters in medical history have been chronicled over the past 15 years with regard to the fight to save middle-aged American men from the ravages of heart and blood vessel diseases.

Mrs. William D. Brinnier, Town of Saugerties Heart Drive chairman made this observation this week.

"There has been, since 1950, a 7½ per cent decline in the cardiovascular death rate applying to American males aged 45 through 64," she said.

"For the first time, the death rate from high blood pressure and the heart disease it causes is down 50 per cent, while that from stroke has dropped 26 per cent. These dramatic gains more than offset an increase of about 4 per cent in the death rate due to heart attack."

It is significant, Mrs. Brinnier continues, that the decline dates from 1950, a year which marked the beginning of massive heart research programs supported by both voluntary and tax dollars.

"Your Heart Fund Campaign, which is being carried on in the Township of Saugerties this week, and all other Heart Fund Drives have been the spearheading force behind the effort. Since the first Heart Fund campaign in 1949, about 100 million Heart Fund dollars have been channeled into cardiovascular research programs. Virtually every gain reflected in the 7½ per cent decline in the cardiovascular death rate for middle-aged men is connected, in one way or another, with the Heart Fund."

"Never in its history has your Heart Association had enough Heart Fund dollars to underwrite all of the research projects deemed worthy of support by qualified experts."

Town Chairman, Mrs. Brinnier says, "Let's make 1965 an exception. Give generouly to the 1965 Heart Fund Campaign, being waged in our township and in over 6500 other American communities through the month of February."

In a proclamation this week, Supervisor Peter M. Williams and Mayor Cornelius Cox designated February as Heart Month in the community.

Legion Auxiliary Sets Poppy Sale

The annual Poppy Sale of Lamouree-Hackett Post 72, American Legion Auxiliary will be held May 22 to 29, it was announced at a recent meeting held at the Legion Home.

The auxiliary also announced it will donate two American Flags to Saugerties Central system.

Committee reports were presented as follows:

Cancer control, Julia Cox reported one member worked 16 hours making cancer pads; 40 pounds of material for pads and 15 pounds of silk stockings were received.

Coupons, Ann Johnson reported 58 coupons were received.

Mrs. Catherine Van Gassbeek announced that current dues are now being collected.

Refreshments and a social hour folowed the meeting.

Library Closed Monday

Saugerties Public Library, Washington Avenue, will be closed on Monday in conjunction with the observance of Washington's Birthday.

About Town Folks

Plagued by Misfortune

Patricia Neal Suffers Two Severe Strokes

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Arriving from England last week, Oscar winner Patricia Neal looked radiantly well and spoke enthusiastically of the movie she was here to start.

Today she lies in the intensive care unit at the UCLA Medical Center, in critical condition after two strokes and emergency brain surgery.

Nearby were her husband, British mystery short-story writer Roald Dahl, and their three children, Tessa, 8; Theo, 5, and Ophelia, 8 months.

The first stroke — another in a series of misfortunes that have dogged the 39-year-old star's career — occurred Wednesday night.

A few hours earlier the tall, willowy blonde with the large, sultry eyes and velvet voice had done her first big scene in "Seven Women." She plays a woman doctor in the film, which John Ford is directing at MGM.

Undergoes Surgery

Rushed to the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Center, she suffered a second stroke and was taken to surgery.

Late Thursday her surgeon, Dr. Charles Carton, issued a terse statement: "Mrs. Patricia Dahl was brought in last night with severe intracranial bleeding. Brain surgery was performed. Her condition remains critical."

Miss Neal won her academy award as best actress last April for her performance as Paul Newman's slatternly housekeeper in "Hud."

Personal Misfortune

Friends said her ability to portray pathos and drama had been aided by real-life misfortunes — and the strength to withstand them.

One was an ill-fated romance with the late Gary Cooper, with whom she fell in love after they co-starred in "The Fountainhead." The romance ended unhappily. Cooper remained married to his wife.

Another tragedy was the death of Olivia, eldest of her four children, from measles at the age of 7 in 1962.

And 5-year-old Theo has been under doctors' care since he was 4 months old, when a taxi struck his baby buggy in New York. Much of the time since then he has been without sight.

After the accident Miss Neal, her husband and children moved to a large farmhouse at Great Missenden, 40 miles northwest of London.

A native of Packard, Ky., Miss Neal studied for two years at Northwestern University's School of Drama.

In 1945 she went to New York with $60 and much determination and ambition.

Critics hailed her first leading role — in "Another Part of the Forest," in 1946. It brought her the Antoinette Perry Award and the New York drama critics' best-actress award.

A Warner Bros. film contract followed.

Cherry Dessert Contest

Rose Ann O'Reilly, 4-H'r from Sunset Park, Kingston, will represent Ulster County on February 22, at Rochester's famous Midtown Plaza for the annual New York Cherry Dessert Contest.

Rose Ann will be one of 18 4-H Club junior culinary specialists from as many counties demonstrating at Rochester.

The final winner at Rochester will be chosen on a basis of the tart cherry dessert prepared and the manner and ability with which it is perfected. Both the cook and her accomplishments will be judged by a group of four topflight specialists in home economics.

The bake-off finals at Rochester will be staged in the center of the famous Midtown Mall. A press conference will follow the event, as well as an awards banquet at the "Top of the Town" in the Midtown Tower. Copies of an attractive booklet of all competing desserts will be available.

The New York Cherry Dessert Contest and program is being cooperatively sponsored by the participating County 4-H Clubs, by Rochester's Midtown Plaza, by the Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation, and by the growers and processors of New York's tart cherry industry.

Mrs. Walter Lofink of Modena, a member of the 4-H Home Economics Advisory Committee and Chairman of the Home Demonstration Executive Committee has kindly consented to take the responsibility of chaperoning Rose Ann to this event.

YWCA Schedules Slim, Swim Class

The YWCA's Health Education Department's new term starts Feb. 23. The term will last six weeks and includes activities in the swimming pool and gymnasium at the YMCA. After exercises the class may take a dip in the pool for an hour or try the steam bath.

Slimnastics are held Tuesday and Thursday from 10-11 a.m. Swimming instruction is Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 12 noon and recreational swim is Thursday from 11 to 12 noon. Baby sitting is held at the YWCA for young children on Tuesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

Friday afternoons is reserved for students. The Junior Life Saving course will continue for another six week period from 3:30-4:30 p.m. All other student swimming is from 4:30-5:30 p.m. Students as well as adults may take plunges after that from 5:30-7 p.m.

Friday nights is for adults only beginning at 7 p.m. and ending at 9:30 p.m. This time is spent with slimnastics, swim instruction, open gym, recreational swim and steam bath. Instructors are Mrs. Linda Farrow, Mrs. Kay Hansen and Mrs. Pat Tiano. The YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, may be contacted for tickets of admission.

The Woman and Her Posture

Clothing alone cannot make the woman, but a woman in good posture can help to make the clothes.

The standing, sitting, and walking postures that you assume are usually an indication of your habits, general health, and state of mind; of the care and attention you give your body; and your attitudes. What is good posture for you may not be for someone else, for each person has individuality of body construction. Study yourself and learn how you can achieve the best posture.

Muscles may have become trained into unnatural positions that produce bad posture through constant incorrect use. The results may be a protruding abdomen, a deep hollow at the small of the back, a flat chest, the head carried too far forward, sagging shoulders, one shoulder or one hip higher than the other, turned-out toes, stiff knees, or a rigid body.

This incorrect use of muscles, which may have become habitual, may result from carelessness, malnutrition, illness, poor eyesight or bad lighting, feet that hurt, uncomfortable clothing, incorrect height of work tables or desks, sinks that are too high or to low, or even because the chair you sit in every day does not fit you.

CHECK YOUR POSTURE—One good way to check your posture is to stand with your back to the wall, your heels from 3 to 4 inches from it and your feet parallel. For the average person, the head and shoulders should touch the wall and the buttocks should be pressed against it. Pull in with your abdominal muscles, thus lifting the chest, straightening out the too curved-in back, and giving the correct tilt to the pelvis.

There should be just enough space between the small of the back and the wall to slip the straightened fingers in. If there is space for your whole hand, your back is too hollow. Aim to parallel a plumbline drawn from the ear through the shoulder tip and hip to ankle.

Look your best at all times. Clothes fit better and look better on a good figure. They are then more comfortable and they last longer. Try to find what postures are best for you, and learn to improve yours.

Send for a free copy of Cornell Extension Bulletin No. 535, "The Woman and Her Posture" to: Ulster County Home Demonstration Department, 220 Wall St., U.P.O. Box 545, Kingston, N. Y. or call FE 8-3494.

63 Interviewers Needed for Town Census in April

Initial steps to be taken for the special census of the Town of Saugerties in April includes recruiting of 63 applicants from which census takers will be chosen by Charles Baker, supervisor of census designated for this area.

Supervisor Peter M. Williams said that residents who believe they qualify for the position may call at the town clerk's office where applications are available.

Census Supervisor Baker, who will be in the area March 1 and 2 will select and instruct the interviewers.

Baker is from the federal Bureau of Census, New York City.

Prospective interviewers should be citizens of the United States and at least 18 years of age. They should be of good appearance, physically able to do considerable walking and climbing of stairs, write legibly and be able to understand instructions.

The interviewer must be willing and able to work full time until the assignments are completed. They will be paid a piece rate of 7 cents for each properly recorded name in accordance with instructions furnished. The average census taker will be able to enumerate about 200 names per day.

Early in February Supervisor Williams announced that the special town census could result in an estimated $24,708 increase in per capita state aid over a five-year period, until the 1970 regular federal census.

Supervisor Williams estimated that the total cost to conduct the census would be $3,500.

On the basis of $3.55 per inhabitant, the town receives a total of $48,308.40 annually in state assistance. An increase in population to 15,000 would mean and additional $3.55 for 1,392 inhabitants, or $4,941.60 in additional annual aid. The 1960 census recorded 13,608 inhabitants in the township.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, announced today that Saugerties Central Schools will be closed on Washington's Birthday.

Outlines Great Strides in Heart, Vessel Research

The brightest chapters in medical history have been chronicled over the past 15 years with regard to the fight to save middle-aged American men from the ravages of heart and blood vessel diseases.

Mrs. William D. Brinnier, Town of Saugerties Heart Drive chairman made this observation this week.

"There has been, since 1950, a 7½ per cent decline in the cardiovascular death rate applying to American males aged 45 through 64," she said.

"For the first time, the death rate from high blood pressure and the heart disease it causes is down 50 per cent, while that from stroke has dropped 26 per cent. These dramatic gains more than offset an increase of about 4 per cent in the death rate due to heart attack."

It is significant, Mrs. Brinnier continues, that the decline dates from 1950, a year which marked the beginning of massive heart research programs supported by both voluntary and tax dollars.

"Your Heart Fund Campaign, which is being carried on in the Township of Saugerties this week, and all other Heart Fund Drives have been the spearheading force behind the effort. Since the first Heart Fund campaign in 1949, about 100 million Heart Fund dollars have been channeled into cardiovascular research programs. Virtually every gain reflected in the 7½ per cent decline in the cardiovascular death rate for middle-aged men is connected, in one way or another, with the Heart Fund."

"Never in its history has your Heart Association had enough Heart Fund dollars to underwrite all of the research projects deemed worthy of support by qualified experts."

Town Chairman, Mrs. Brinnier says, "Let's make 1965 an exception. Give generouly to the 1965 Heart Fund Campaign, being waged in our township and in over 6500 other American communities through the month of February."

In a proclamation this week, Supervisor Peter M. Williams and Mayor Cornelius Cox designated February as Heart Month in the community.

Legion Auxiliary Sets Poppy Sale

The annual Poppy Sale of Lamouree-Hackett Post 72, American Legion Auxiliary will be held May 22 to 29, it was announced at a recent meeting held at the Legion Home.

The auxiliary also announced it will donate two American Flags to Saugerties Central system.

Committee reports were presented as follows:

Cancer control, Julia Cox reported one member worked 16 hours making cancer pads; 40 pounds of material for pads and 15 pounds of silk stockings were received.

Coupons, Ann Johnson reported 58 coupons were received.

Mrs. Catherine Van Gassbeek announced that current dues are now being collected.

Refreshments and a social hour folowed the meeting.

Library Closed Monday

Saugerties Public Library, Washington Avenue, will be closed on Monday in conjunction with the observance of Washington's Birthday.

Plagued by Misfortune

Patricia Neal Suffers Two Severe Strokes

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Arriving from England last week, Oscar winner Patricia Neal looked radiantly well and spoke enthusiastically of the movie she was here to start.

Today she lies in the intensive care unit at the UCLA Medical Center, in critical condition after two strokes and emergency brain surgery.

Nearby were her husband, British mystery short-story writer Roald Dahl, and their three children, Tessa, 8; Theo, 5, and Ophelia, 8 months.

The first stroke — another in a series of misfortunes that have dogged the 39-year-old star's career — occurred Wednesday night.

A few hours earlier the tall, willowy blonde with the large, sultry eyes and velvet voice had done her first big scene in "Seven Women." She plays a woman doctor in the film, which John Ford is directing at MGM.

Undergoes Surgery

Rushed to the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Center, she suffered a second stroke and was taken to surgery.

Late Thursday her surgeon, Dr. Charles Carton, issued a terse statement: "Mrs. Patricia Dahl was brought in last night with severe intracranial bleeding. Brain surgery was performed. Her condition remains critical."

Miss Neal won her academy award as best actress last April for her performance as Paul Newman's slatternly housekeeper in "Hud."

Personal Misfortune

Friends said her ability to portray pathos and drama had been aided by real-life misfortunes — and the strength to withstand them.

One was an ill-fated romance with the late Gary Cooper, with whom she fell in love after they co-starred in "The Fountainhead." The romance ended unhappily. Cooper remained married to his wife.

Seattle to Continue Basketball Season

3rd Team Member Also Implicated

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle University Chieftains, rocked back on their heels by a point-shaving scandal, regrouped Thursday to try to press on with their basketball campaign.

When they meet Nevada in Reno Saturday and Utah State in Logan, Utah, Monday, they'll be minus the help of their team captain, Charlie Williams, and two other teammates, Peller Phillips and L. J. Wheeler.

The three were expelled from Seattle University after the FBI arrested guards Williams and Phillips Wednesday night on charges of bribery and conspiracy to affect the outcome of the Chieftains' game against the University of Idaho Jan. 22.

Seattle won 89-72. The gambling point spread was 18.

At the same time, Williams and Phillips, both 21 and both seniors, were arrested, the FBI arrested Leo Casale, 24-year old owner of a Chicago cocktail lounge, in that city.

The Rev. Timothy Cronin, chairman of the SU board of athletics, said Wheeler, 22-year-old Chieftain pivotman, was ousted along with Williams and Phillips because he knew of the incident and didn't report it.

Phillips and Williams, considered a candidate for All-America and described by SU Coach Bob Boyd as "the finest guard I ever had," were released under $1,000 recognizance bond each.

Casale, proclaiming his innocence to reporters after his arraignment was continued to Tuesday in Chicago, was released on a $25,000 recognizance bond.

Father Cronin said he and other officials of the university got the impression from talking to Phillips and Williams that they "were really victimized."

"Peller said that had it been a professional gambler, they wouldn't have talked to him," Father Cronin said. "But it was a fellow he knew. He thought he was kidding. He gave them apparently a big song and dance. They were just taken for a ride."

Met in Chicago

Father Cronin said Phillips told of meeting Casale in Chicago during a trip by the Seattle team in December, and the priest said the figure $130 was mentioned in his conversation with Phillips, but no money went to Williams or Wheeler.

Phillips, whose home is Detroit, was a student with Casale in Coalinga, Calif., Junior College.

Williams remained unavailable for comment, but Phillips said he intends to plead innocent at a preliminary hearing in Seattle March 1. In discussing the charge in the presence of his attorneys, Phillips declared, "I do feel I'm innocent."

His expression was glum as he was interviewed and said:

"I feel very bad this came about like this, because a lot of people have been shocked. I'm hoping they won't judge me, or Charlie, until we're proven innocent . . ."

The young athlete said he felt particularly bad that he and Williams had been hung in effigy from a flagpole at the university Thursday.

Phillips's wife, Dierdre, is expecting the couple's first child in a few months.

Williams, a native of Colorado Springs, Colo., but who starred in high school basketball in Tacoma, also is married and is the father of one child.

Casale lives with his mother in Chicago.

NFA Swimmers Beat Kingston

John Sullivan captured the diving event and Bruce Hilton was a winner in the 400 yard free but Kingston High lost a 67-28 swimming decision to Newburgh Free Academy yesterday. The victory by Hilton was the first for a KHS competitor in the 400 yard free.

Sullivan's victory was outstanding because he received a "zero" rating on his first dive.

Results:

200 yard medley relay—Won by Newburgh (Mike Obermeyer, Pat Doogan, Mike Hurd, Don Pagliabinga). Time 2:06.

200 yard free—Bob Hurd, N; George Krol, N; Bruce Hilton, K. Time 2:37.

50 yard free—Pete Siegel, N; Mike Stevens, N; Doug Jacobson, K. Time 26.0 seconds.

200 yard individual medley—Frank Clarino, N; Peter Lewis, K; Charles Plunket, K. Time 2:57.7.

Diving — John Sullivan, K; John Moore, N; Garry Johnson, K.

100 yard fly—Mike Hurd, N; Charles Plunket, K; Peter Lewis, K.

100 yard free — Chris Townsend, N; Bob Hurd, N; Richard Klomps, K. Time 1:01.4.

100 yard back — Mike Obermeyer, N; John Quick, K; Richard McIntosh, N. Time 1:14.8.

400 yard free—Bruce Hilton, K; Dan Fitzpatrick, N; Bill Visconti, N. Time 6:03.2.

100 yard breast—Gary Sleight, N; John America, K; Jan Michael, N. Time 1:26.2.

200 yard free relay—Won by Newburgh (Chris Townsend, Dan Paglialunge, Mike Stevens, Pete Siegel). Time 1:45.5.

Upstate College To Forfeit Tilts

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — The Onondaga Community College basketball team, beset by scholastic difficulty, has learned that it must forfeit 10 early-season victories because it used an alleged ineligible player.

Don Schmidt, regional director of the National Junior College Athletic Association, said yesterday that one of Onondaga's top scorers, Doug Dowdell of Syracuse, was ineligible to play because he was a transfer student from Clark College in Atlanta, Ga.

Dowdell was one of 11 Onondaga players dropped from the team for scholastic reasons after first-semester examinations.

Athletic Director George Mulligan, said that there had been no formal notification to the school that Dowdell had been enrolled elsewhere.

The team compiled a 15-3 record during the first semester. The 10 victories to be forfeited were Empire State Conference games.

Sawyers Host Beacon Quintet In DCSL Contest

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Area schoolboy leagues head into the next to final week of the season tonight and when the last whistle has tooted, the DUSO and UCAL can have their circuit races decided. Beacon has already clinched a third straight DCSL title.

In the DUSO, Kingston plays at Newburgh and must top the Goldies to thwart a pennant clinching. The other games have Poughkeepsie at Middletown and Ellenville at Port Jervs.

New Paltz, the UCAL leader, visits Rondout Valley and needs a victory to practically insure the title. In other tilts, Pine Bush is a Marlboro and Onteora plays a Highland.

Beacon journeys to Saugerties for a DCSL meeting while Lourdes plays at Arlington and Roosevelt at Wappingers in other attractions.

A look at the standings and capsule comments on the top tilts.

DUSO

Team	Won	Lost
Newburgh	10	0
Kingston	8	2
Monticello	6	4
Poughkeepsie	4	7
Middletown	3	7
Port Jervis	3	7
Liberty	2	9

KINGSTON AT NEWBURGH —A "must" assignment for the locals. They have to win in order to stay alive and then hope that Monticello can upset the leaders next Frday.

A well-balanced quintet, Newburgh figures to have too much depth and versatility for the visitors. However, Kingston looked good in losing by only seven points here and must be given a chance. It will take a superior effort and scoring ace Dan Heppner must depend on some rebounding on the part of the big boys.

In the other clash, Poughkeepsie and Middletown will be playing to see which team finished fourth. Ellenville is favored to win its Village clash at Port Jervis.

UCAL

Team	Won	Lost
New Poltz	8	2
Rondout	7	3
Marlboro	7	3
Onteora	6	4
Wallkill	4	7
Wallkill	4	7
Pine Bush	4	7
Highland	0	10

NEW PALTZ AT RONDOUT —This one could virtually sew up the championship for New Paltz or might throw the race into a three-way tie.

Without Bob Zaccheo in the lineup, the Huguenots are weakened considerably. Rondout has won eight straight and is the hottest team in the circuit.

PINE BUSH AT MARLBORO —The Dukes have a chance if Rondout upsets New Paltz. However, they have to topple Pine Bush and that might be a tough task. The Bushmen have height and are capable of springing an upset. They are one of two teams to hold a decsion over New Paltz.

In the other contest, Onteora should end its three-game losing streak by dumping hapless Highland, which has yet to win.

DCSL

Team	Won	Lost
Beacon	8	0
Wappingers	5	3
Arlington	5	3
Saugerties	3	5
Roosevelt	2	6
Lourdes	1	7

BEACON AT SAUGERTIES —Only prestige is on the line in this one. Beacon hasn't lost a circuit test in three seasons. The Sawyers were walloped the first time but have rebounded of late and have been playing good ball. However, they don't figure to handle the Southern Dutchess outfit.

In the other tilts, Arlington is favored over cellar-dwellng Lourdes and Wappingers is the choice to whip Roosevelt.

Tulsa Scores 75-64 Upset Over Wichita

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maybe Wichita won't win the Missouri Valley Conference basketball championship after all.

The Wheatshockers, who lost All-America Dave Stallworth by graduation at midterm, lost their first MVC game of the season Thursday night. The Shockers, 10th-ranked nationally in The Associated Press poll, tumbled before the Tulsa Hurricanes 75-64 to open a two-game road trip.

Now the Shockers are in danger of being overhauled by the St. Louis Billikens, who are 7-3 in MVC play to Wichita's 8-1.

Wichita has five league games to play starting with North Texas at Denton, Tex. Saturday.

The North Texas Eagles indicated they may prove difficult for Wichita with their first MVC win ever over Cincinnati 54-53. Willie Davis' 18 points led the Eagles from an 11-point deficit in the game at Denton and broke their 10-game losing streak.

At Tulsa, Rick Park paced the Hurricane with 21 points. Jamie Thompson, Stallworth's replacement, scored 20 points for Wichita.

1st Without Estes

Utah State, playing its first game since the tragic death of All-America Wayne Estes on Feb. 8, edged Denver 67-66 on LeRoy Walker's two free throws in the closing seconds. The two conversions gave him 33 points for the game in Denver.

Denver also was the opposition for Utah State when Estes scored 48 points before he was electrocuted accidentally two hours later. Utah State won that game at Logan, 91-62.

In other games, Russ Gumina's free throw in the last 10 seconds gave San Francisco a 53-52 road victory over San Jose, Drake downed Bradley 72-57 at Des Moines, Virginia Military surprised George Washington 87-70 at Lexington, Va., and Texas Western whipped West Texas 71-45 at El Paso.

Bradley Is Unanimous All-America

BY SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Princeton's Bill Bradley has decided to pass up pro basketball for a Rhodes Scholarship, so he'll really never have the chance to test himself against the best.

But if he's wondering what his chances might have been, the coaches of the National Basketball Association have the answer.

They made him the only unanimous choice on Newspaper Enterprise Association's 1964-65 All-America team, announced today.

In their exclusive annual poll for NEA, the nine coaches also selected Cazzie Russell of Michigan, Fred Hetzel of Davidson, Rick Barry of Miami (Fla.), Dave Stallworth of Wichita and Gail Goodrich of UCLA to the first team.

Due to another tie the second team also consisted of six men.

It includes Bill Cunningham of North Carolina, the late Wayne Estes of Utah State, Bill Buntin of Michigan, Matt Guokas Jr. of St. Joseph's (Pa.), the only sophomore on either team, Ollie Johnson of San Francisco and Dave Bing of Syracuse.

Voting was on a 2-1 basis—two points for the first team vote and one for a second.

Bradley, of course, had 18 points. He was followed by Russell with 17, Hetzel 15, Barry 14, Goodrich 13, Stallworth 13, Estes and Cunningham 4 each, and Guokas, Bing Johnson and Buntin 3 each.

Actually, Bradley's unanimous selection wasn't that surprising.

Perfectly Balanced

NBA coaches and players who have seen him throughout the last three years all had the same impression—he is the perfectly balanced ballplayer.

"It wasn't just his scoring that impressed me," said Ray Scott of the Detroit Pistons. "It was the way he handled the ball, passed off and generally took charge of his team."

Bradley, a member of the Olympic team last fall, can play either forward or guard, but has been up front more.

One game when he switched to guard—against Michigan in the Holiday Festival semifinals—will be remembered as one of the greatest individual performances in Madison Square Garden.

Before fouling out with a little more than four minutes remaining, Bradley had scored 41 points and had Princeton 12 points ahead of the nation's top team.

Michigan eventually won the game by two points, an even greater (although heart-breaking) tribute to Bradley. He means that much to his team.

Bradley's average this season has been 31 points a game, third highest in the country.

Average is 37

The leading scorer is Barry who has been averaging 37 points a game in addition to 17.9 rebounds a game, fifth in the nation.

Barry is an exceptionally smooth-moving forward who will go high on the NBA draft.

Dave Stallworth, the Wichita forward, also will be a high Choice. He was graduated at mid-semester after playing 16 games for the Shockers and scoring 25 points a game. Like Bradley, this is his second year on NEA's All-America.

The first-team center is 6-8 Fred Hetzel, the sixth-leading scorer (26.8), eight in field-goal percentage (.579) and 13th in rebounding (15.1).

Hetzel reminds a lot of people of Jerry Lucas (Cincinnati Royals), but his detractors say he lacks the desire to be a successful professional.

"I guess it's because he's sort of nonchalant about the whole thing when he's on the court." Davidson coach Lefty Driesell said.

"He's one of these kids who is so even-tempered that he always holds his poise. A change might hurt his style. Jerry Lucas was that type of ballplayer and they said the same things about him."

Russell and Goodrich are the first-team guards. Russell plays a lot like Oscar Robertson, and he still has another year at Michigan.

Big (6-6) and strong (218) he is an excellent driver and rebounder. He is the seventh leading scorer in the country with a 26.7 average.

Goodrich, meanwhile, averages 23.1, and is the reason UCLA is a strong contender for another national title. He has done a remarkable job running a team that depended so much on Walt Hazzard last year.

Surprise Choice

Matt Guokas Jr. was the surprise choice on the second team. Only a sophomore, he transferred back to St. Joseph's (where his father was a star in the 1930s) after a year at Miami (Fla).

He isn't much of a scorer but due to his excellent team play and defense, St. Joseph's coach Jack Ramsay calls him the key to the fine season the Hawks are enjoying.

Bing, the other guard, is a 6-3 leaper who averages 23.1 for Syracuse. He plays forward, too.

Johnson, the center from University of San Francisco, is fifth in field goal percentage (.589) and sixth in rebounding (17.1).

Before his untimely death early this month when he was electrocuted after touching a downed powerline. Wayne Estes of Utah State was the nation's second leading scorer (33.7).

Bill Buntin of Michigan and Bill Cunningham of North Carolina, the forwards, have been excellent all-round performers for three years. Cunningham averages 24.8 and is a tremendous jumper while Buntin, a bullish 235-pounder, does most of Michigan's rebounding.

UCCC Has Road Contests on Tap

Hoping to close their second season of varsity basketball on a winning note, the Senators of Ulster County Community College head into the homestretch with games at Oneonta State tonight and at New Paltz State on Saturday. They will oppose the jayvee teams from those schools.

Coach Al DiBernardo's cagers have managed three victories to date and have lost several games by 10 points or less.

The Senators have only one more home contest remaining and that's next Saturday night against Sullivan County.

NFL Continues To Ignore AFL

By PATRICK McNULTY
Associated Press Writer

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — The National Football League has decided NFL and rival American Football League players can mingle — but only under soft drink bottle caps.

Approval at the NFL annual meeting Thursday to continue a program mixing NFL and AFL player pop bottle pictures was rare evidence that the NFL is aware a rival league exists. Since the meetings began Monday, NFL owners have ignored the AFL like a distant relative.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle announced that the league is enthusiastic about backing for a second year a soft drink company's (Coca Cola) program that puts pictures of NFL and AFL players under bottle caps.

Prizes are given when photos of an entire team are collected. The promotion is excellent publicity for the NFL, Rozelle said, adding with a grin:

"This is in no way connected with a common draft between the two leagues."

Rozelle's joking reference underscored that "AFL" is almost a dirty word at the yearly NFL meeting. Representatives of the 14 clubs officially have kept a studied silence about the rival league that has triggered spiraling bids for untested college stars.

In other action, the NFL owners voted to continue the 40-player limit for each club. This was the limit that prevailed last year.

Howard Wants to Be First Negro Manager

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Elston Howard would like to become the first Negro manager in the big leagues, but first he thinks he has five more big years catching for the New York Yankees—hopefully at his present $70,000 salary.

All of which recalls to mind the day in 1954 when George Weiss, then general manager of the Yankees, called Bill Skiff, his chief scout, into his office.

"Bill, I want you to look at these four catchers," said Weiss. "I want you to recommend the one you think we should keep for ourselves."

The list that Weiss handed Skiff included Gus Triandos, Hal Smith, Lou Berberet and Howard. After a summer spent in the minors, checking managers, coaches, players and, most of all, using his own keen eyes, Skiff came up with his recommendation.

The No. 1 man on the list was Howard at Toronto, a young man who was converted from outfielder to catcher by the same Mr. Skiff.

.289 Average

The Yankees never have been sorry. In 10 years with the club he has built a lifetime batting average of .289. Ellie also won the Most Valuable Player Award in 1963 and the Babe Ruth Award as World Series hero in 1958.

He has played in 47 World Series games and six All-Star games.

Howard, who will be 35 next Tuesday, revealed his ambitions Thursday when he became the highest salaried catcher in baseball history at a reported $70,000. Yogi Berra's top pay was about $60,000.

"I figure on five more years as a player," he said. "When you lose a little of your reflexes and can't get around on the fast ball it is time to think of something else. But I haven't lost anything yet. If Johnny Keane wants me to catch every day I'll be in there. It makes no difference to me. I'll even go double in doubleheaders if he wants me.

"But when the time comes to step down I'd like to stay in the Yankee organization as a coach. I'd like to follow right behind Frank Crosetti.

"But if some day the manager's job were offered to me, I would accept and try my best to become successful as the first Negro manager."

Ellie, a right-handed batter, hit .313 last season, appearing in 150 games. He led major league catchers in fielding and hit 15 homers and drove in 84 runs.

Greco Bros. Has Locksley Lead

Greco Bros. Amusement won three points from The Bulls to retain their lead in the Locksley Archery league. The leaders have 53 points.

Joe Morley was high with 255 while teammates Joe Gulisano had 238 and John Giannene 203. Tony Serv scored 220 and Eddy Gardner 214 for The Bulls.

In the other match, Algonquian Bowmen swept Triple S's as Loren Wangsted scored 246, Walt Hillje 222 and Cliff Tienken 219 against a 216 for Doug Snyder.

Cablevision Cubs Archery Leaders

Cablevision won four points from Robin Hood to increase their Archery league to 18 points.

Frank Heinrich hit 245 and Bill Hart 226 for the winners. Jim Biancolo had 235 for Robin Hood.

Zeniths won four points from Injuneers as Adam Bronski hit 235 and Nick Alonge 239. John Palatini made 246 and Pete Keizer 213 for Injuneers.

Oregon Track Coach Switching Colleges

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Oregon State University, which lost football coach Tommy Prothro to UCLA last month, now will lose track and field coach Sam Bell who switches to the University of California on July 1.

Bell's appointment to succeed retiring Brutus Hamilton, onetime coach of the U.S. Olympic team, was announced Thursday by the California Athletic Director Pete Newell.

Hamilton reaches the retirement age of 65 after being at California since 1932. Bell, 36, becomes only the third coach in the school's 65-year track history. Walter Christie served from 1900 to 1932 and then Hamilton took over.

Roberts - Rice Bridge Winners

Dr. John Roberts, Kingston, and Charles Rice, Saugerties, posted a fine 61½ per cent game to win North-South honors of the Glenerie Bridge Club fractional point game tournament at the Bridge studios.

High on the East-West side was the duo of William Laffey, Wilmington, Del., and P. B. Lodge, Port Ewen, with a 55½ per cent game.

Other North-South results:

Mrs. Marge Black, Shokan, and Walter Daumann, Pine Hill, 58½ per cent.

Ralph Wesselmann, Shokan, and Thomas Goodwin, Poughkeepsie, 53½ per cent.

Milton Dubin and Stanley Kaplan, Kingston, 52 per cent.

Other East-West results:

Dr. and Mrs. John Olivet, Kingston, 55 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Yallum, Kingston, 54 per cent.

Hilden Rector and John Chapman, Poughkeepsie, 53 per cent.

The club will hold its monthly master point game tonight, 8 p. m., at the studios. All bridge players are welcome.

Seattle to Continue Basketball Season

3rd Team Member Also Implicated

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle University Chieftains, rocked back on their heels by a point-shaving scandal, regrouped Thursday to try to press on with their basketball campaign.

When they meet Nevada in Reno Saturday and Utah State in Logan, Utah, Monday, they'll be minus the help of their team captain, Charlie Williams, and two other teammates, Peller Phillips and L. J. Wheeler.

The three were expelled from Seattle University after the FBI arrested guards Williams and Phillips Wednesday night on charges of bribery and conspiracy to affect the outcome of the Chieftains' game against the University of Idaho Jan. 22.

Seattle won 89-72. The gambling point spread was 18.

At the same time, Williams and Phillips, both 21 and both seniors, were arrested, the FBI arrested Leo Casale, 24-year-old owner of a Chicago cocktail lounge, in that city.

The Rev. Timothy Cronin, chairman of the SU board of athletics, said Wheeler, 22-year-old Chieftain pivotman, was ousted along with Williams and Phillips because he knew of the incident and didn't report it.

Phillips and Williams, considered a candidate for All-America and described by SU Coach Bob Boyd as "the finest guard I ever had," were released under $1,000 recognizance bond each.

Casale, proclaiming his innocence to reporters after his arraignment was continued to Tuesday in Chicago, was released on a $25,000 recognizance bond.

Father Cronin said he and other officials of the university got the impression from talking to Phillips and Williams that they "were really victimized."

"Peller said that had it been a professional gambler, they wouldn't have talked to him," Father Cronin said. "But it was a fellow he knew. He thought he was kidding. He gave them apparently a big song and dance. They were just taken for a ride."

Met in Chicago

Father Cronin said Phillips told of meeting Casale in Chicago during a trip by the Seattle team in December, and the priest said the figure $130 was mentioned in his conversation with Phillips, but no money went to Williams or Wheeler.

Phillips, whose home is Detroit, was a student with Casale in Coalinga, Calif., Junior College.

Williams remained unavailable for comment, but Phillips said he intends to plead innocent at a preliminary hearing in Seattle March 1. In discussing the charge in the presence of his attorneys, Phillips declared, "I do feel I'm innocent."

His expression was glum as he was interviewed and said:

"I feel very bad this came about like this, because a lot of people have been shocked. I'm hoping they won't judge me, or Charlie, until we're proven innocent . . ."

The young athlete said he felt particularly bad that he and Williams had been hung in effigy from a flagpole at the university Thursday.

Phillips's wife, Dierdre, is expecting the couple's first child in a few months.

Williams, a native of Colorado Springs, Colo., but who starred in high school basketball in Tacoma, also is married and is the father of one child.

Casale lives with his mother in Chicago.

NEW PALTZ AT RONDOUT —This one could virtually sew up the championship for New Paltz or might throw the race into a three-way tie.

Without Bob Zaccheo in the lineup, the Huguenots are weakened considerably. Rondout has won eight straight and is the hottest team in the circuit.

PINE BUSH AT MARLBORO —The Dukes have a chance if Rondout upsets New Paltz. However, they have to topple Pine Bush and that might be a tough task. The Bushmen have height and are capable of springing an upset. They are one of two teams to hold a decsion over New Paltz.

In the other contest, Onteora should end its three-game losing streak by dumping hapless Highland, which has yet to win.

BEACON AT SAUGERTIES —Only prestige is on the line in this one. Beacon hasn't lost a circuit test in three seasons. The Sawyers were walloped the first time but have rebounded of late and have been playing good ball. However, they don't figure to handle the Southern Dutchess outfit.

In the other tilts, Arlington is favored over cellar-dwellng Lourdes and Wappingers is the choice to whip Roosevelt.

Bradley Is Unanimous All-America

BY SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Princeton's Bill Bradley has decided to pass up pro basketball for a Rhodes Scholarship, so he'll really never have the chance to test himself against the best.

But if he's wondering what his chances might have been, the coaches of the National Basketball Association have the answer.

They made him the only unanimous choice on Newspaper Enterprise Association's 1964-65 All-America team, announced today.

In their exclusive annual poll for NEA, the nine coaches also selected Cazzie Russell of Michigan, Fred Hetzel of Davidson, Rick Barry of Miami (Fla.), Dave Stallworth of Wichita and Gail Goodrich of UCLA to the first team.

Due to another tie the second team also consisted of six men.

It includes Bill Cunningham of North Carolina, the late Wayne Estes of Utah State, Bill Buntin of Michigan, Matt Guokas Jr. of St. Joseph's (Pa.), the only sophomore on either team, Ollie Johnson of San Francisco and Dave Bing of Syracuse.

Voting was on a 2-1 basis—two points for the first team vote and one for a second.

Bradley, of course, had 18 points. He was followed by Russell with 17, Hetzel 15, Barry 14, Goodrich 13, Stallworth 13, Estes and Cunningham 4 each, and Guokas, Bing Johnson and Buntin 3 each.

Actually, Bradley's unanimous selection wasn't that surprising.

Perfectly Balanced

NBA coaches and players who have seen him throughout the last three years all had the same impression—he is the perfectly balanced ballplayer.

"It wasn't just his scoring that impressed me," said Ray Scott of the Detroit Pistons. "It was the way he handled the ball, passed off and generally took charge of his team."

Bradley, a member of the Olympic team last fall, can play either forward or guard, but has been up front more.

One game when he switched to guard—against Michigan in the Holiday Festival semifinals—will be remembered as one of the greatest individual performances in Madison Square Garden.

Before fouling out with a little more than four minutes remaining, Bradley had scored 41 points and had Princeton 12 points ahead of the nation's top team.

Michigan eventually won the game by two points, an even greater (although heart-breaking) tribute to Bradley. He means that much to his team.

Bradley's average this season has been 31 points a game, third highest in the country.

Average is 37

The leading scorer is Barry who has been averaging 37 points a game in addition to 17.9 rebounds a game, fifth in the nation.

Barry is an exceptionally smooth-moving forward who will go high on the NBA draft.

Dave Stallworth, the Wichita forward, also will be a high Choice. He was graduated at mid-semester after playing 16 games for the Shockers and scoring 25 points a game. Like Bradley, this is his second year on NEA's All-America.

The first-team center is 6-8 Fred Hetzel, the sixth-leading scorer (26.8), eight in field-goal percentage (.579) and 13th in rebounding (15.1).

Hetzel reminds a lot of people of Jerry Lucas (Cincinnati Royals), but his detractors say he lacks the desire to be a successful professional.

"I guess it's because he's sort of nonchalant about the whole thing when he's on the court," Davidson coach Lefty Driesell said.

"He's one of these kids who is so even-tempered that he always holds his poise. A change might hurt his style. Jerry Lucas was that type of ballplayer and they said the same things about him."

Russell and Goodrich are the first-team guards. Russell plays a lot like Oscar Robertson, and he still has another year at Michigan.

Big (6-6) and strong (218) he is an excellent driver and rebounder. He is the seventh leading scorer in the country with a 26.7 average.

Goodrich, meanwhile, averages 23.1, and is the reason UCLA is a strong contender for another national title. He has done a remarkable job running a team that depended so much on Walt Hazzard last year.

Surprise Choice

Matt Guokas Jr. was the surprise choice on the second team. Only a sophomore, he transferred back to St. Joseph's (where his father was a star in the 1930s) after a year at Miami (Fla).

He isn't much of a scorer but due to his excellent team play and defense, St. Joseph's coach Jack Ramsay calls him the key to the fine season the Hawks are enjoying.

Bing, the other guard, is a 6-3 leaper who averages 23.1 for Syracuse. He plays forward, too.

Johnson, the center from University of San Francisco, is fifth in field goal percentage (.589) and sixth in rebounding (17.1).

Before his untimely death early this month when he was electrocuted after touching a downed powerline, Wayne Estes of Utah State was the nation's second leading scorer (33.7).

Bill Buntin of Michigan and Bill Cunningham of North Carolina, the forwards, have been excellent all-round performers for three years. Cunningham averages 24.8 and is a tremendous jumper while Buntin, a bullish 235-pounder, does most of Michigan's rebounding.

UCCC Has Road Contests on Tap

Hoping to close their second season of varsity basketball on a winning note, the Senators of Ulster County Community College head into the homestretch with games at Oneonta State tonight and at New Paltz State on Saturday. They will oppose the jayvee teams from those schools.

Coach Al DiBernardo's cagers have managed three victories to date and have lost several games by 10 points or less.

The Senators have only one more home contest remaining and that's next Saturday night against Sullivan County.

NFL Continues To Ignore AFL

By PATRICK McNULTY
Associated Press Writer

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — The National Football League has decided NFL and rival American Football League players can mingle — but only under soft drink bottle caps.

Approval at the NFL annual meeting Thursday to continue a program mixing NFL and AFL player pop bottle pictures was rare evidence that the NFL is aware a rival league exists. Since the meetings began Monday, NFL owners have ignored the AFL like a distant relative.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle announced that the league is enthusiastic about backing for a second year a soft drink company's (Coca Cola) program that puts pictures of NFL and AFL players under bottle caps.

Prizes are given when photos of an entire team are collected. The promotion is excellent publicity for the NFL, Rozelle said, adding with a grin:

"This is in no way connected with a common draft between the two leagues."

Rozelle's joking reference underscored that "AFL" is almost a dirty word at the yearly NFL meeting. Representatives of the 14 clubs officially have kept a studied silence about the rival league that has triggered spiraling bids for untested college stars.

In other action, the NFL owners voted to continue the 40-player limit for each club. This was the limit that prevailed last year.

Howard Wants to Be First Negro Manager

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Elston Howard would like to become the first Negro manager in the big leagues, but first he thinks he has five more big years catching for the New York Yankees—hopefully at his present $70,000 salary.

All of which recalls to mind the day in 1954 when George Weiss, then general manager of the Yankees, called Bill Skiff, his chief scout, into his office.

"Bill, I want you to look at these four catchers," said Weiss. "I want you to recommend the one you think we should keep for ourselves."

The list that Weiss handed Skiff included Gus Triandos, Hal Smith, Lou Berberet and Howard. After a summer spent in the minors, checking managers, coaches, players and, most of all, using his own keen eyes, Skiff came up with his recommendation.

The No. 1 man on the list was Howard at Toronto, a young man who was converted from outfielder to catcher by the same Mr. Skiff.

.289 Average

The Yankees never have been sorry. In 10 years with the club he has built a lifetime batting average of .289. Ellie also won the Most Valuable Player Award in 1963 and the Babe Ruth Award as World Series hero in 1958.

He has played in 47 World Series games and six All-Star games.

Howard, who will be 35 next Tuesday, revealed his ambitions Thursday when he became the highest salaried catcher in baseball history at a reported $70,000. Yogi Berra's top pay was about $60,000.

"I figure on five more years as a player," he said. "When you lose a little of your reflexes and can't get around on the fast ball it is time to think of something else. But I haven't lost anything yet. If Johnny Keane wants me to catch every day I'll be in there. It makes no difference to me. I'll even go double in doubleheaders if he wants me.

"But when the time comes to step down I'd like to stay in the Yankee organization as a coach. I'd like to follow right behind Frank Crosetti.

"But if some day the manager's job were offered to me, I would accept and try my best to become successful as the first Negro manager."

Ellie, a right-handed batter, hit .313 last season, appearing in 150 games. He led major league catchers in fielding and hit 15 homers and drove in 84 runs.

Greco Bros. Has Locksley Lead

Greco Bros. Amusement won three points from The Bulls to retain their lead in the Locksley Archery league. The leaders have 53 points.

Joe Morley was high with 255 while teammates Joe Gulisano had 238 and John Giannene 203. Tony Serv scored 220 and Eddy Gardner 214 for The Bulls.

In the other match, Algonquian Bowmen swept Triple S's as Loren Wangsted scored 246, Walt Hillje 222 and Cliff Tienken 219 against a 216 for Doug Snyder.

Cablevision Cubs Archery Leaders

Cablevision won four points from Robin Hood to increase their Archery league to 18 points.

Frank Heinrich hit 245 and Bill Hart 226 for the winners. Jim Biancolo had 235 for Robin Hood.

Zeniths won four points from Injuneers as Adam Bronski hit 235 and Nick Alonge 239. John Palatini made 246 and Pete Keizer 213 for Injuneers.

A 218 by Dick Scism was high for Cablevision Bears in their four point win over Cablevision Sioux. Al Rinaldo scored 242 for the losing trio.

Oregon Track Coach Switching Colleges

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Oregon State University, which lost football coach Tommy Prothro to UCLA last month, now will lose track and field coach Sam Bell who switches to the University of California on July 1.

Bell's appointment to succeed retiring Brutus Hamilton, one-time coach of the U.S. Olympic team, was announced Thursday by the California Athletic Director Pete Newell.

Hamilton reaches the retirement age of 65 after being at California since 1932. Bell, 36, becomes only the third coach in the school's 65-year track history. Walter Christie served from 1900 to 1932 and then Hamilton took over.

Roberts - Rice Bridge Winners

Dr. John Roberts, Kingston, and Charles Rice, Saugerties, posted a fine 61½ per cent game to win North-South honors of the Glenerie Bridge Club fractional point game tournament at the Bridge studios.

High on the East-West side was the duo of William Laffey, Wilmington, Del., and P. B. Lodge, Port Ewen, with a 55½ per cent game.

Other North-South results:

Mrs. Marge Black, Shokan, and Walter Daumann, Pine Hill, 58½ per cent.

Ralph Wesselmann, Shokan, and Thomas Goodwin, Poughkeepsie, 53½ per cent.

Milton Dubin and Stanley Kaplan, Kingston, 52 per cent.

Other East-West results:

Dr. and Mrs. John Olivet, Kingston, 55 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Yallum, Kingston, 54 per cent.

Hilden Rector and John Chapman, Poughkeepsie, 53 per cent.

The club will hold its monthly master point game tonight, 8 p. m., at the studios. All bridge players are welcome.

Tulsa Scores 75-64 Upset Over Wichita

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maybe Wichita won't win the Missouri Valley Conference basketball championship after all.

The Wheatshockers, who lost All-America Dave Stallworth by graduation at midterm, lost their first MVC game of the season Thursday night. The Shockers, 10th-ranked nationally in The Associated Press poll, tumbled before the Tulsa Hurricanes 75-64 to open a two-game road trip.

Now the Shockers are in danger of being overhauled by the St. Louis Billikens, who are 7-3 in MVC play to Wichita's 8-1.

Wichita has five league games to play starting with North Texas at Denton, Tex. Saturday.

The North Texas Eagles indicated they may prove difficult for Wichita with their first MVC win ever over Cincinnati 54-53. Willie Davis' 18 points led the Eagles from an 11-point deficit in the game at Denton and broke their 10-game losing streak.

At Tulsa, Rick Park paced the Hurricane with 21 points. Jamie Thompson, Stallworth's replacement, scored 20 points for Wichita.

1st Without Estes

Utah State, playing its first game since the tragic death of All-America Wayne Estes on Feb. 8, edged Denver 67-66 on LeRoy Walker's two free throws in the closing seconds. The two conversions gave him 33 points for the game in Denver.

Denver also was the opposition for Utah State when Estes scored 48 points before he was electrocuted accidentally two hours later. Utah State won that game at Logan, 91-62.

In other games, Russ Gumina's free throw in the last 10 seconds gave San Francisco a 53-52 road victory over San Jose, Drake downed Bradley 72-57 at Des Moines, Virginia Military surprised George Washington 87-70 at Lexington, Va., and Texas Western whipped West Texas 71-45 at El Paso.

SPEAKING ABOUT A PURCHASE—Dan Topping, president of the New York Yankees, makes a statement in Washington at hearing on the Columbia Broadcasting System's purchase of the New York American League baseball team. Frick, Cronin Set to Testify On Yankee Sale

By G. MILTON KELLY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and American League President Joe Cronin, who may succeed him, go before investigating senators today to tell why they approved the sale of the New York Yankees to the Columbia Broadcasting System.

CBS President Frank Stanton set the background in testimony Thursday. He said CBS bought the American League champions as a good investment and not with any idea of gaining an unfair bulge over rival networks in bidding for profitable baseball broadcasting rights.

The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee is looking into the deal. It seeks to determine whether new antitrust laws are required to protect the public interest in big-time professional baseball, football, basketball and hockey.

Pending is a bill sponsored by Chairman Philip A, Hart, D-Mich., and other senators, to strip baseball of its existing blanket exemptions from antitrust action, but to spell out uniform and specific exemptions for the strictly sports aspects of the four sports.

Hart told Stanton and Yankee President Dan Topping that CBS, as owner of the Yankees, has achieved a place of vantage in baseball's councils which could give it an edge in big money bidding for broadcast rights.

"We didn't expect to come under the tent to get any special consideration," Stanton protested. He said CBS doesn't operate that way and that in any event "we would be voted against, 9-1, if we were doing anything improper."

between you'n'me

BY MURRAY OLDERMAN
SPORTS EDITOR
NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION

Gottlieb Favors Rough Stuff

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Eddie Gottlieb's title is special adviser and eastern consultant for the San Francisco Warriors, which means he has a piece of the action. But he also manages to be wherever Wilt Chamberlain now plays basketball for the Philadelphia 76ers and he now lives in Philadelphia again after a two-year hiatus at the Jack Tar Hotel out West. So it's not completely sure where his loyalties are.

What can be pinned down about Eddie is that he was in the cage when the South Philadelphia Hebrew Association started playing basketball in 1918 and gradually evolved into the famous Spahs, the only team in history to beat the old Original Celtics in a series.

He is the only original pioneer left in professional basketball, and Eddie is worried about the game.

"They should take out the rule that says basketball is a game of no contact," says Eddie, "and admit it's a game of contact. I consider it impossible for 10 men to be placed in a limited area (like a basketball court) without committing contact."

Eddie can remember the old days when they put all the guys in a cage that might be no more than 50x20 and said, "O.K., lions, up and at 'em." And you guarded a guy so closely that if he went to the washroom, you tagged along, too.

"In the old days, we advertised shutouts," remembers Eddie. "Honey Russell (former Seton Hall coach) used to brag about holding a guy not scoreless but shotless.

"If you played the same kind of game today, I don't think you'd have anybody come into the building."

What then is the problem?

"The one problem that has been with basketball from the earliest days to now," answers Eddie, "is the preponderance of foul shooting. Why, in 1907, you might see a game in which a team scored only two field goals and added 14 foul shots."

In today's game, the teams might average between 35 and 40 free throws each in one night.

"If you could get a game with only 15 fouls," says Eddie, "you got better basketball. The only way you can get it is to allow more contact."

So what's to prevent basketball from becoming a game in which each team lines up with five Jim Parkers on a side (he's the 275-pound guard of the Baltimore Colts) and forgets only the shoulder pads?

"We should say," continues Eddie, "there'll be no pushing, no holding and no deliberate roughness."

And does he worry whether the casualty insurance rates would go up on the players of the National Basketball Association?

"The colleges design their rules to protect the players from getting injured. Once we start paying them, out primary obligation is to give the fans a game they'll enjoy. We pay the players whether they're hurt or not."

The 24-second shooting limit which has turned the pro game into a "Run, Spot, run" scene of frenetic action doesn't bother Eddie at all.

"The trouble," he insists, "is that instead of shooting in 24 seconds, they shoot it in 12."

Rather than slow down the action he'd like to experiment with such changes as the elimination of no-profit fouls (where the game isn't stopped if the foul doesn't affect the flow of the play) or an option rule (where a fouled team might have a choice of taking the penalty or the ball.

There's no slowdown in this old boy's make-up.

Bobby Hull to Miss Couple of Games

CHICAGO (AP) — High-scoring Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks will miss the game at Toronto Saturday and is a doubtful starter against the Boston Bruins in Chicago Stadium Sunday, the National Hockey League team said today.

Hull, who lost the league scoring lead to teammate Stan Mikita in Wednesday's 5-4 victory over the New York Rangers, is hobbled with two injured knees.

In Wednesday's game, Hull was making a comeback after missing four games with a bad right knee. In the first period he pulled a ligament in his left knee.

701 for Bill Glaser

John Ferraro Raps 777 Series

John Ferraro may be in the twilight of his great bowling career, but he has a lot of strikes left in the wood.

The all-time Hudson Valley great ripped a blistering 777 triple in last night's session of the Invitational Classic league. He rapped 276, 255 and 246 for his total, the top triple in the city this season.

That hefty score by the "old pro" offset a career first 700 by Bill Glaser, who walloped 214, 279 and 208 for 701 in leading his Hurley Sand and Gravel teammates to a 3128 series.

There were 16 keglers in the 600 bracket with a 691 by rotund (Curly) Amendola showing the way. The hook shot artist opened with 186 and added 258 and 247 for his total.

Candy Spots Is Featured In $3 Million Transaction

MIAMI (AP) — The largest single thoroughbred transaction in American history was reported Thursday with a deal involving more than $3 million.

John R. Gaines, owner of Gainsway Farm at Lexington, Ky., announced he had purchased three well-known stallions from Rex Ellsworth and they would stand at stud in Kentucky.

Win 790G

The stallions are Candy Spots, 5-year-old winner of more than $790,000 who is scheduled to run in the Santa Anita Handicap Feb. 27; Olden Times, 7-year-old winner of $603,875, and Prove It, 8-year-old winner of $613,820.

"I gave Gaines an option on Prove It and Olden Times but not Candy Spots. He still is racing now. He'd go later. But the price mentioned still is incorrect. It never has been divulged."

Gaines, whose father founded a dog food fortune, is a 36-year-old third generation trotting horse breeder who began breeding thoroughbreds in 1962.

Ellsworth, of Chino, Calif., was America's leading breeder in 1962 and 1963 and his horses have won more than $10.5 million in the last 10 years.

Gaines said at a news conference at Hialeah that Ellsworth has retained 50 per cent interest in the three-horse package and syndicated shares to other members. He said final share distribution has been completed and the 14 syndicate members will be announced soon.

He said the syndicate members can have the service of all three stallions.

First reports of the sale came from the Lexington Leader.

In Chino, Ellsworth acknowledged a deal was in the works but gave no details and said it had not been completed.

Sprinklers Lead Still 3 Games

Mid-Hudson Auto Sprinklers had the Mardi Bob All-Star League lead shaved to three games after dropping a pair last night to Shaker, Travis and Quinn.

SPEAKING ABOUT A PURCHASE—Dan Topping, president of the New York Yankees, makes a statement in Washington at hearing on the Columbia Broadcasting System's purchase of the New York American League baseball team. Frick, Cronin Set to Testify On Yankee Sale

By G. MILTON KELLY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and American League President Joe Cronin, who may succeed him, go before investigating senators today to tell why they approved the sale of the New York Yankees to the Columbia Broadcasting System.

CBS President Frank Stanton set the background in testimony Thursday. He said CBS bought the American League champions as a good investment and not with any idea of gaining an unfair bulge over rival networks in bidding for profitable baseball broadcasting rights.

The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee is looking into the deal. It seeks to determine whether new antitrust laws are required to protect the public interest in big-time professional baseball, football, basketball and hockey.

Pending is a bill sponsored by Chairman Philip A, Hart, D-Mich., and other senators, to strip baseball of its existing blanket exemptions from antitrust action, but to spell out uniform and specific exemptions for the strictly sports aspects of the four sports.

Hart told Stanton and Yankee President Dan Topping that CBS, as owner of the Yankees, has achieved a place of vantage in baseball's councils which could give it an edge in big money bidding for broadcast rights.

"We didn't expect to come under the tent to get any special consideration," Stanton protested. He said CBS doesn't operate that way and that in any event "we would be voted against, 9-1, if we were doing anything improper."

Gottlieb Favors Rough Stuff

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Eddie Gottlieb's title is special adviser and eastern consultant for the San Francisco Warriors, which means he has a piece of the action. But he also manages to be wherever Wilt Chamberlain now plays basketball for the Philadelphia 76ers and he now lives in Philadelphia again after a two-year hiatus at the Jack Tar Hotel out West. So it's not completely sure where his loyalties are.

What can be pinned down about Eddie is that he was in the cage when the South Philadelphia Hebrew Association started playing basketball in 1918 and gradually evolved into the famous Spahs, the only team in history to beat the old Original Celtics in a series.

He is the only original pioneer left in professional basketball, and Eddie is worried about the game.

"They should take out the rule that says basketball is a game of no contact," says Eddie, "and admit it's a game of contact. I consider it impossible for 10 men to be placed in a limited area (like a basketball court) without committing contact."

Eddie can remember the old days when they put all the guys in a cage that might be no more than 50x20 and said, "O.K., lions, up and at 'em." And you guarded a guy so closely that if he went to the washroom, you tagged along, too.

"In the old days, we advertised shutouts," remembers Eddie. "Honey Russell (former Seton Hall coach) used to brag about holding a guy not scoreless but shotless.

"If you played the same kind of game today, I don't think you'd have anybody come into the building."

What then is the problem?

"The one problem that has been with basketball from the earliest days to now," answers Eddie, "is the preponderance of foul shooting. Why, in 1907, you might see a game in which a team scored only two field goals and added 14 foul shots."

In today's game, the teams might average between 35 and 40 free throws each in one night.

"If you could get a game with only 15 fouls," says Eddie, "you got better basketball. The only way you can get it is to allow more contact."

So what's to prevent basketball from becoming a game in which each team lines up with five Jim Parkers on a side (he's the 275-pound guard of the Baltimore Colts) and forgets only the shoulder pads?

"We should say," continues Eddie, "there'll be no pushing, no holding and no deliberate roughness."

And does he worry whether the casualty insurance rates would go up on the players of the National Basketball Association?

"The colleges design their rules to protect the players from getting injured. Once we start paying them, out primary obligation is to give the fans a game they'll enjoy. We pay the players whether they're hurt or not."

The 24-second shooting limit which has turned the pro game into a "Run, Spot, run" scene of frenetic action doesn't bother Eddie at all.

"The trouble," he insists, "is that instead of shooting in 24 seconds, they shoot it in 12."

Rather than slow down the action he'd like to experiment with such changes as the elimination of no-profit fouls (where the game isn't stopped if the foul doesn't affect the flow of the play) or an option rule (where a fouled team might have a choice of taking the penalty or the ball.

There's no slowdown in this old boy's make-up.

Bobby Hull to Miss Couple of Games

CHICAGO (AP) — High-scoring Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks will miss the game at Toronto Saturday and is a doubtful starter against the Boston Bruins in Chicago Stadium Sunday, the National Hockey League team said today.

Hull, who lost the league scoring lead to teammate Stan Mikita in Wednesday's 5-4 victory over the New York Rangers, is hobbled with two injured knees.

In Wednesday's game, Hull was making a comeback after missing four games with a bad right knee. In the first period he pulled a ligament in his left knee.

John Ferraro Raps 777 Series

John Ferraro may be in the twilight of his great bowling career, but he has a lot of strikes left in the wood.

The all-time Hudson Valley great ripped a blistering 777 triple in last night's session of the Invitational Classic league. He rapped 276, 255 and 246 for his total, the top triple in the city this season.

That hefty score by the "old pro" offset a career first 700 by Bill Glaser, who walloped 214, 279 and 208 for 701 in leading his Hurley Sand and Gravel teammates to a 3128 series.

There were 16 keglers in the 600 bracket with a 691 by rotund (Curly) Amendola showing the way. The hook shot artist opened with 186 and added 258 and 247 for his total.

Candy Spots Is Featured In $3 Million Transaction

MIAMI (AP) — The largest single thoroughbred transaction in American history was reported Thursday with a deal involving more than $3 million.

John R. Gaines, owner of Gainsway Farm at Lexington, Ky., announced he had purchased three well-known stallions from Rex Ellsworth and they would stand at stud in Kentucky.

Win 790G

The stallions are Candy Spots, 5-year-old winner of more than $790,000 who is scheduled to run in the Santa Anita Handicap Feb. 27; Olden Times, 7-year-old winner of $603,875, and Prove It, 8-year-old winner of $613,820.

"I gave Gaines an option on Prove It and Olden Times but not Candy Spots. He still is racing now. He'd go later. But the price mentioned still is incorrect. It never has been divulged."

Gaines, whose father founded a dog food fortune, is a 36-year-old third generation trotting horse breeder who began breeding thoroughbreds in 1962.

Ellsworth, of Chino, Calif., was America's leading breeder in 1962 and 1963 and his horses have won more than $10.5 million in the last 10 years.

Gaines said at a news conference at Hialeah that Ellsworth has retained 50 per cent interest in the three-horse package and syndicated shares to other members. He said final share distribution has been completed and the 14 syndicate members will be announced soon.

He said the syndicate members can have the service of all three stallions.

First reports of the sale came from the Lexington Leader.

In Chino, Ellsworth acknowledged a deal was in the works but gave no details and said it had not been completed.

Sprinklers Lead Still 3 Games

Mid-Hudson Auto Sprinklers had the Mardi Bob All-Star League lead shaved to three games after dropping a pair last night to Shaker, Travis and Quinn.

Would End Jobless Basis for U.S. Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., says he is attempting to eliminate the stipulation of high unemployment in making communities eligible for federal assistance under the accelerated public works program.

In a letter to constituents, Stratton said many Upstate New York communities face the heavy burden of having to finance construction of water and sewer lines and expanding and improving hospital facilities because they do not meet the current requirement for federal assistance.

Under the present law, 6 per cent or more of the total working force in an area has to be unemployed before a community is eligible for aid.

Stratton said the rate of unemployment has no real bearing on the need for this kind of aid. The program originally was designed to create jobs in areas of substantial and persistent unemployment.

Novel Experiment Designed To Help Stop Stuttering

By STAN BENJAMIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "If a person knows he is stuttering, well, I guess most people would say, 'Why doesn't he just slow down and stop doing it?'"

Dr. Joseph G. Agnello, 32, director of Temple University's speech and hearing sciences laboratory, who posed the question, knows it isn't that simple, although he wishes it were.

Agnello is one of the estimated two million Americans afflicted with the not-so-funny handicap.

Combining both personal experience and his rigorous professional training, Agnello has designed a novel experiment which he hopes will shed light on the causes of stuttering and perhaps contribute to its treatment.

Start of Experiment

In a way, the experiment dates back to a conversation in a neighbor's kitchen. Agnello was disturbed to find that his stuttering got worse when he sat near the kitchen table. His neighbor, a music teacher, touched the tabletop and noticed it was resonating, like the sounding-board of a musical instrument, to Agnello's voice.

This odd observation, plus more technical considerations, started Agnello wondering: Could stuttering be linked with the way a person hears his own voice?

Drowning out the voice with meaningless "white noise" through earphones, had been found to allow many stutterers to speak, temporarily, more easily.

"They've said it's a distraction," says Agnello. "But I think it's more than that. I think you've broken the loop."

Stumbling Loop

By "the loop" he means the theory that the stutterer's hearing of his own verbal stumble somehow sparks another stumble in a self-repeating cycle.

Agnello plans to return the stutterer's own voice, instead of white noise, through the earphones, but with a difference. Using a little electronic "gimmicking," he can change voice characteristics before they reach the ear, and observe their effect on speech.

Some preliminary testing has already been done with a delayed voice return, or "delayed sidetone".

One question to be answered is the length of the unit involved in a "loop" response: It could be anything from the highest audible sound wave to a whole word or phrase.

Delay Means Trouble

"Most of the literature says it's the syllable," Agnello explains. "We feel the trouble may be in the transition from syllable to syllable.

"A delay of about two tenths of a second causes the most trouble. That's about the duration of syllable, so they start overlapping," he adds. "They claim you just can't beat the system. It's bound to affect your speech in some way. It can even induce artificial stuttering in a normal person."

During the next year, aided by the university and a $3,600 grant from the National Institute of Mental Health, Agnello and his associates, assistant director Dr. Henry Goehl and research assistant Miss Hazel Coblenz, will run delayed "sidetone" and other tests on half a dozen stuttering subjects. He says:

"We're not so naive as to think we just stick a person in a machine and cure him. I'm saying it is highly possible to build a system to break that loop to serve as a reconditioner and aid in therapy."

Seek Loan Co. Bandit

ILION, N.Y. (AP) — Authorities continued their search today for a man who held up the Public Loan Co. Inc. in this Herkimer County village and fled with about $1,000.

Office manager Seymour L. Hatfield and a secretary, Mrs. Eleanor Blaise, were alone in the office when the man, described as tall and wearing work clothes, pulled a gun and told Mrs. Blaise to hand over whatever money was available.

Killed in Collision

CATTARAUGUS, N.Y. (AP)—Howard D. Hinman, 55, of (68 South St.) Cattaraugus, was killed Thursday night in the collision of two automobiles five miles north of this southwestern New York village.

Nine East-West pairs in the world championship team trials arrived at six hearts on almost nine different lines of bidding.

They were allowed to play the slam at eight tables and everyone made it without any trouble. At most tables South opened a diamond. Declarer would rise with dummy's ace and discard one of his clubs. Then he would lead a club toward his own hand. North would take the ace and lead a trump but it would be too late. East would still be able to ruff two clubs in dummy.

The slam would still make with a trump lead but it would require a successful spade finesse since after taking his ace of clubs North would lead a second heart.

One North-South pair refused to settle for letting their opponents play six hearts. Somehow or other North decided that his opponents were going to make six hearts and that a save was indicated. Hence he bid six no-trump over West's six hearts. This was a most unusual "unusual" no-trump and clearly asked South to bid his better minor suit. Therefore, South ignored his seven card spade suit and dutifully bid seven clubs.

West doubled and opened his singleton club and when the smoke cleared away South had managed to gather in only two tricks and East and West gathered in 3200 points instead of the mere 1430 that a slam would have brought them while North and South undoubtedly came close to establishing a record for being set in 1964.

4 Are Killed In Pennsy Crash

INDIANA, Pa. (AP)—A couple and two Indiana Hospital nurses were killed and a 10-year-old girl was critically injured Thursday night in a two-car head-on crash on Route 119 about three miles south of here.

State Police said a car driven by one of the nurses, veered across a grass divider strip on the four-lane highway and collided with an oncoming auto driven by George Shandick, 40, of Lucernemines.

Killed were Mary Lenz, 22, of Dixonville, Virginia Cummins, 22, of Homer City, the other nurse; Shandick; and his wife, June, 37.

The Shandicks' daughter, Peggy Lee, was reported in critical condition at Indiana Hospital.

Man Rescues Dog on Floe

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A Coast Guardsman donned his frogman suit Thursday and swam into the icy Niagara River to rescue a German shepherd marooned on an ice floe off the Buffalo shore.

The dog apparently swam the three-quarter-mile width of the river from its home in Fort Erie, Ont. The SPCA received telephone calls about the dog from neighborhood residents.

Boatswain Mate 2-C. Wayne Ashcraft, 29, of Clarksburg, W. Va., paddled on an ice floe toward the dog, lassooed it and pulled it to shore.

Thomas R. Collins, an SPCA agent, said the dog was in good condition and was returned to its owner, Mrs. Jean Maddox of Fort Erie.

Director of State Chamber Found Dead

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Leo H. East, 63, a director of the Empire State Chamber of Commerce, was found dead in his apartment Thursday with a bullet wound in his head.

Police said a 7.5-calibre German Mauser pistol was found near the body, which lay in a bed.

The body was discovered by a friend, Earl McDonough when he stopped by East's home.

East, whose wife died about a year ago, lived alone. He also was executive vice president of the Rochester Gas & Electric Corp.

An autopsy was to be performed today.

Would End Jobless Basis for U.S. Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., says he is attempting to eliminate the stipulation of high unemployment in making communities eligible for federal assistance under the accelerated public works program.

In a letter to constituents, Stratton said many Upstate New York communities face the heavy burden of having to finance construction of water and sewer lines and expanding and improving hospital facilities because they do not meet the current requirement for federal assistance.

Under the present law, 6 per cent or more of the total working force in an area has to be unemployed before a community is eligible for aid.

Stratton said the rate of unemployment has no real bearing on the need for this kind of aid. The program originally was designed to create jobs in areas of substantial and persistent unemployment.

Novel Experiment Designed To Help Stop Stuttering

By STAN BENJAMIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "If a person knows he is stuttering, well, I guess most people would say, 'Why doesn't he just slow down and stop doing it?'"

Dr. Joseph G. Agnello, 32, director of Temple University's speech and hearing sciences laboratory, who posed the question, knows it isn't that simple, although he wishes it were.

Agnello is one of the estimated two million Americans afflicted with the not-so-funny handicap.

Combining both personal experience and his rigorous professional training, Agnello has designed a novel experiment which he hopes will shed light on the causes of stuttering and perhaps contribute to its treatment.

Start of Experiment

In a way, the experiment dates back to a conversation in a neighbor's kitchen. Agnello was disturbed to find that his stuttering got worse when he sat near the kitchen table. His neighbor, a music teacher, touched the tabletop and noticed it was resonating, like the sounding-board of a musical instrument, to Agnello's voice.

This odd observation, plus more technical considerations, started Agnello wondering: Could stuttering be linked with the way a person hears his own voice?

Drowning out the voice with meaningless "white noise" through earphones, had been found to allow many stutterers to speak, temporarily, more easily.

"They've said it's a distraction," says Agnello. "But I think it's more than that. I think you've broken the loop."

Stumbling Loop

By "the loop" he means the theory that the stutterer's hearing of his own verbal stumble somehow sparks another stumble in a self-repeating cycle.

Agnello plans to return the stutterer's own voice, instead of white noise, through the earphones, but with a difference. Using a little electronic "gimmicking," he can change voice characteristics before they reach the ear, and observe their effect on speech.

Some preliminary testing has already been done with a delayed voice return, or "delayed sidetone".

One question to be answered is the length of the unit involved in a "loop" response: It could be anything from the highest audible sound wave to a whole word or phrase.

Delay Means Trouble

"Most of the literature says it's the syllable," Agnello explains. "We feel the trouble may be in the transition from syllable to syllable.

"A delay of about two tenths of a second causes the most trouble. That's about the duration of syllable, so they start overlapping," he adds. "They claim you just can't beat the system. It's bound to affect your speech in some way. It can even induce artificial stuttering in a normal person."

During the next year, aided by the university and a $3,600 grant from the National Institute of Mental Health, Agnello and his associates, assistant director Dr. Henry Goehl and research assistant Miss Hazel Coblenz, will run delayed "sidetone" and other tests on half a dozen stuttering subjects. He says:

"We're not so naive as to think we just stick a person in a machine and cure him. I'm saying it is highly possible to build a system to break that loop to serve as a reconditioner and aid in therapy."

Seek Loan Co. Bandit

ILION, N.Y. (AP) — Authorities continued their search today for a man who held up the Public Loan Co. Inc. in this Herkimer County village and fled with about $1,000.

Office manager Seymour L. Hatfield and a secretary, Mrs. Eleanor Blaise, were alone in the office when the man, described as tall and wearing work clothes, pulled a gun and told Mrs. Blaise to hand over whatever money was available.

Killed in Collision

CATTARAUGUS, N.Y. (AP)— Howard D. Hinman, 55, of (68 South St.) Cattaraugus, was killed Thursday night in the collision of two automobiles five miles north of this southwestern New York village.

The earth's crust is 73 miles thick. This discovery was made by an amateur golfer.

Mom — Are you spitting in the fish bowl?

Boy—No, but I'm coming close.

The law says girls are minors until they're twenty-one; but a lot of them are gold-diggers all of their lives.

Scotchman — One who wears kilts because they haven't any pockets.

Mrs. Gray — Is your husband fond of home cooking?

Mrs. Green—Oh, yes, we always dine at a restaurant that makes a specialty of it.

Don't worry because a rival imitates you. As long as he follows in your tracks, he can't pass you.

—Appendicitis—A modern pain, costing about $200 more than the old-fashioned stomach-ache.

One small boy came up with this defense of his report card:

Small Boy—I was the highest of all the kids who failed.

The old man noticed a young fellow with a bottle in one hand and his arm around a pretty girl.

"That dern whippersnapper is wastin' a lot of time," he mused, "he can drink when he gets old."

Parking Space—An unoccupied area along the curbing on the other side of the street.

Fred Davi Gets National Notice

Fred Davi, probably one of the top Yankee fans in the country, is now nationall known.

On page 5 of the Sport Annual Magazine, published by the editors of Sport, there is a World Series picture showing St. Louis Cardinal Manager John Keane, Commissioner Ford Frick and Yankee Manager Yogi Berra. In the background is Davi. The picture is the last one taken of Berra before he was fired by the Yankees.

Alfred, Gannon Upstate Winners

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The basketball action involving Upstate college teams centered around Western New York squads Thursday night as Eddy Mandell led Alfred to two school records and a 90-83 victory over visiting Brockport and Gannon, at Erie, Pa., crushed Buffalo State, 94-67.

Mandell's 26 points brought his total to 538 in 19 games this season, an all-time school high. The victory also marked the first time in Alfred's 48-year intercollegiate basketball history that a Saxon team has won 14 games. It has lost five contests so far.

Paul Buntich scored 20 points as Brockport suffered its seventh setback in 16 games.

Rick Barry Has Lead in Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Barry's national leading average has dropped to 36.5 per game, but the 6-foot-7 star of the University of Miami, Fla., Hurricanes still has a comfortable lead in college basketball's individual scoring race.

The weekly statistics released Thursday by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau show Barry leading with a 37.3 average on 821 points in 22 games through last Saturday.

Tuesday, however, Barry scored only 19 points against Stetson, dropping his average to 36.5 on 840 points in 23 games.

The late Wayne Estes of Utah State, who was accidentally killed on Feb. 8, remained in second place with a 33.7 average in the 19 games he played before his tragic accident.

Bill Bradley of Princeton retained the No. 3 spot with 31.1 with Dave Schellhase of Purdue fourth at 29.2.

40,572 Attend Yonkers Opening

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — If the opening night can be taken as a criterion, then harness racing in the New York area is in for its biggest season both from attendance and betting standpoints.

The thermometer hovered in the high 30s Thursday night yet 40,572 fans packed Yonkers Raceway for the largest turnout in the history of the track. They wagered $2,839,113, for the second highest handle in the history of the sport. The record of $3,191,020 was set at Yonkers, Nov. 30, 1962.

Cold front, who spent the time since the 1964 season closed Dec. 12 at New Egypt, N.J., defeated the Florida conditioned Irish Napoleon by one-half length in the $10,000 Snowball Stakes.

Vernon Dancer drove the 7-year-old pacing son of Adios over the one mile in 2:02 4-5 for a payoff of $4.90. Irish Napoleon, handled by Lucien Fontaine, whipped Vicki's Jet by 1¾ lengths for runner-up honors. Vicki's Jet was a member of the four-horse entry trained by the winning driver's brother, Stanley Dancer.

Cardiologist Reports Dirksen All Right

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen was treated Thursday night at the Capitol by a cardiologist for what the physician, Dr. Joseph A. Bailey, described as "a little tummy upset."

The Illinois senator, 69, was then taken by Bailey to the physician's home and later reported resting comfortably there.

"Everything is all right," the heart doctor said after putting Dirksen to bed. "He'll probably be back in his office tomorrow."

Bailey and a rescue squad car were called to the Capitol to attend Dirksen. The senator has been a patient of the cardiologist for years.

Charles Leads Tucson Tourney

By BOB EGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Bob Charles took a one-stroke lead into today's second round of the $46,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament, but a host of other parbusters were in hot pursuit.

Charles, a 28-year-old lefthander from New Zealand, shot a seven-under-par 65 Thursday over the gigantic Tucson National Golf Club course. The par-72, desert layout stretches 7,200 yards and has some of the nation's biggest greens.

"They're the biggest I've seen outside of St. Andrew's in Scotland," said Charles, who almost passed up the tournament.

Charles entered the tourney five minutes before the deadline Sunday. "I felt I was getting a little jaded after playing six straight weeks," he said. "However, my game was in good shape and I didn't have anywhere to go."

Frank Beard of Louisville, Ky., one of the hottest players on the tour, was just one stroke back at 66. Paul Bondeson was next at 67, and seven others were tied at 68.

Charles birdied two holes on the back nine, which he played first, then picked up five birds on the front nine. "My putter warmed up and that was the difference," said Charles.

Another player generally regarded as one of the game's better putters, Bill Casper Jr., was among those grouped at 68. With him were Tony Lema, Tom Shaw, Dave Marr, Dave Stockton and Ken Still.

Veteran Doug Sanders shot a first-round 71, but withdrew from the tournament when he learned of the death of his father, G. L. Sanders, 63, in his hometown of Cedartown, Ga.

Celts Need 5 To Clinch Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Celtics, on the threshold of their ninth straight National Basketball Association Eastern Division crown, need just eight wins in their last 15 games to establish an NBA record for regular season victories.

The Celtics reduced their magic number for clinching the Eastern title to five with a 119-109 victory over St. Louis Thursday night. In other games, Los Angeles downed Philadelphia 117-110 and Detroit edged San Francisco 107-106.

Sam Jones and John Havlicek took turns blitzing the Hawks as Boston ran its record to 53-12 and moved 12 games in front of second-place Cincinnati. Jones whipped in 18 of his 27 points in the first period as the Celtics jumped off quickly. Then Havlicek scored 14 in the third period. He wound up with 28.

Boston set the NBA record for most victories with 60 in 1961-62 and fell one short of that mark last year. The Celts need play only slightly better than .500 ball — 8-7 — in their remaining games to break the record. And .500 is hardly a Celtic-like pace.

Fred Davi Gets National Notice

Fred Davi, probably one of the top Yankee fans in the country, is now nationall known.

On page 5 of the Sport Annual Magazine, published by the editors of Sport, there is a World Series picture showing St. Louis Cardinal Manager John Keane, Commissioner Ford Frick and Yankee Manager Yogi Berra. In the background is Davi. The picture is the last one taken of Berra before he was fired by the Yankees.

Alfred, Gannon Upstate Winners

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The basketball action involving Upstate college teams centered around Western New York squads Thursday night as Eddy Mandell led Alfred to two school records and a 90-83 victory over visiting Brockport and Gannon, at Erie, Pa., crushed Buffalo State, 94-67.

Mandell's 26 points brought his total to 538 in 19 games this season, an all-time school high. The victory also marked the first time in Alfred's 48-year intercollegiate basketball history that a Saxon team has won 14 games. It has lost five contests so far.

Paul Buntich scored 20 points as Brockport suffered its seventh setback in 16 games.

Rick Barry Has Lead in Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Barry's national leading average has dropped to 36.5 per game, but the 6-foot-7 star of the University of Miami, Fla., Hurricanes still has a comfortable lead in college basketball's individual scoring race.

The weekly statistics released Thursday by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau show Barry leading with a 37.3 average on 821 points in 22 games through last Saturday.

Tuesday, however, Barry scored only 19 points against Stetson, dropping his average to 36.5 on 840 points in 23 games.

The late Wayne Estes of Utah State, who was accidentally killed on Feb. 8, remained in second place with a 33.7 average in the 19 games he played before his tragic accident.

Bill Bradley of Princeton retained the No. 3 spot with 31.1 with Dave Schellhase of Purdue fourth at 29.2.

40,572 Attend Yonkers Opening

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — If the opening night can be taken as a criterion, then harness racing in the New York area is in for its biggest season both from attendance and betting standpoints.

The thermometer hovered in the high 30s Thursday night yet 40,572 fans packed Yonkers Raceway for the largest turnout in the history of the track. They wagered $2,839,113, for the second highest handle in the history of the sport. The record of $3,191,020 was set at Yonkers, Nov. 30, 1962.

Cold front, who spent the time since the 1964 season closed Dec. 12 at New Egypt, N.J., defeated the Florida conditioned Irish Napoleon by one-half length in the $10,000 Snowball Stakes.

Vernon Dancer drove the 7-year-old pacing son of Adios over the one mile in 2:02 4-5 for a payoff of $4.90. Irish Napoleon, handled by Lucien Fontaine, whipped Vicki's Jet by 1¾ lengths for runner-up honors. Vicki's Jet was a member of the four-horse entry trained by the winning driver's brother, Stanley Dancer.

Cardiologist Reports Dirksen All Right

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen was treated Thursday night at the Capitol by a cardiologist for what the physician, Dr. Joseph A. Bailey, described as "a little tummy upset."

The Illinois senator, 69, was then taken by Bailey to the physician's home and later reported resting comfortably there.

"Everything is all right," the heart doctor said after putting Dirksen to bed. "He'll probably be back in his office tomorrow."

Bailey and a rescue squad car were called to the Capitol to attend Dirksen. The senator has been a patient of the cardiologist for years.

Charles Leads Tucson Tourney

By BOB EGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Bob Charles took a one-stroke lead into today's second round of the $46,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament, but a host of other parbusters were in hot pursuit.

Charles, a 28-year-old lefthander from New Zealand, shot a seven-under-par 65 Thursday over the gigantic Tucson National Golf Club course. The par-72, desert layout stretches 7,200 yards and has some of the nation's biggest greens.

"They're the biggest I've seen outside of St. Andrew's in Scotland," said Charles, who almost passed up the tournament.

Charles entered the tourney five minutes before the deadline Sunday. "I felt I was getting a little jaded after playing six straight weeks," he said. "However, my game was in good shape and I didn't have anywhere to go."

Frank Beard of Louisville, Ky., one of the hottest players on the tour, was just one stroke back at 66. Paul Bondeson was next at 67, and seven others were tied at 68.

Charles birdied two holes on the back nine, which he played first, then picked up five birds on the front nine. "My putter warmed up and that was the difference," said Charles.

Another player generally regarded as one of the game's better putters, Bill Casper Jr., was among those grouped at 68. With him were Tony Lema, Tom Shaw, Dave Marr, Dave Stockton and Ken Still.

Veteran Doug Sanders shot a first-round 71, but withdrew from the tournament when he learned of the death of his father, G. L. Sanders, 63, in his hometown of Cedartown, Ga.

Celts Need 5 To Clinch Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Celtics, on the threshold of their ninth straight National Basketball Association Eastern Division crown, need just eight wins in their last 15 games to establish an NBA record for regular season victories.

The Celtics reduced their magic number for clinching the Eastern title to five with a 119-109 victory over St. Louis Thursday night. In other games, Los Angeles downed Philadelphia 117-110 and Detroit edged San Francisco 107-106.

Sam Jones and John Havlicek took turns blitzing the Hawks as Boston ran its record to 53-12 and moved 12 games in front of second-place Cincinnati. Jones whipped in 18 of his 27 points in the first period as the Celtics jumped off quickly. Then Havlicek scored 14 in the third period. He wound up with 28.

Boston set the NBA record for most victories with 60 in 1961-62 and fell one short of that mark last year. The Celts need play only slightly better than .500 ball — 8-7 — in their remaining games to break the record. And .500 is hardly a Celtic-like pace.

How We Got Involved

BEFORE 1954

During the 10-year war between France and Communist forces, the United States kept a small group in Viet Nam to oversee military and economic aid programs for France. The French were defeated in May 1954 at Dienbienphu and withdrew. The Geneva accord two months later divided Viet Nam along the Hai River (17th parallel).

1955-1960

After the French left, several hundred American military and economic advisers started working under Ngo Dinh Diem, first premier of the new South Viet Nam.

1961-1964

AUGUST 5, 1964

First direct confrontation between American and North Vietnamese troops ordered by President Johnson after Red torpedo boats fired on U.S. ships in Gulf of Tonkin U.S. planes bombed Red naval bases in North Viet Nam.

TODAY

Quid pro quo fighting continues. When Communists attack U.S. installations in South Viet Nam, U.S. fighter-bomber squadrons attack North Vietnamese outposts. American dependents have been ordered to leave Saigon. Shipments of military hardware---including missiles---and personnel have been increased. Nearly 30,000 American servicemen are now scattered throughout South Viet Nam.

Communist Empire Might Be Lost

Assumption on Bombing: Red Giants Do Not Want Any War

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration's willingness to bomb bases in Communist North Viet Nam, risking war with Russia and Red China, seems based on the assumption neither of the two Red giants wants to go to war.

The reason is human enough. The Russians, better than the Chinese, know the danger once a nuclear war starts: The Communist empire built up over the past 48 years might be lost.

And the Chinese, still many years behind the United States and Russia in industrial and nuclear development, know the fatal disadvantage in an all-out war with a country like this, which has nuclear bombs.

Long Effort at Stake

Besides, like the Russians, the Chinese have a lifetime effort at stake. They've come a long way since their bedraggled days in the 1920s. One wild mistake now could wipe out all their gains.

Stalin was the prime example of this kind of caution. From the time he took power in the 1920s until World War II he concentrated on building up Russia internally without the risk of foreign adventures or pushing his neighbors.

After the war, when he thought it was safe, he grabbed the European satellites but, when he tried his luck in Iran and the United States challenged him, he backed off.

Meanwhile, after the war he pushed Russian industrial and nuclear expansion until the Soviets became one of the two great post-war powers. In short, he figured time was on Russia's side, and he took his time.

Feels Same Way

It can be taken for granted the Chinese and his successors in the Kremlin, with all they have at stake, feel the same way.

If time is on their side then sooner or later, through subversion or weakness among their neighbors or guerrilla warfare that avoids the nuclear kind, they can hope to take over the nations around them.

That it is at the root of the Johnson administration's thinking comes through pretty well in statements by President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara this week.

Will Persist in Defense

Johnson, who this month ordered three bomber strikes on North Viet Nam while Russia and Red China howled, said: "We must all understand that we will persist in the defense of freedom and our continuing actions will be those which are justified and those that are made necessary by the continuing aggression of others.

"These actions will be measured and fitting and accurate."

And Thursday, McNamara reported to the House Armed Services Committee that the Red Chinese "have shown great caution when confronted with a determined display of military power."

He said Russia and Red China can be expected to stir up as much trouble as they can "whenever and wherever they can do so safely, without a 'head-on' collision with U.S. military power."

Key to Stopping Reds

And he described the American determination to stay in South Viet Nam as the key to stopping Red expansion not only in Asia but in other developing nations.

He balanced his optimism about the present mood of the Red Chinese against the thought that in time they may have a nuclear missile system. "This is a most distrubing long-range prospect," he said.

But even at this moment, in any continued bombing of North Vietnamese bases, the Johnson administration will be dabbling in a risk of its own. It may be wrong in assuming Russia and Red China won't chance war if for some reasons of their own, even though now unimagined they ignore caution and try their luck.

That's why any extension of the war to North Viet Nam is still hair-raising.

Can Talks to Open

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—The United Steelworkers Union is scheduled to resume contract talks with the can industry next Tuesday in New York but it still was not known today when negotiations with the steel industry will resume.

The resumption of talks with the can industry was announced Thursday by USW President David J. McDonald.

Negotiations with both industries have been in recess since before the union's election.

The outcome of the contest between McDonald and I. W. Abel, secretary-treasurer, remains unsettled with the official count of the votes to begin Monday.

The contract with the can industry expires March 1.

Lands Safely

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — An X15 rocketed 3,500 miles an hour above 90,000 feet when one of the two main landing skids popped out Wednesday, but Air Force Maj. Robert Rushworth brought the ship in safely.

Rushworth said later he was unaware of the test flight mishap until just before he landed, when a chase pilot told him. Rushworth lowered the other skid and set down on a dry lake bed as usual. Cause of the accident was not determined.

Fruit-Growing, Corn Top Products

County Lists Agricultural Statistics for Past Year

Fruit growing continues to be the major agricultural commodity of Ulster County while sweet corn production on some 6,000 acres of land continues to be the most important vegetable grown. The number of dairymen in Ulster County continues to decline although those dairymen who remain have increased the number of high producing cows kept on their farms. The poultry industry continues to make a slow expansion.

These facts are revealed in the annual report of the Ulster County Agricultural Department, Ulster County Exension Service Association.

In his annual report for 1964 William H. Palmer, Ulster County Agricultural Agent, calls attention to the fact that the Agricultural Department completed 50 years of service and assistance to the people of Ulster County during 1964. His report highlights a few of the activities in major areas of responsibility for the year. A statistical report has been prepared to give an account of contacts with people in carrying out the work.

To conduct the work, a staff of two Agricultural agents, two fulltime secretaries and one part time secretary were employed at the office located at 74 John Street.

Supervision of the work was under the leadership of nine farmers, serving as an executive committee, in cooperation with a representative from the College of Agriculture and a representative from the Board of Supervisors.

Membership in the organization continued to remain at its 10-year average level. Work with non-farm families increased in areas of lawns, flowers, insects about the home and other agriculture related aspects. To handle this ever increasing demand, the use of mass publicity through radio, newspapers and bulletins were employed.

During the year educational assistance was given to county people in community problems ranging from ater resource Development to Town and County Planning. It is anticipated greater efforts will be required in these areas of concern, as well as Rural Area Development programs in the future.

With fruit growing the major agricultural commodity of the county an educational proggram on insect and disease control and cultural practices has been offered by daily radio programs.

Costs of production are a major concern and special studies were made among Ulster County farmers on costs related to farm practices. The results were published as a Cornell University Bulletin 1001 in 1964 and is the basis for farm management work with fruit growers in the Hudson Valley.

Research is the basis of education. To improve on its findings and application in Ulster County, the new Horticultural Research Laboratory at Highland is invaluable. Efforts of the Ulster County Fruit Commodity Committee have been very effective in directing activities carried out by the professional staff, to meet needs of local fruit growers.

Vegetabels

Sweet corn production on some 6,000 acres of land continues to be the most important vegetable grown but program efforts continued in 1964 to try to find some alternative crops that will compliment sweet corn production as a source of income. Such crops as soybeans, melons carrots and other vegetables show some promise. Further experimental work is required before any large acreage is diverted to these crops.

The Sweet Corn Variety Trials in Ulster County serve as a testing ground for annual appraisal of newer offerings by plant breeders. Results of these tests are used as a basis for varieties to plant not only in Ulster County but in all Hudson Valley counties. Varieties as Gold Cup and Golden Security were first proven of value in variety trials before farmers planted over 50 per cent of their acreage to these varieties in 1964.

Dairy

While the number of dairymen in Ulster County continues to decline, those dairymen who remain have increased the number of high producing cows kept on the farm. The net result in the dairy picture for Ulster County is little or in change in the gross dollar return from dairy and dairy products but a higher gross return fo rdairy products to the individual who remains as a dairy farmer.

Production of high quality roughage and production of sufficient amounts of that roughage is essential for the success of dairying in Ulster County. The Agricultural Extension Service dairy program has been geared to supplying fiield crop information to Ulster dairymen that will enable them to produce maximum roughage for their herd.

A very intensive farm field study was made on 14 Ulster County dairy farms to determine the success of the crop program on these individual farms. Results of this study will be widely used in future field crop education programs for all Ulster dairymen.

Use of insecticides to control alfalfa weevil, a rapidly increasing insect pest of alfalfa in Ulster County, has became a must on many farms in the area. Pesticide used may pose the problem of producing a residue in milk. Possible pesticides in milk may come from contaminated feed materials from several sources. Drift of acceptable insecticides on fruit or vegetable farms could contaminate hay of pasture on the adjoining farm. This problem is being carefully studied as a cooperative program between the local Extension Service, Cornell University Department of Entomology, New York farmers and the Department of Agriculture and Markets. It is felt that a workable solution to a possible problem will result from this study.

Driest on Record

The report states that 1964 growing season was the driest on record at the Weather Bureau for Ulster County. Early frost, killing frost dated Sept. 16, made the growing season the shortest in recent years. Dairymen were able to harvest a fair to good first cutting of hay, second and third cuttings of alfalfa were generally not big enough to pay for the harvesting costs. Corn silage gave fair to good yields on those fields that were planted early and were fertilized with recommended amounts of plant food. In total, Ulster dairymen harvested about 60 per cent of a normal hay and silage crop.

As a result of information supplied by the Extension Service and Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office, Ulster County was declared a drought area. As such, Ulster County dairymen became eligible to purchase at 75 per cent of parity Commodity Credit Corporation surplus corn to use as a hay replacer. Feeding this surplus will enable Ulster dairymen to feed their dairy herd through the 1964-65 winter feeding season with less total drain on their financial position. This corn will replace relatively high priced hay which otherwise would have been purchased for winter feed.

Poultry

The Ulster County poultry industry continued to make a slow expansion and the number of laying birds increased slightly, however, the number of replacement pullets grown in Ulster County has continued to increase each year. Construction of several laying houses was begun in the late months of 1964, the report states, and it can be expected that there will be a sizeable increase in the number of birds on the Ulster County poultry farms in 1965.

Egg prices were slightly below 1963 level, but the efficient well operated poultry farm was able to show some return on the investment.

Disposal of fowl type meat at the end of the 12-18 months laying season poses a serious problem. In recent years poultry buyers paid enough for fowl to return the chick cost, 38 to 40 cents. At the present time, the report states, fowl is returning 5-6 cents per pound and with 4-4½ pound birl the total value is 20-25 cents. There are fewer buyers of fowl in the area and poultrymen have real serious troubles finding a buyer who will take the fowl off the farm at any price.

Manure disposal by Ulster poultrymen continues to be a serious problem. Most of the poultry farms have little if any land of their own and must depend on a neighbor dairymen or crops producer to supply land for the spreading of the poultry manure. Odors from poultry manure can create a problem with the neighbors who are not farmers, the report states. Rural non-farm owners, bungalow owners, and hotel operators have complained of the problem.

The Agricultural Extension Service organized a group which was called a Waste Disposal Committee to work with and study the problem. The committee is made up of poultrymen, public officials, homeowners, hotel representatives and the Agricultural Extension Agent. The committee was able to draw up a set of guide lines which are being followed. The cooperation of the group has been excellent and has greatly relieved pressures which had been brought about by demand for some sort of action, the report states.

The Extension Service poultry program is placing emphasis on poultry farm management, cost control, modern up-to-date construction and careful planning for handling of the manure disposal problem.

Statistics

In carrying out the work of the Agricultural Department for 1964 there were 1,708 farm visits and some 30,000 miles were traveled; 1,493 people visited the office for personal assistance and 5,238 phone calls were made. Special training meetings organized totaled 85 with 3,472 people attending. Individual personal letters answered total 916. In addition, 85 service letters were prepared and sent to 27,870 individuals. Bulletins continued to serve a large group as 5,459 were distributed. There were 242 radio programs and 77 news articles were written and published.

In addition a County Agricultural News publication was prepared each month and sent to all members.

"All in all," Palmer reports, 1964 was a most active year for the Agricultural Department.

Editor, The Freeman:

A TRIBUTE

Though I agree that the Urban Renewal Project is worthwhile, and essential for the ultimate good of Kingston, still I feel a sadness when I think that the buildings must be torn down, and I hope I always remember:

The buildings, worn with age, crippled, but full of memories of days forever gone. They are looked at now with scorn, wounded by small, indifferent boys with large stones and left untended and uncared for until no trace of the once beautifying dress of paint is left to cover their nudity. And yet, somehow, if you can see past the ugliness, there is a dignity about them still. For they were once the very heart of this city and stood with pride to contemplate the people scurrying here and there.

The theatre now boarded up with its letters in drunken disarray was once a place of gay lights, expectant crowds and excited children, with the privilege of making sad hearts gay, lonesome hearts content, if even for a little while and to watch the entwining arm, the swift kiss that is the beginning of first love.

The hotel with its wrought-iron balconies where once beautiful women sat contentedly catching the evening breeze. Where laughter was heard, tears were shed and excitement infected the very walls of the building.

And now these buildings that have seen and heard so much, that whisper together of shared experiences after darkness conceals them from indifferent and intolerant eyes, must be stripped of their remaining dignity as each board is grudgingly released to excavation mens' hands.

In themselves, they symbolize the progress man has made in such a few years, and now they are to be destroyed so that progress can once again advance, but though destroyed by man they will never be forgotten by history.

Rules Equity Lacking In $50,000 Seed Loan

RANDOLPH, N.Y. (AP)—The president of the State Bank of Randolph, which has refused to loan $50,000 to a seed company, says the company has failed to obtain additional equity capital necessary for the loan.

A. G. Crowley said in a statement Thursday that the Randolph Seed Co. had not been successful in raising more equity capital, a requirement of which he said the company had been informed.

Lilienthal has maintained that the bank has disapproved of the way he had been expanding his business.

He also said he had applied to the Small Business Loan Administration in Washington and was conferring with another bank and several private investors about a loan.

Lilienthal and a half-dozen of his workers have been picketing the bank for two weeks, hoping to convince Crowley to grant them a second $50,000 loan to enable the 58-year-old company to continue in business.

Cherry Pie Promotion

WASHINGTON (AP)—George Washington was a Virginian but Capitol Hill will celebrate his birthday next Tuesday with pie made from New York State cherries.

The pie promotion is scheduled for the day after Washington's Birthday because Feb. 22 is a holiday.

Rep. Frank Horton, R-N.Y., said today the 900 pounds of cherries to be used will be shipped by the New York Cherry Growers Association from producers in his district.

The pies will be baked by the House restaurants and served free to patrons of restaurants and cafeterias on the House side of the Capitol.

Communist Empire Might Be Lost

Assumption on Bombing: Red Giants Do Not Want Any War

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration's willingness to bomb bases in Communist North Viet Nam, risking war with Russia and Red China, seems based on the assumption neither of the two Red giants wants to go to war.

The reason is human enough. The Russians, better than the Chinese, know the danger once a nuclear war starts: The Communist empire built up over the past 48 years might be lost.

And the Chinese, still many years behind the United States and Russia in industrial and nuclear development, know the fatal disadvantage in an all-out war with a country like this, which has nuclear bombs.

Long Effort at Stake

Besides, like the Russians, the Chinese have a lifetime effort at stake. They've come a long way since their bedraggled days in the 1920s. One wild mistake now could wipe out all their gains.

That it is at the root of the Johnson administration's thinking comes through pretty well in statements by President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara this week.

Johnson, who this month ordered three bomber strikes on North Viet Nam while Russia and Red China howled, said: "We must all understand that we will persist in the defense of freedom and our continuing actions will be those which are justified and those that are made necessary by the continuing aggression of others.

"These actions will be measured and fitting and accurate."

And Thursday, McNamara reported to the House Armed Services Committee that the Red Chinese "have shown great caution when confronted with a determined display of military power."

He said Russia and Red China can be expected to stir up as much trouble as they can "whenever and wherever they can do so safely, without a 'head-on' collision with U.S. military power."

Key to Stopping Reds

And he described the American determination to stay in South Viet Nam as the key to stopping Red expansion not only in Asia but in other developing nations.

He balanced his optimism about the present mood of the Red Chinese against the thought that in time they may have a nuclear missile system. "This is a most distrubing long-range prospect," he said.

But even at this moment, in any continued bombing of North Vietnamese bases, the Johnson administration will be dabbling in a risk of its own. Fruit-Growing, Corn Top Products

County Lists Agricultural Statistics for Past Year

Fruit growing continues to be the major agricultural commodity of Ulster County while sweet corn production on some 6,000 acres of land continues to be the most important vegetable grown. The number of dairymen in Ulster County continues to decline although those dairymen who remain have increased the number of high producing cows kept on their farms. The poultry industry continues to make a slow expansion.

These facts are revealed in the annual report of the Ulster County Agricultural Department, Ulster County Exension Service Association.

In his annual report for 1964 William H. Palmer, Ulster County Agricultural Agent, calls attention to the fact that the Agricultural Department completed 50 years of service and assistance to the people of Ulster County during 1964. His report highlights a few of the activities in major areas of responsibility for the year. A statistical report has been prepared to give an account of contacts with people in carrying out the work.

To conduct the work, a staff of two Agricultural agents, two fulltime secretaries and one part time secretary were employed at the office located at 74 John Street.

Membership in the organization continued to remain at its 10-year average level. Work with non-farm families increased in areas of lawns, flowers, insects about the home and other agriculture related aspects. To handle this ever increasing demand, the use of mass publicity through radio, newspapers and bulletins were employed.

During the year educational assistance was given to county people in community problems ranging from ater resource Development to Town and County Planning. It is anticipated greater efforts will be required in those areas of concern, as well as Rural Area Development programs in the future.

With fruit growing the major agricultural commodity of the county an educational proggram on insect and disease control and cultural practices has been offered by daily radio programs.

Costs of production are a major concern and special studies were made among Ulster County farmers on costs related to farm practices. The results were published as a Cornell University Bulletin 1001 in 1964 and is the basis for farm management work with fruit growers in the Hudson Valley.

Research is the basis of education. To improve on its findings and application in Ulster County, the new Horticultural Research Laboratory at Highland is invaluable. Efforts of the Ulster County Fruit Commodity Committee have been very effective in directing activities carried out by the professional staff, to meet needs of local fruit growers.

Vegetabels

Sweet corn production on some 6,000 acres of land continues to be the most important vegetable grown but program efforts continued in 1964 to try to find some alternative crops that will compliment sweet corn production as a source of income. Such crops as soybeans, melons carrots and other vegetables show some promise. Further experimental work is required before any large acreage is diverted to these crops.

The Sweet Corn Variety Trials in Ulster County serve as a testing ground for annual appraisal of newer offerings by plant breeders. Results of these tests are used as a basis for varieties to plant not only in Ulster County but in all Hudson Valley counties. Varieties as Gold Cup and Golden Security were first proven of value in variety trials before farmers planted over 50 per cent of their acreage to these varieties in 1964.

Dairy

While the number of dairymen in Ulster County continues to decline, those dairymen who remain have increased the number of high producing cows kept on the farm. The net result in the dairy picture for Ulster County is little or in change in the gross dollar return from dairy and dairy products but a higher gross return fo rdairy products to the individual who remains as a dairy farmer.

Production of high quality roughage and production of sufficient amounts of that roughage is essential for the success of dairying in Ulster County. The Agricultural Extension Service dairy program has been geared to supplying fiield crop information to Ulster dairymen that will enable them to produce maximum roughage for their herd.

A very intensive farm field study was made on 14 Ulster County dairy farms to determine the success of the crop program on these individual farms. Results of this study will be widely used in future field crop education programs for all Ulster dairymen.

Use of insecticides to control alfalfa weevil, a rapidly increasing insect pest of alfalfa in Ulster County, has became a must on many farms in the area. Pesticide used may pose the problem of producing a residue in milk. Possible pesticides in milk may come from contaminated feed materials from several sources. Drift of acceptable insecticides on fruit or vegetable farms could contaminate hay of pasture on the adjoining farm. This problem is being carefully studied as a cooperative program between the local Extension Service, Cornell University Department of Entomology, New York farmers and the Department of Agriculture and Markets. It is felt that a workable solution to a possible problem will result from this study.

Driest on Record

The report states that 1964 growing season was the driest on record at the Weather Bureau for Ulster County. Early frost, killing frost dated Sept. 16, made the growing season the shortest in recent years. Dairymen were able to harvest a fair to good first cutting of hay, second and third cuttings of alfalfa were generally not big enough to pay for the harvesting costs. Corn silage gave fair to good yields on those fields that were planted early and were fertilized with recommended amounts of plant food. In total, Ulster dairymen harvested about 60 per cent of a normal hay and silage crop.

As a result of information supplied by the Extension Service and Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office, Ulster County was declared a drought area. As such, Ulster County dairymen became eligible to purchase at 75 per cent of parity Commodity Credit Corporation surplus corn to use as a hay replacer. Feeding this surplus will enable Ulster dairymen to feed their dairy herd through the 1964-65 winter feeding season with less total drain on their financial position. This corn will replace relatively high priced hay which otherwise would have been purchased for winter feed.

Poultry

The Ulster County poultry industry continued to make a slow expansion and the number of laying birds increased slightly, however, the number of replacement pullets grown in Ulster County has continued to increase each year. Construction of several laying houses was begun in the late months of 1964, the report states, and it can be expected that there will be a sizeable increase in the number of birds on the Ulster County poultry farms in 1965.

Egg prices were slightly below 1963 level, but the efficient well operated poultry farm was able to show some return on the investment.

Disposal of fowl type meat at the end of the 12-18 months laying season poses a serious problem. In recent years poultry buyers paid enough for fowl to return the chick cost, 38 to 40 cents. At the present time, the report states, fowl is returning 5-6 cents per pound and with 4-4½ pound birl the total value is 20-25 cents. There are fewer buyers of fowl in the area and poultrymen have real serious troubles finding a buyer who will take the fowl off the farm at any price.

Manure disposal by Ulster poultrymen continues to be a serious problem. Most of the poultry farms have little if any land of their own and must depend on a neighbor dairymen or crops producer to supply land for the spreading of the poultry manure. Odors from poultry manure can create a problem with the neighbors who are not farmers, the report states. Rural non-farm owners, bungalow owners, and hotel operators have complained of the problem.

The Agricultural Extension Service organized a group which was called a Waste Disposal Committee to work with and study the problem. The committee is made up of poultrymen, public officials, homeowners, hotel representatives and the Agricultural Extension Agent. The committee was able to draw up a set of guide lines which are being followed. The cooperation of the group has been excellent and has greatly relieved pressures which had been brought about by demand for some sort of action, the report states.

The Extension Service poultry program is placing emphasis on poultry farm management, cost control, modern up-to-date construction and careful planning for handling of the manure disposal problem.

Statistics

In carrying out the work of the Agricultural Department for 1964 there were 1,708 farm visits and some 30,000 miles were traveled; 1,493 people visited the office for personal assistance and 5,238 phone calls were made. Special training meetings organized totaled 85 with 3,472 people attending. Individual personal letters answered total 916. In addition, 85 service letters were prepared and sent to 27,870 individuals. Bulletins continued to serve a large group as 5,459 were distributed. There were 242 radio programs and 77 news articles were written and published.

In addition a County Agricultural News publication was prepared each month and sent to all members.

"All in all," Palmer reports, 1964 was a most active year for the Agricultural Department.

621 Delaware Avenue
Kingston, N. Y.

A TRIBUTE

Though I agree that the Urban Renewal Project is worthwhile, and essential for the ultimate good of Kingston, still I feel a sadness when I think that the buildings must be torn down, and I hope I always remember:

The buildings, worn with age, crippled, but full of memories of days forever gone. They are looked at now with scorn, wounded by small, indifferent boys with large stones and left untended and uncared for until no trace of the once beautifying dress of paint is left to cover their nudity. And yet, somehow, if you can see past the ugliness, there is a dignity about them still. For they were once the very heart of this city and stood with pride to contemplate the people scurrying here and there.

The theatre now boarded up with its letters in drunken disarray was once a place of gay lights, expectant crowds and excited children, with the privilege of making sad hearts gay, lonesome hearts content, if even for a little while and to watch the entwining arm, the swift kiss that is the beginning of first love.

The hotel with its wrought-iron balconies where once beautiful women sat contentedly catching the evening breeze. Where laughter was heard, tears were shed and excitement infected the very walls of the building.

And now these buildings that have seen and heard so much, that whisper together of shared experiences after darkness conceals them from indifferent and intolerant eyes, must be stripped of their remaining dignity as each board is grudgingly released to excavation mens' hands.

In themselves, they symbolize the progress man has made in such a few years, and now they are to be destroyed so that progress can once again advance, but though destroyed by man they will never be forgotten by history.

Rules Equity Lacking In $50,000 Seed Loan

RANDOLPH, N.Y. (AP)—The president of the State Bank of Randolph, which has refused to loan $50,000 to a seed company, says the company has failed to obtain additional equity capital necessary for the loan.

A. G. Crowley said in a statement Thursday that the Randolph Seed Co. had not been successful in raising more equity capital, a requirement of which he said the company had been informed.

Lilienthal has maintained that the bank has disapproved of the way he had been expanding his business.

He also said he had applied to the Small Business Loan Administration in Washington and was conferring with another bank and several private investors about a loan.

Lilienthal and a half-dozen of his workers have been picketing the bank for two weeks, hoping to convince Crowley to grant them a second $50,000 loan to enable the 58-year-old company to continue in business.

Cherry Pie Promotion

WASHINGTON (AP)—George Washington was a Virginian but Capitol Hill will celebrate his birthday next Tuesday with pie made from New York State cherries.

The pie promotion Is scheduled for the day after Washington's Birthday because Feb. 22 is a holiday.

Rep. Frank Horton, R-N.Y., said today the 900 pounds of cherries to be used will be shipped by the New York Cherry Growers Association from producers in his district.

The pies will be baked by the House restaurants and served free to patrons of restaurants and cafeterias on the House side of the Capitol.

The Mariner II spacecraft detected no openings in the dense cloud mass starting about 45 miles above the surface of Venus and reaching an altitude as high as 60 miles.

Cold Period Is Outlook

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from 7 a.m. Saturday to 7 a.m. Thursday.

Eastern New York—A rather cold period is indicated, with temperatures generally well below normal. Coldest weather at beginning and early next week. Some brief moderation Sunday. Precipitation will be light. Some flurries or brief periods of light snow Sunday and early next week, with snow squalls at times off Lake Ontario into the western Adirondacks. Weather conditions too cold for best flow of maple sap. Improving conditions likely near the end of the period.

Western New York—Temperatures will average 1-4 degrees below normal. Warming Sunday, then colder Monday and warmer Wednesday. Scattered snow flurries Saturday and Sunday or Monday, expected to total one-quarter to one-half inch melted.

Temperature normals — Daytime highs 27-35. Nighttime lows 7-19.

Negligence Case Verdict Is $722

A verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $722.50 was returned Thursday by the jury in a negligence action tried in County Court before County Judge Raymond J. Mino. Robert Klonfas and Josephine Klonfas of Woodstock brought an action on contract against Michael Milinka to recover damages, alleging that work done had caused water to flood a garage.

In a third party action Michael Hilinka against Anthony J. Scarcelli Excavation company the jury returned a no cause verdict.

Plaintiffs alleged they purchased a house and had a blacktop drive installed. Water ran into the garage when it rained.

Plaintiff Klonfas was represented by Schirmer and Carnright. Hilinka was represented by Robert Ortale and Anthony J. Scarcelli, third party defendant, was represented by Daniel Lamb.

22 Are Arrested After Brooklyn Boycott Clashes

NEW YORK (AP) — For the second straight day, a mob of Negro teen-agers ran wild on downtown Brooklyn streets, throwing bricks at policemen and smashing store windows in an outgrowth of a school boycott.

Police, who used 100 officers including mounted patrolmen to quell Thursday's disorder, arrested 22 persons. Seventeen of them were between the ages of 13 and 18, picked up on disorderly conduct charges.

Five Adults Seized

Five adults, including a minister, were arrested for violating the state education law by promoting school truancy.

Eighteen were arrested Wednesday on similar charges as 400 Negroes clashed with 100 white students from St. John's University, next to the Board of Education building.

The latest rioting, which lasted for one hour at its height and stretched for four hours in sporadic outbreaks, was triggered when police apprehended a 14-year-old boy on a picket line because he was carrying what appeared to be a gun. It was a plastic water pistol.

Charges Brutality

The Rev. Milton A. Galamison, the Negro boycott leader, charged police with brutality.

"Down South they have used dogs against us. Here they are using police on horseback and this is worse than using dogs."

Galamison insisted the boycott, which started Jan. 19 and now has affected 27 schools and caused absences of 5,500 pupils, is aimed at speeding up integration plans outlined by the state education commissioner.

James B. Donovan, school board president, denounced "irresponsible leaders" of the boycott.

Donovan said children were being used "shamelessly as pawns."

"We must all understand that the present boycott is not a legitimate demonstration for civil righs," he said in a statement. "It is lawless, scornful of the welfare and educational needs of children, and desperate to the point of inciting violence."

Murphy Denies Charges

Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy, termed "ridiculous" charges mounted police rode too close to demonstrators.

"People ought to obey the law and keep their children in school," he said.

At a dinner meeting Thursday night, State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz deplored "reckless criticism of our uniformed police officers, who are vital to the public welfare."

Feed Program Benefits Cited

Farmers who enroll in the 1965 Feed Grain Program will have definite advantages over farmers who do not enroll, it was announced today by Joseph Sauer, chairman of the ASCS County Committee of Ulster County.

First, he said, a participating grower earns a diversion payment for reducing his 1965 acreage of corn, barley or grain sorghum, thereby assuring himself of a substantial income from the diverted acres regardless of drought, flood, or crop disease.

Secondly, Sauer said, he receives a price support payment on the acres of feed grain he grows (if only part of his base is diverted and he elects to grow some grain.)

As soon as possible after enrollment an advance payment of approximately one-half of the total diversion payment will be mailed to the farmer.

To take part, Sauer said, a grower diverts at least 20 per cent of the farm's feed grain base into an approved conserving use and carrying out the other provisions of the program. If more than minimum acreage is diverted a higher rate of payment applies and the payment rates are increased over those of 1964.

Farmers may file applications at their ASCS County Office, 54 John Street, anytime, Monday through Friday from 8 to 5 p. m. Sign-up extends through March 26.

Lane Is Backed By Conway for New District Job

Greene County Republican Assemblyman Clarence D. Lane, 42, a former school teacher and now operator of a Windham resort, will have the endorsement of Albany County Republican Chairman Edward S. Conway for reelection in the newly created 111th Assembly District this fall should Assemblyman Lane seek the nomination.

Conway yesterday threw his support to the Greene County assemblyman Willard C. Drumm,, 67, Niverville farmer who specializes in breeding dairy cattle, was elected to the Assembly in 1942. Drumm says he is a "potential" candidate in the new district.

The new 11th District includes Greene and Columbia Counties together with the towns of Coeymans, Westerlo, Rensselaerville, Berne, Knox and New Scotland in Albany County.

Conway said he hoped Lane would be the choice of the three county Republican committees when they meet later in the year to choose Senate and Assembly candidates.

Lane was elected to the Assembly from Greene County in 1962.

A primary fight could erupt, however, if the committees do not reach agreement and both Assemblyman Lane and Assemblyman Drumm decide to seek the post in the new district.

$1,000 in Articles Taken From Home

A summer home on Mountain Road, Gardiner, was burglarized some time Wednesday night or early Thursday morning and articles valued at over $1,000 are missing.

Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone reported the summer home of Dr. Stewart Alexander of New York City had been entered through breaking the latch on a rear door and two Browning automatic guns, a rifle, a portable TV set, assorted linens, a case of whiskey and a quantity of men's and women's clothing was taken.

The breakin was discovered by Mrs. Schilling, a neighbor who acts as caretaker.

Assisting in the investigation was Deputy Sheriff Jack Seaholm.

Cold Period Is Outlook

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from 7 a.m. Saturday to 7 a.m. Thursday.

Eastern New York—A rather cold period is indicated, with temperatures generally well below normal. Coldest weather at beginning and early next week. Some brief moderation Sunday. Precipitation will be light. Some flurries or brief periods of light snow Sunday and early next week, with snow squalls at times off Lake Ontario into the western Adirondacks. Weather conditions too cold for best flow of maple sap. Improving conditions likely near the end of the period.

Western New York—Temperatures will average 1-4 degrees below normal. Warming Sunday, then colder Monday and warmer Wednesday. Scattered snow flurries Saturday and Sunday or Monday, expected to total one-quarter to one-half inch melted.

Temperature normals — Daytime highs 27-35. Nighttime lows 7-19.

Negligence Case Verdict Is $722

A verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $722.50 was returned Thursday by the jury in a negligence action tried in County Court before County Judge Raymond J. Mino. Robert Klonfas and Josephine Klonfas of Woodstock brought an action on contract against Michael Milinka to recover damages, alleging that work done had caused water to flood a garage.

In a third party action Michael Hilinka against Anthony J. Scarcelli Excavation company the jury returned a no cause verdict.

Plaintiffs alleged they purchased a house and had a blacktop drive installed. Water ran into the garage when it rained.

Plaintiff Klonfas was represented by Schirmer and Carnright. Hilinka was represented by Robert Ortale and Anthony J. Scarcelli, third party defendant, was represented by Daniel Lamb.

22 Are Arrested After Brooklyn Boycott Clashes

NEW YORK (AP) — For the second straight day, a mob of Negro teen-agers ran wild on downtown Brooklyn streets, throwing bricks at policemen and smashing store windows in an outgrowth of a school boycott.

Police, who used 100 officers including mounted patrolmen to quell Thursday's disorder, arrested 22 persons. Seventeen of them were between the ages of 13 and 18, picked up on disorderly conduct charges.

Five Adults Seized

Five adults, including a minister, were arrested for violating the state education law by promoting school truancy.

Eighteen were arrested Wednesday on similar charges as 400 Negroes clashed with 100 white students from St. John's University, next to the Board of Education building.

The latest rioting, which lasted for one hour at its height and stretched for four hours in sporadic outbreaks, was triggered when police apprehended a 14-year-old boy on a picket line because he was carrying what appeared to be a gun. It was a plastic water pistol.

Charges Brutality

The Rev. Milton A. Galamison, the Negro boycott leader, charged police with brutality.

"Down South they have used dogs against us. Here they are using police on horseback and this is worse than using dogs."

Galamison insisted the boycott, which started Jan. 19 and now has affected 27 schools and caused absences of 5,500 pupils, is aimed at speeding up integration plans outlined by the state education commissioner.

James B. Donovan, school board president, denounced "irresponsible leaders" of the boycott.

Donovan said children were being used "shamelessly as pawns."

"We must all understand that the present boycott is not a legitimate demonstration for civil righs," he said in a statement. "It is lawless, scornful of the welfare and educational needs of children, and desperate to the point of inciting violence."

Murphy Denies Charges

Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy, termed "ridiculous" charges mounted police rode too close to demonstrators.

"People ought to obey the law and keep their children in school," he said.

At a dinner meeting Thursday night, State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz deplored "reckless criticism of our uniformed police officers, who are vital to the public welfare."

Rosendale-Tillson GOP Meeting

A regular meeting of the Rosendale Republican Club will be held Tuesday 8 p. m. at the Community Hall, Maple Hill. All members may attend.

Feed Program Benefits Cited

Farmers who enroll in the 1965 Feed Grain Program will have definite advantages over farmers who do not enroll, it was announced today by Joseph Sauer, chairman of the ASCS County Committee of Ulster County.

First, he said, a participating grower earns a diversion payment for reducing his 1965 acreage of corn, barley or grain sorghum, thereby assuring himself of a substantial income from the diverted acres regardless of drought, flood, or crop disease.

Secondly, Sauer said, he receives a price support payment on the acres of feed grain he grows (if only part of his base is diverted and he elects to grow some grain.)

As soon as possible after enrollment an advance payment of approximately one-half of the total diversion payment will be mailed to the farmer.

To take part, Sauer said, a grower diverts at least 20 per cent of the farm's feed grain base into an approved conserving use and carrying out the other provisions of the program. If more than minimum acreage is diverted a higher rate of payment applies and the payment rates are increased over those of 1964.

Farmers may file applications at their ASCS County Office, 54 John Street, anytime, Monday through Friday from 8 to 5 p. m. Sign-up extends through March 26.

Lane Is Backed By Conway for New District Job

Greene County Republican Assemblyman Clarence D. Lane, 42, a former school teacher and now operator of a Windham resort, will have the endorsement of Albany County Republican Chairman Edward S. Conway for reelection in the newly created 111th Assembly District this fall should Assemblyman Lane seek the nomination.

Conway yesterday threw his support to the Greene County assemblyman Willard C. Drumm,, 67, Niverville farmer who specializes in breeding dairy cattle, was elected to the Assembly in 1942. Drumm says he is a "potential" candidate in the new district.

The new 11th District includes Greene and Columbia Counties together with the towns of Coeymans, Westerlo, Rensselaerville, Berne, Knox and New Scotland in Albany County.

Conway said he hoped Lane would be the choice of the three county Republican committees when they meet later in the year to choose Senate and Assembly candidates.

Lane was elected to the Assembly from Greene County in 1962.

A primary fight could erupt, however, if the committees do not reach agreement and both Assemblyman Lane and Assemblyman Drumm decide to seek the post in the new district.

$1,000 in Articles Taken From Home

A summer home on Mountain Road, Gardiner, was burglarized some time Wednesday night or early Thursday morning and articles valued at over $1,000 are missing.

Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone reported the summer home of Dr. Stewart Alexander of New York City had been entered through breaking the latch on a rear door and two Browning automatic guns, a rifle, a portable TV set, assorted linens, a case of whiskey and a quantity of men's and women's clothing was taken.

The breakin was discovered by Mrs. Schilling, a neighbor who acts as caretaker.

Assisting in the investigation was Deputy Sheriff Jack Seaholm.
